Decoration Day Gone.
Gold Standard Also Gone.
Preferred Stock Lists.
Triumphant Gandhi.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER Decoration Day has passed. Flowers are on the graves, the dead rest peacefully. Men and women, old and young, have revived memories of war and sorrow.

The next thing is to see that this country is not pushed or pulled into another war, unless to protect this nation from attack.

THE UNITED STATES will keep out of war by keeping out of other nations' affairs and attending to its own business. This government is not responsible for China or Japan, France or England, Italy or Germany, or anything except THE UNITED STATES.

By some means, Americans should be able to impress on their government their unwillingness, again, to be robbed through bond issues for Europe's benefit, or conscripted, shot or gassed, to oblige those that start European wars.

Decoration Day should remind us not only of the heroic dead; it should also remind us not to be foolish.

TWENTY-EIGHT Republicans joined Democrats in a vote, 283 to 57, in favor of the theory that this country can get along without the gold standard. We have some billions of gold in the Treasury so that we are not quite "off the gold basis."

No other country has as much, and if some sloppy, sentimental Congressional or other authority does not hand over our gold to Europe, we shall keep that "gold rabbit's foot" to prove our "gold respectability."

At least 122,000,000 out of 123,000,000 Americans have got along without gold thus far. Our kind of dollar will buy anything for sale in the United States, and that ought to be a good enough dollar, with or without gold behind it.

"PREFERRED STOCK lists," with opportunities to make money are not new. Long ago just after Roswell P. Flower had been governor of New York the late Anthony P. Brady, able business man, owner of street car lines and other public utilities, said to this writer:

"That young man Hearst must be a queer individual. I wanted to give him a chance to make a fortune easily, and waited two hours outside his office to tell him about it. I could not see him. What's the matter with him?"

MR. BRADY wished Mr. Hearst to go in with him and Mr. Flower and and buy for his, Mr. Hearst's account, 100,000 shares of Brooklyn Rapid Transit, then selling around eight dollars a share.

When Mr. Brady inquired about Mr. Hearst's "queerness," Brooklyn Rapid Transit was selling above one hundred and thirty dollars a share.

"IF HEARST had taken my advice and gone in with Flower and me he would have a profit of now over ten million dollars," said Mr. Brady.

When Mr. Hearst heard of it, he sent this message:

"Please tell Mr. Brady I do not interest myself financially in public service investments, as it is the business of newspapers sometimes to criticize and fight public service enterprises."

GANDHI THE sincere ends his 21-day fast weighing 80 pounds. The western world cannot understand what good it does India's millions of "untouchables" to have an old man risk death by starvation, but Gandhi and the "untouchables" know.

Gandhi says he does not know what further work God has for him, but whatever it may be he is ready. It is to be hoped that the old man will be allowed to rest, eat and enjoy the thanks of those for whom he has risked death, before any further sacrifice is called for.

MEANWHILE, you notice that the British, who never starve themselves, represent the power that has diminished plague and famine in India, to say nothing of discouraging marriages of little ten-year-old girls to old men and burning young widows alive with the corpses of their old husbands. Civilization is better than starvation.

BRITISH AND French newspapers unite in attacks on the United States because Uncle Sam has abandoned the gold standard, without asking permission. England had done the same thing, but what England does is one thing, what the United States does is another. The London Times says the Roosevelt gold plan is "repudiation."

The London Times and other European papers should know about repudiation.

Of one thing President Roosevelt may be sure—the fact that France and England don't like what he has done proves that it is a good thing FOR THE UNITED STATES. That will satisfy him. He was not elected in Paris or London.

SOME IN Europe that own United States bonds and now learn that they are to get American paper money and not gold for them are shocked. They have our sympathy; for we have also had some shocks, for instance, in connection with ten thousand millions of good money sent abroad, we are not going to get ANYTHING, not even paper money.

Auto Bombed in War To Rule City's Vice

SARAH SCANGA, 8 LOUISE SCANGA, 9

Sarah and Louise, unhurt in the terrific bomb blast that today wrecked his car and injured Cousin Ralph, 25, because for once they didn't enter his car at the garage to be driven to school. They were waiting at the corner! This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

FOURTH BLAST INJURES MAN

The bomb battle for control of Pittsburgh's protected rackets today almost took the lives of two children, schoolgirls of 8 and 9 years.

Hidden under the front seat of an auto in Bloomfield, the explosive charge ripped the car apart and left the owner, Ralph Scanga, 25, so badaly injured his life is despaired of.

But for singular good luck, Schanga's two cousins, 8-year-old Sarah and 9-year-old Louise Scanga, would have been in the car with him. They were, in fact, waiting nearby for him to drive them to school.

GIRLS SEE BLAST

They heard the blast and saw the car burst into flames as it rattled down the cobblestones of Lorigan street, Scanga hanging limp from the side.

A half block distant the car crashed into steps that connect Lorigan with Taylor street. Rescuers pulled Scanga from the ruins and extinguished the flames.

This is the fourth bombing in the East End District in less than three weeks and the second in two days. Shortly after midnight yesterday the Ban-Box Night Club, owned by Tom (The Greek) Contis, was blasted while young couples danced.

Scanga, single, lives at 472 Pearl street and keeps his car in a rear garage.

Usually he drives his young cousins to Immaculate Conception School.

CHILDREN SAVED

Today they were ready, as usual, to run back to the garage and pile into the car for the short ride to their classes.

But, for some unexplained reason, Scanga told them to wait at

Hyperion Victor in Derby

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 31.—In honor of the family the classic was named after, Lord Derby's Hyperion won the English Derby here today.

King Salmon was second and Statesman, one of the three American-owned entries, third.

Hyperion paid 6 to 1, King Salmon 7 to 1 and Statesman 20 to 1.

The field of 24 got away from the post in glorious weather before a crowd of almost a million, which included King George, Queen Mary and other members of the royal family.

In addition to the King and Queen, the Prince of Wales was in his place in the royal enclosure. Also present were Prince George, the Duke and Duchess of York and Princess Mary, daughter of the King and Queen, as well as her husband, the Earl of Harewood.

Chief American hopes were centered on Statesman. The other American entries besides Statesman were Myosotis, owned by Washington Singer of the sewing machine family and Franz Hals, owned by John McCormack, the noted tenor.

Woman, 2 Girls Safe; Policeman Slain as Convicts Flee

LANSING, Kan., May 31.—(AP.)—A policeman was slain at Chetopa, Kan., and an Oklahoma filling station operator was kidnaped and robbed today as the 11 convicts who made a daring break from the Kansas Penitentiary here yesterday continued to elude a host of officers searching the Southwest.

The six hostages taken by the convicts yesterday—Warden Kirk Prather, two prison guards and three women whose automobile was commandeered—were safe, having been released by the two groups of fugitives who went separate ways after the escape.

Otto L. Durkee, 42, night policeman, was shot to death in an alley at Chetopa, Kan., early today in a gunfight with unidentified assailants.

Authorities expressed the belief he may have encountered some of the six convicts who escaped into the hills of Northeast Oklahoma

FORBES FIELD, May 31.—Threatening clouds did not scare the outpouring of women and girls who rushed to Forbes Field this afternoon to see the Pirates and Chicago Cubs fight it out in the last game of their holiday period series.

Tomorrow is the regularly scheduled Ladies' Day, but there will be no contest tomorrow or Friday in Pittsburgh so the home management moved up the gratis event in deference to the ladies.

Steve Swetonic, who pitched a shutout victory for the Pirates on the last Ladies' Day here, warmed up to face the Cubs. He was to be opposed by Charley Root, who also is a righthander.

Machado Reported Ready to Flee Cuba

NATIONWIDE TRADE GAIN REPORTED

Roper Given Data On Improved Job, Business Conditions

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Assurance that conditions in many lines of industry have improved in recent weeks was received today by Secretary Roper, encouraging the administration's business-boosting efforts.

From all over the nation came reports of gains—slight, for the most part, but noticeable—in response to an invitation from the Department of Commerce for facts and conservative opinion.

Most responses said employment was increasing in line with the upward trend of business. Several expressed hope the Roosevelt legislation to bring about a "partnership" between the federal government and industry would be hastened.

Based on information from 127 affiliated organizations, the National Association of Credit Men, said inquiries and requests for credit information established "a new peak, indicating unusual interest and accelerated volume of business with emphasis on business placed by houses previously practically out of the market."

AUTO SALES UP

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce said:

"Since the low point of the bank holiday, production and sales of motor vehicles have shown a steady increase, some of which was no doubt due to the postponed demand resulting from closed banks and some due to the usual spring seasonal rise.

"However, production of 189,284 units in April exceeded April a year ago by 22 per cent, indicating an upturn greater than seasonal."

Employment and production in the cotton textile industry this month were said to "compare favorably" with conditions prevail-

Zangara Victim Visits Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Miss Margaret Crews, of Newark, N. J., one of the five persons wounded in Miami last February when Guiseppe Zangara made an unsuccessful attack on President Roosevelt's life, was among the President's callers today and received his congratulations on her recovery.

This committee will report directly to the White House.

Exchange National Pays 2nd Dividend

Depositors of the closed Exchange National Bank today received another dividend, amounting to 15 per cent and totaling $550,000, Robert R. Gordon, receiver, announced. Several months ago an initial dividend of 33⅓ per cent was paid.

Congress Disregards Will of the Nation, Declares W. R. Hearst

THE PEOPLE who seem to know least about their business, if it is a business, are the politicians.

Congressmen are always timid to the point of cowardice because they know nothing about popular sentiment.

This is singular but it is so.

The Seventy-second Congress, for instance, which was perhaps the dumbest Congress in the history of the nation—unless the Seventy-third Congress shall surpass it—knew absolutely nothing about the sentiment of the general public on the question of prohibition.

Furthermore, they refused to be informed. They were years behind the times, and dumbly insisted upon remaining that way.

There were innumerable evidences of the change of public sentiment in regard to prohibition.

It was obvious that the American people are an intelligent people and that the conspicuous evils of intemperance and criminality under prohibition must inevitably have their educational effect on an intelligent people.

These conditions did have their educational effect on the public but they had no effect on Congress.

THE CAREFUL polls taken by the Literary Digest and the Hearst papers showed an overwhelming trend of public opinion against prohibition and in favor of more liberal sumptuary measures.

Nothing of this kind in any way convinced Congress.

Congressmen went right ahead voting dry and drinking wet, not because they believed in prohibition, but because they dully thought the public still believed in it.

CONGRESS EVEN REFUSED TO ALLOW THE QUESTION OF THE REPEAL OF THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT TO GO TO A POPULAR VOTE.

STOCKS RISE IN BIG TRADING

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—Stocks whirled along at a dizzy pace today, resuming their rise after heavy profit-taking during the forenoon.

Most commodity markets ruled strong, influenced partly by the rise in prices yesterday on such exchanges as were open, but numerous reactions occurred later when the dollar strengthened against European currencies. Cotton soared about $1.50 a bale to new highs, then pared its gains, while wheat tended lower. Sugar and silver futures rallied, bar silver reaching 35⅛ cents an ounce, up ⅝ of a cent from Monday.

Markets continued to get encouragement from trade news, which included word that steel production had risen to 41 per cent of capacity and that domestic copper had reached 7¾ cents a pound, the highest price in a year.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The name of former President Herbert Hoover was drawn into the Senate banking inquiry today when Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, sought to link him to a sale of stock by J. P. Morgan & Co. to Edgar Rickard, Denver millionaire.

Rickard was a business associate of Mr. Hoover for many years.

He was awarded 400 shares of United Corporation stock by the Morgan firm at $75 a share—when it was selling for $99 on the market.

QUIZ BY COSTIGAN

Costigan asked George Whitney, a Morgan partner, about Rickard:

"Do you know him?"

Whitney said:

"I know of him. He is an engineer in New York."

"Is he formerly of Denver?"

"I presume so."

"Is he one of the financially prominent persons to whom you offered stock or was there some other reason for including him on the list?"

Whitney said:

"I don't know who suggested him. We never had any business relations with him."

"Is this the Mr. Rickard who is reputed to be the representative of ex-President Herbert Hoover?"

"I don't know enough about him to know."

Whitney said he would inquire later to learn who had recommended the inclusion of Rickard's name on the list.

Gunmen Line Up Ten, Kill One, Wound Five

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—Gunmen who copied a crimsoned page from Chicago's book of crime fled into hiding today after killing one man and wounding five persons.

Employing the technique of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of Chicago, four killers lined 10 men and a 15-year-old boy against the wall of the Castle Cafe, tiny eating house, late last night. They said:

"Now, you rats, how do you like this?"

They poured a pistol volley into their victims and fled while the teeming East Side neighborhood screamed in panic.

Police found Charles (Buster) Dominico dead and two men seriously wounded. The other two men who were shot escaped with minor hurts, as did Bernard Blaustein, 15.

Curiosity put the boy before the murder squad. He was standing outside the cafe when he saw the killers enter. As he drew near to peer in, the door was flung open. One of the gunmen said:

"Come in."

The boy entered and was lined up with the men.

Mellon Tax Inquiry By Senate Doubtful

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Whether the Senate will stage another income tax probe this session, with Andrew W. Mellon in the seat now occupied by J. P. Morgan, remains in doubt.

Adjournment is set for June 10. Action on a resolution, introduced by Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, is necessary to start the Mellon investigation.

The Justice Department, however, plans to go ahead with its inquiry into the tax payments of the Mellon family. Attorney General Cummings ordered that probe several weeks ago following charges by Representative McFadden that the former secretary of the Treasury had set up a company, solely owned by Mellon and members of his family, with a view of distributing Mellon's wealth without payment of inheritance taxes.

Meanwhile Senator Reed, a close

JOB BILL TAX FOUGHT BY INDUSTRY

Petroleum Institute Attacks Plan to Boost Gas Tax

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Indignation of the automotive, petroleum and other industries against discriminatory taxes when a general manufacturers' sales tax would be fair to all, was being registered today before the Senate Finance Committee.

Revenue sections of President Roosevelt's industrial recovery bill place the tax burden upon the gasoline industry, F. B. Dow, of the American Petroleum Institute, told the committee.

The proposed three-fourth cent a gallon increase in federal tax on gasoline, Dow said, is exhorbitant, as it would raise more than three times the sum of $400,000,000 to be spent on road projects.

OTHERS HEARD

Others heard by the committee included Miss Julia Henry, of the General Federation of Women's Club, who asked protection for labor against present industry; Prof. Irving Fisher, James A. Brady, representing the theater industry; H. N. McCue, Mayor of Boise, Ida., and Hubert B. Fuller, of the Ohio Petroleum Marketing Association.

Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, chairman of the committee, said public hearings would close today, and the committee immediately will meet in secret to act on the measure. A favorable report was expected by Saturday.

A free-for-all fight over the bill in the Senate is in prospect. Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona, served notice he would fight for a "buy American" amendment to the bill.

URGES BUY U. S.

He insisted all of the material and supplies to be used in the $3,300,000,000 public works program must be produced only in America, unless unreasonable prices are asked. The bill, as passed by the House, carried such a provision, and Ashurst indicated he would FIGHT FOR INSERT A

That there will be Senate revision of the House "soak the middle class" tax plan seemed apparent.

Growing opposition to the industries control section in the bill was emphasized by preparation of the National Association of Manufacturers for a conference here Saturday.

Opposition is centered chiefly on provisions to give President Roosevelt power to force codes of fair competition on industries which fail to make voluntary agreements.

Chamber to Hear Industry Bill Talk

Henry L. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will speak on "The Industrial Control Bill and Its Implications" at a membership luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce Friday. Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, also will speak.

In primitive Corsican wilds, Spada knew nothing of modern American methods, which consist in having "a judge that will turn you loose," or influential officials on whom you bestow "a cut" of your earnings.

KANSAS CITY reports an interesting romantic kidnaping. A young lady, aged 25, taking a bath, was ordered to dress by two kidnapers, taken away and returned on payment of $30,000.

She speaks in friendly terms of one "young Irishman," as she describes him, who presented her with roses, and hopes he won't go to the penitentiary for kidnaping her. The young lady says:

"I don't hold any malice against the men. I really liked that young Irishman awfully well."

When she was restored to the bosom of her family, she pointed wistfully to a wilted rosebud on her breast, saying:

"This is my souvenir of the beautiful bouquet the kidnapers gave me."

friend to Mellon, has pointed out to the Senate that the former fiscal head of the nation had urged revision of income tax laws to prevent deduction of capital losses from returns. Reed told the Senate:

"Mr. Mellon for many years has been urging an amendment to the income tax laws to make impossible the deduction of capital losses from income."

He asked that Mellon's proposal be referred to the Finance Committee.

With the now-permitted deductions, the House of Morgan escaped paying any income levy for two years.

Light on the prospective dissolution of the Riscar Company, reputed holding company of R. B. Mellon, under fire by Representative Louis T. McFadden in Washington, was lacking today.

Members of the law firm of Moorhead & Knox, which filed a petition recently, seeking dissolution of the company, would not talk for publication.

McFadden had described the filing of the petition as a "move to cover up evasion of income tax payments."

The petition sets forth that a stockholders' meeting, held December 23, 1931, at 514 Smithfield street, had voted to ask for a decree of dissolution. The company has no debts or liabilities and all taxes due the commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been paid, the petition states.

Signers of the petition are Richard K. Mellon, president, and E. B. Clarke, secretary. Shareholders are Lawrence Blair, James M. Bovard and Meredith H. Ewing.

The purpose of the company is described as "holding, pledging, mortgaging and dealing in stocks, bonds and leases." A hearing on the petition is set for June 12. The company was incorporated May 1, 1929.

JAPS, CHINESE SIGN TRUCE

SHANGHAI, China, May 31.—(AP.)—A formal armistice in the North China warfare was signed today by military representatives of China and Japan at Tangku.

The truce provides, first, for the demilitarization of the area bounded by the Great Wall on the north, the Peiping-Mukden Railways on the east, and the Peiping-Suiyuan Railways on the west; second, for the dissolution of the Chinese Volunteer Corps in this area; third, for the resumption of rail traffic between Peiping and Shanhaikwan.

FRANCE TO SIGN MUSSOLINI'S PEACE PACT

Power Given Daladier By Vote in Chamber

PARIS, May 31.—(AP.)—The understanding prevailed in Chamber of Deputies circles today that the French cabinet has decided unanimously to sign the Mussolini four-power peace plan.

By a vote of 434 to 135, the Chamber gave Premier Daladier power to sign the agreement. This may be done before the end of the week, it was said.

Unified action for peace by Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain is asked in the Mussolini proposal to which, before it was amended, France objected on the grounds that rights of smaller powers would not be protected.

BERLIN, May 31.—(Universal)—Germany has given up hope that the former allies will agree at Geneva to any important measures of disarmament, and the Reich also sees the pending Mussolini "four-power accord" as just another pact.

This was disclosed by a high government official today. He said Germany would sign the four-power treaty with England, Italy and France but without enthusiasm.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(Universal)—Despite indicated opposition of Secretary of State Hull, President Roosevelt has approved the Johnson amendment to the arms embargo resolution to preserve American neutrality, it was learned definitely today. The amendment drastically curtails the powers the administration originally sought.

When It's Paytime Down in WallStreet

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

There are some who sing of Maytime,
There are some who sing of June,
But, the sweetest time is paytime,
When the politicians croon.

By the cozy marble cottage,
At the turn of Broad and Wall,
They await their mess of pottage,
In the springtime or the fall.

You can always hear them singing,
Underneath the window pane,
You can hear their voices ringing,
In a sad and sweet refrain:

"I will love you in the daytime,
In the night time I'll be true,
And especially in paytime,
"I'll reciprocate with you."

U. S. Isolation Policy Ended, Britons Told By Envoy Bingham

By THOMAS C. WATSON
Universal Service.

LONDON, May 31.—The foreign policy of the Roosevelt administration, as exemplified by America's expressions at Geneva of willingness to join a "consultative pact," marks America's abandonment of certain policies laid down by the nation's founders, United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham said last night.

Ambassador Bingham, addressing the Pilgrims' Society at a memorial day dinner in his honor attended by the Prince of Wales, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, War Secretary Lord Hailsham and a host of other officials and diplomats, stressed "the changed attitude on several subjects of the people of the United States."

Bingham said of the President:

"With the full support of the overwhelming majority of people whose leader he is, he has laid down what all other nations may rely upon implicity as far as all our foreign relations are concerned."

Referring to United States Ambassador Norman H. Davis' statements at Geneva as meaning the United States' reversal of a traditional policy of freedom from European entanglements, Bingham declared:

"That marked the definite departure from certain principles maintained by the United States since the nation was founded.

"It is a great step forward toward maintenance of the peace of the world. It does contain certain reservations, but a similar reservation is retained by the British government in the Locarno treaty."

Remarking upon the hesitancy of the Geneva disarmament conference in fixing a definition for an aggressor nation and President Roosevelt's "definition" as the nation whose troops are found in foreign countries in violation of treaties, Bingham said:

"From my standpoint, I do not believe there is a 10-year-old child of average intelligence anywhere in the world who could fail in the event of war to select instantly the aggressor."

Commenting upon Europes' view that the President is not empowered to commit the United States to any policy without Congressional assent, Bingham said:

AMBASSADOR BINGHAM

"It is necessary to realize that President Roosevelt has loyal and enthusiastic support in Congress and among the people to a degree unequaled in our history since George Washington.

"This is no time for mere trading and bargaining. There is no time for any thought except what shall we do to be saved.

"I believe that hope for this stricken world rests largely upon understanding, co-operation and confidence among the English-speaking peoples."

Bingham cited the "incredible" recovery of America economically since March 4.

The Prince of Wales told the Pilgrims America and England were coming to realize "no country can prosper in isolation."

WALES VOICES 'FAITH' IN U. S.

LONDON, May 31.—(Universal.)—The Prince of Wales referred to the Roosevelt administration's intention of abandoning American's traditional "isolation" policy in his toast proposing United States Ambassador Bingham's health at the Pilgrims' Society dinner last night.

The Prince said he was thankful Ambassador Bingham, like his predecessor, Andrew W. Mellon, knew and understood. Remarking the world financial crisis, the Prince said:

"The eyes of the world are watching anxiously, but at the same time hopefully, what is happening in America. We believe that in the midst of this great catastrophe in which we all are involved, America is realizing with us that under the interwoven economic system of modern times, no country can prosper in isolation.

"I am confident the United States will prove to be one of the cogs in the wheel that will put the world into a better state than it has been before."

Councilman Dies At Women's Derby

OCEANSIDE, Cal., May 31.—(INS.)—Excitement of a close finish in a women's bicycle derby caused Wilbur S. Spencer, 52, former newspaper publisher and city councilman, to suffer a heart attack and fall dead, officers reported today.

HULL AT HEAD OF AMERICAN GROUP

Roosevelt Instructs Members of Body to 'Get Action'

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—The United States delegation headed today for the world economic conference at London with one final terse instruction from President Roosevelt:

Get fast action and cut the speeches short.

Only three of the six delegates were in the party which left Washington — Secretary Hull, chairman; Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, and Representative Samuel D. McReynolds, of Tennessee.

Behind their campaign at the conference opening June 12 were the painstaking consultations with foreign leaders at the White House and State Department, upon which the President had staked much of his hope for success.

OTHERS FOLLOW

The other delegates, some named at the eleventh hour, who will follow later were James M. Cox, of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the presidency a dozen years ago and a friend of the League of Nations; Ralph W. Morrison, of San Antonio, Roosevelt backer and developer of power projects along the Mexican border.

The lone Republican so far named to go—Senator James Couzens, of Michigan—is to sail a week hence as his acceptance of appointment only yesterday left him no time to prepare. The President intends to name one more Republican, preferably a member of the House.

WAR DEBTS QUESTION

Hull and his associates left the question of war debts behind, for the President intends to deal with this delicate subject personally.

Back of the American campaign for world-wide adoption of price-raising policies will be the argument that unless these are adopted the United States will have to resort to still higher tariffs to preserve the increased price and wage standard sought in the domestic program now under way.

To make it possible to raise or lower tariffs, depending whether the world powers concur, the President intends to ask Congress this week for power to alter the duties.

WORLD TRADERS URGE GOLD

VIENNA, May 31.—(AP.)—Delegates to the seventh congress of the International Chamber of Commerce showed their first real burst of enthusiasm today when Prof. T. E. Gregory, of Great Britain, urged that the nations of the world return to the gold standard.

All attempts to manage a paper currency have only made a bad situation worse, Prof. Gregory declared.

Other speakers shared his views, but Eliot Wadsworth, of Boston, Mass., warned the congress to remember the gold standard really is "99 per cent confidence and 1 per cent gold."

Ambassador Straus Arrives in Paris

PARIS, May 31.—(AP.)—Jesse I. Straus arrived here today to take his post as United States Ambassador to France, a position likely to entail diplomatic negotiations arising from the world economic conference.

Straus was welcomed by Pierre de Fouquieres, director of protocol, who represented President Lebrun, and by foreign office officials and the full embassy and consular staffs.

Farm Loan Official Appointed Here

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Headed by Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the Labor Department, the government today sent a delegation to the International Labor Organization conference, which opens in Geneva June 8.

Congress Disregards Will of Nation, Declares W. R. Hearst

the Congressmen not only believed in popular government but believed in the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

They took the position of opposition to the repeal because they THOUGHT that would please their constituents.

In other words, they did not KNOW the public sentiment, which was so conspicuously clear to every thinking person in the United States.

It was the business of Congress to know public sentiment in a republic, where the will of the people is supposed to prevail.

BUT THE CONGRESSMEN DID NOT KNOW THEIR BUSINESS.

EXACTLY THE same situation exists at present with regard to the income tax; and again the Congressmen DO NOT KNOW THEIR BUSINESS.

They may know that the income tax has become a racket.

They may know that the government's constant effort in collecting the tax is to rob the uninfluential masses while it allows the politically or financially powerful to evade taxation.

They probably know that the government particularly and specifically provides ways and means and measures by which the shrewd and powerful CAN escape taxation.

Congressmen may be dumb, but they are not so dumb that they do not know that they themselves voted tax-exempt bonds where capital could hide from all possible income taxation, and that they themselves voted the clauses in the law which allowed the House of Morgan legally to evade taxation during the years when funds were most needed by the government.

Congressmen probably appreciate the injustice of income taxation and probably some of the more intelligent ones realize not only the discriminating character of the tax but the fact that it is not sufficiently successful as an income-producing measure.

WHERE CONGRESSMEN show essential ignorance of their business is in failing to know that public sentiment has changed completely with regard to the income tax, as it had changed completely with regard to prohibiton, without the average Congressman knowing anything about that change.

If the Congressmen knew their business, they would know that a vast majority of the public today is in favor of sales taxation instead of income taxation.

They would know indeed that public sentiment has veered completely toward sales taxation and is now bitterly against the obnoxious, oppressive, undemocratic un-American income tax.

It is the business of Congress to know this; but Congressmen simply do not know it.

They are timid with regard to the sales tax, not because they are so utterly ignorant about the advantages of this tax, but because they are so utterly ignorant about the trend of public opinion away from income taxation and towards sales taxation.

There is no use abusing Congress.

There is no use even logically arguing with Congress.

It will take another ELECTION to educate Congress.

THE ONLY way by which the Seventy-second Congress was educated was by the public throwing out that politically dumb Republican body and installing a Democratic Congress, with the mandate and authority to enact liberal sumptuary laws.

The only way the Seventy-third Congress will be educated will be by the public throwing out this dumb Seventy-third Congress and installing a Congress committed to the sales tax and to the elimination of the income tax, and to a general program of tax reform.

The people of the United States can expect nothing from a Democratic Congress, any more than from a Republican Congress, which does not know its business and which obstinately refuses to learn.

Experience is a harsh schoolmaster, but Congressmen will learn from no other.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Guests Visit Jefferson's Home

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt picked Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, for a pilgrimage today in company of several house guests and the corps of newswomen who now report her activities.

She invited them to accompany her and join in a picnic lunch at the Charlottesville, Va., shrine, which has for the Roosevelt family a special interest, since a score of years ago her husband was helping raise funds to save the famous home from mouldering away in private hands.

Ten years ago it was purchased and today, high on its mountaintop, overlooking the University of Virginia, it ranks high among historic spots.

French to Stand Pat On Cancellation

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, May 31.—No concession by the United States government on foreign debts, other than complete suspension of payments for the present, will satisfy the French Chamber of Deputies and the French people in their present mood.

This reaction was apparent today in comments in the Chamber lobbies on press reports from Washington that President Roosevelt was willing to consent to a partial payment of the debt installment due June 15.

Jesse Isidor Straus, new American Ambassador to Paris, received a rousing reception when he arrived at the St. Lazare railway station today. He handed to reporters a prepared statement, which said:

"I have come to a nation which is bound by many ties to my own country."

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—High administration officials today declared debtor nations have made no offers to this government or given any indication as to whether they will meet the payment or default.

Nor, it was emphasized, has this government made any offers whatsoever to the debtor nations.

BRUSSELS, May 31.—(INS.)—The Belgian government has virtually decided to pay its next debt instalment to the United States, due June 15, it was stated in authoritative circles today.

HUSBAND HELD AS BAR, GLOVES GIVE CLUE

Pretty 'Y' Secretary, Her Head Crushed, Found in Bath

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 31.—(AP.)—David A. Lamson, sales manager of the Stanford University Press, was held in the Santa Clara county jail here today pending further investigation of the death of his wife, Mrs. Allene Thorpe Lamson, attractive executive secretary of the University Y. W. C. A.

No charge had been placed against Lamson, said by physicians to be suffering from shock and in a semi-hysterical condition.

Holiday calm on the Stanford campus was disturbed with the discovery of Mrs. Lamson's body, the victim of a violent death, in the bathroom of the couple's home. Her head had been crushed by a terrific blow.

WORKING IN YARD

Lamson, who had been working in the yard for several hours, chatting meantime with a neighbor, entered the house by a back door to escort prospective summer tenants through it. A moment later he ran to the front door, crying that his wife had been murdered.

Police and deputy sheriffs questioned him for two hours and then brought him to the jail here. Arthur M. Free, former Congressman, was retained as his attorney. Dr. Joseph Catton, psychiatrist, called by Free, examined Lamson and reported the young husband was near hysteria. Later, Dr. Catton prescribed a sleeping potion for Lamson.

STANFORD GRADUATES

Mr. and Mrs. Lamson, both Stanford graduates, were described as a devoted couple by friends. They have a 15-month-old daughter, Allene, who is with relatives in the country. Their home is near that of former President Herbert Hoover.

Officials found a piece of iron pipe, glowing-hot, in a rubbish fire in the back yard. Lamson had been tending the fire. In the bathroom were a pair of gardening gloves and one of Lamson's slippers. The mate to the slipper was in an adjoining bedroom.

Free and other friends of the couple expressed belief Mrs. Lamson slipped and fell while stepping into the tub, striking her head on the faucet. The young mother had not been strong recently.

HAPPILY MARRIED

Lamson begged officials to believe he had no hand in his wife's death. He told of their happy married life and described how he had prepared his wife's breakfast and drawn the water in the tub before leaving the house.

Officials said Lamson's friends reported Lamson had been acting "peculiarly" for several weeks and said the Lamsons had talked of selling their home on the campus because Mrs. Lamson had discussed returning to her own people in Labar, Mo., this summer.

POLO PLAYER'S CHILDREN GET ACID THREAT

Ruse Traps Suspect In Extortion Plot Against Pedley

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—(AP.)—Trapped by a sheriff's office ruse, one man was in custody here today suspected of writing three extortion letters received by Eric Pedley, noted polo player, demanding $5,000 on threat of burning one of his three children with acid.

Authorities said E. T. Von Buelow, the man under arrest, picked up an envelope containing $500 from rose bushes at the entrance to the exclusive Midwick Country Club, where it was planted by officers.

Detectives reported finding paper and envelopes similar to those used for the extortion notes, together with a typewriter with type similar to that appearing in the letters, in Von Buelow's Alhambra home. Von Buelow denied any knowledge of the affair.

Three of the threatening notes were received by Pedley, police said, the last one Monday.

The letters were signed "We Two" and pointed out the threatened acid burning of one of his children "no doubt would mean blindness."

Pedley, ace of the Midwick Country Club's polo four, has competed for the United States in international matches and is ranked at eight goals.

POPE PIUS, 76, SAYS MASS

VATICAN CITY, May 31—(AP.)—Hundreds of Holy Year pilgrims helped Pope Pius celebrate his seventy-sixth birthday today.

The elderly but sturdy Pontiff received them in a number of audiences. He was determined to observe his anniversary by being busy throughout the day.

His Holiness said a low mass of thanksgiving early this morning in his private chapel. A number of distant relatives were present. He was assisted by his secretaries.

After the mass the Pope spoke briefly to his relatives and then began his day's work.

PA. SWEATSHOP PROBE OPENS

HARRISBURG, May 31.—(AP.)—The legislative "sweatshop" investigation committee rolled up its sleeves today.

Assembled in Gov. Pinchot's office, the committee, which includes the wife of the Governor, organized and began mapping plans for delving into conditions among Pennsylvania's factory workers.

The committee is composed of Representatives T. J. Gallagher, Allegheny, sponsor of the resolution creating the committee; Eugene J. Gorman, Lehigh, and Roy W. Shreiner, Dauphin; Senators Richard S. Quigley, Clinton; G. Mason Owlett, and Bertram G. Frazier, Philadelphia, and three citizens named by the Governor, Judge Horace Stern, Philadelphia; Clarence J. Moser, Allentown, and Mrs. Pinchot.

Mrs. Pinchot recently attracted nation-wide attention to alleged sweatshop conditions in the Lehigh Valley by parading with child strikers.

The United States Department of Labor also has ordered an investigation.

WIFE DEFENDS 'OTHER WOMAN'

DENVER, May 31.—(AP.)—Quoting Scripture, Mrs. Ethyl Halsted said yesterday she had "only sympathy" for Mrs. Jane B. Gilfoy, who shot and killed herself because Dr. Fred S. Halsted, Denver surgeon, spurned her plea he divorce Mrs. Halstead and marry her. Mrs. Halstead said:

"Let him without sin cast the first stone. I have known Mrs. Gilfoy was in love with my husband, but she must not be condemned. Love is a strange and devastating emotion."

Mrs. Gilfoy, pretty 34-year-old Los Angeles woman, died in a hospital from a pistol bullet wound after she had fought with Dr. Halsted in her apartment when he refused to marry her. Police said their investigation substantiated Dr. Halsted's statements concerning the shooting.

His wife described Dr. Halsted as "broken in spirit and miserable." She said:

"I'm sorry for Mrs. Gilfoy in death, just as my heart bled for her in life."

Greensburg Strikers, Plant Owner to Meet

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 31.—A conference between a strikers' committee and D. G. Keller, plant owner, will be held here tomorrow in an endeavor to settle the strike of the Greensburg GaGrment Company workers, Miss Emmelinne Pitt, federall abor conciliator, announced today. The company has offered a 10 per cent increase effective July 1, while the strikers demand 25 per cent increase.

JELKES AWAIT COURT VERDICT

NEWPORT, R. I., May 31.—(INS.)—Amid fiery oratory by counsel for both sides, the cross divorce suits of F. Frazier Jelke, 52-year-old New York broker, and his 28-year-old wife, Mrs. Eugenia (Nini) Jelke, came to an end in Newport Superior Court this afternoon.

Court was adjourned after the arguments, and Judge Charles H. Walsh began immediately to prepare his decision, which was expected to be read late this afternoon or tomorrow.

Through the arguments of both Attorney Charles P. Sisson, counsel for Jelke, and her own attorney, George Paul Slade, Mrs. Jelke played "tic-tack-toe" on paper with a woman friend and sat calmly as she heard herself described as "a woman of 25," in love with speakeasy life and a certain strata of New York," by Sisson.

RECORD BROKEN FOR RAINFALL

Rainfall this month broke all records for May, even topping the previous high mark of May, 1889, resulting in the Johnstown flood, 44 years ago today.

Total rainfall up to today was 6.55 inches, according to weather bureau records. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said there was little likelihood of showers today. The record of May, 1889, was 6.45 inches.

and released Warden Prather and Guards L. A. Laws and John Sherman last night near Welch, Okla., 15 miles from Chetopa.

NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS

The hunt for the six fugitives, including Wilbur Underhill and Harvey Bailey, notorious criminals and leaders of the Memorial Day prison break, centered today around Picher and Miami, Okla.

Jeff Weatherby, who operates a filling station north of Miami, was robbed by four men, one of whom he identified as Underhill, and forced to accompany them in a car to Narcissa, south of Miami, where he was released.

Police expressed the belief Bailey, who was shot in the leg by a prison guard, and a companion might be in some hide-out and feared the other four might kidnap a doctor to give medical aid to Bailey.

A sharp lookout was being maintained around Picher, Okla., where Underhill's wife lives.

No trace had been found of the five other convicts who held captive Mrs. M. J. Wood, of Kansas City, Kan.; her daughter, Louise, 17, and Miss Clovis Wears, 17, and freed them unharmed near Pleasanton, Kan.

INQUIRY LAUNCHED

Warden Prather and the two guards returned to the penitentiary this morning. An investigation by the State Board of Administration got under way at the orders of Gov. Alf M. Landon, who directed a thorough inquiry "of the causes, lack of rules or discipline that might have permitted the trouble and the failure to confine it to the penitentiary once it occurred."

Prather, a Democrat, will turn over the office tonight to Lacey Simpson, of Canton (Rep.), recently named by Gov. Landon.

Prather said the escape plot had been planned for the first day under Simpson's wardenship, but that the convicts decided not to wait when they found a "perfect set up" during the Memorial Day baseball game on the prison grounds yesterday.

He said the guards were preoccupied by the exciting baseball game between two American Legion teams—the score being tied 2 to 2—and his own appearance in the yard made the time ripe for the break.

'LUCKY'S' GIRLS TOLD

The convicts who had kidnaped the three women stopped at a farm house last night and forced Mrs. William New, farm wife, to cook a big dinner for them and their women captives before the men departed.

They told the women they were "lucky" not to have been kidnaped by Underhill, Bailey and the convicts who had the warden. One convict said:

"They are hard babies.. You girls might not have been treated so well with them."

Miss Wood, small and dark-haired, said the Wood car was crowded when the convicts piled in and one of the men asked har to sit on his lap. She replied:

"You can shoot me if you want to, but I'll not sit on your lap."

He did not insist.

DETECTIVES INSPECTING THE WIRES THAT FIRED THE BOMB

POOR DIRECTORS REFUSE TO QUIT

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 31.—The re-organized Westmoreland County Tmergency Relief Board, with a staff of 50 clerks, today was ready to take over all relief work in the country, as the poor directors refused to be "fired."

The poor directors announced they will continue to write relief orders for the poor of the Latrobe, Vandergrift and Irwin districts and charge them to the county.

County Commissioner E. L. Hibbs, chairman of the relief board, announced the county has no cash to meet relief orders.

RACKET BOMB WRECKS AUTO

the nearby corner. He said he'd pick them up there.

When he tried to start the car Scanga found the motor wouldn't turn over, it was said.

He let the car drift out of the garage and down the Lorigan street hill.

A half block down the hill he again turned on the ignition.

The response was a blast that shattered the windows of his sedan, ripped up the front seat, blew open a door and sent up a burst of flame.

Homicide detectives found, in the ruins of the car, a wire which ran from a spark plug to beneath the front seat.

They said they found the connection had been made with the ignition and not the starter. The starter evidently had been jammed to prevent Scanza turning over his motor with it. Detectives believe Black Handers placed the explosive.

Scanga was identified as the manager of the Green Parrot Malt Products Company at 6390 Penn avenue.

He lives at 472 Pearl street. In West Penn Hospital his condition was reported as critical.

His misfortune created a great to-do in the police department. Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd announced seven detectives had been added to the bomb and arson squad to break up the bombing epidemic, and Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide issued a statement in which he said that bombers were cowards and in the same class as kidnapers.

The bomb which periled the Ban Box exploded in a hall entrance, blew apart a radiator and caused $1,000 damage to the adjoining Lillyanna dress shop.

ministration. Since the recent change of mayoralty administrations, racket concessionaires have been at war.

Two weeks ago Contis' auto, parked outside his club, was ripped apart by a bomb. At that time Contis said:

'I don't think they intended the bomb for me or my place. It would have been easy to plant a bomb in the hallway of my night club."

The bombers apparently hadn't thought of this until Contis made the suggestion.

Three weeks ago the home of Charles Martin at 115 North Aiken avenue was bombed. Martin is the Republican chairman of the Tenth Ward. He blamed the blast on racketeers who had asked him for "protection." Several persons have been arrested.

On May 19, two bombs were found on the front porch of the home of James Bishop at 5609 Broad street. Bishop is chairman of the Third District in the Eleventh Ward. The bombs had failed to explode.

SICK BABE GIVEN BLOOD 4TH TIME

John Niehaus, 2, today underwent the third transfusion of blood since a call for volunteers to furnish it was issued Monday. After the transfusion physicians said he was holding his own.

Previously the father, John F. Niehaus, of 210 Edmond street, had given blood.

At least 30 volunteers appeared at the Children's Hospital and more telephoned their offers, physicians said, after publication in Monday's Sun-Telegraph that the child needed blood.

Monday night and again yesterday, Fred Ross, friend of the family, furnished the blood. Today, J. P. Stark appeared in the same role.

PRESIDENT HITS DIRECT CITY AID

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(INS.)—Legislation providing a method to permit municipalities to go into technical bankruptcy while streightening out their finances will constitute the only additional assistance the government can extend, it was indicated today at the White House.

President Roosevelt feels that other proposals for federal aid to municipalities, if adopted, would virtually put the government into city politics. Also, it would cost $10,000,000,000 or more to effectually underwrite municipal governments.

KIDNAPED WARDEN AND THE BOLTED PENITENTIARY

Zion City Flat If World Isn't, Disciple Finds

CHICAGO, May 31.—(INS.)—An ever doubting world was about ready to agree today with Wilbur Glenn Voliva that the earth, or at least that portion of it along the north shore of Lake Michigan known as Zion City, is flat, financially if not topographically

Zion City, the little religious colony of which Voliva is overseer, was thrown into equity receivership at the request of a corrugated box company, which told Federal Judge James Wilkerson it could not collect a debt of $3,110.

But Voliva, unperturbed by his failure to convince the world that Christopher Columbus erred in describing the earth as a sphere, remained as calm about the receivership.

Voliva and the Zion City organization face involuntary bankruptcy action filed in Federal Court by three colony employes.

In face of all difficulties, Voliva said:

"In 1907 when I came to Zion the city's assets were only 83 cents. In 1927 its assessed valuation was $10,000,000, and in 1932, $6,000,000. That shows what I have done. I'll do the same again as soon as there's an upturn."

Rum-Mellowed Captors Free Warden, Aides

LANSING, Kan., May 31.—(INS.)—How he was released by escaping convicts, who took him hostage on a wild ride into the Northern Oklahoma hills, was told by Warden Kirk Prather today in a telephone conversation with the state penitentiary here.

Mellowed by a bottle of liquor passed from one to another, the desperadoes, led by Wilbur Underhill, three times a murderer, decided not to carry out their threats to kill Prather and two prison guards. Prather related:

"They got pretty jovial and finally decided to let us go after threatening to 'bump us off.'

"Two of them had just finished fixing a puncture outside of Welch, Okla., when Underhill said, 'This is where we're going to bump you off.'

"They all laughed.

"Then Underhill said, 'You've been a pretty square guy, warden; I've never met a better warden.'"

The automobile stopped on a dark road and the convict leader ordered them out.

"I thought they were going to kill us there because all the convicts stepped out.

"They asked us if we had any cash, and when we had only a dollar between us Underhill handed me a dollar bill.

"'Take it; you might need it for some grub,' Underhill said.

"Then the car sped off into the hills and we started the 10-mile hike back to town."

PECORA'S HANDLING OF PROBE BACKED BY COMMITTEE

NEW LIST OF 'PREFERRED' MORGAN CUSTOMERS REVEALED AT QUIZ

of persons allowed by the wealthy house to make inside bargain purchases of stock. George Whitney—a partner of the bank—defended the practice as one "to distribute the risk" of underwriting.

Names of celebrities old and new were contained on this latest, the third such compilation, this one dealing with sale of over 300,000 units of United Corporation stock to almost 300 parties at some $7,000,000 below the market prices.

Included again were William H. Woodin, now Secretary of the Treasury; Senator William G. McAdoo, Gen. John J. Pershing, Norman H. avis, John W. Davis, John J. Raskob, Charles A. Lindbergh and R. B. Mellon.

Before the hearing opened today the Senate committee met and, after hearing Ferdinand Pecora, its counsel, explain his intentions, voiced satisfaction with the way he is handling the inquiry.

Pecora said he hoped to complete the Morgan investigation by the end of the week, to clear the way for future inquiries into the operations of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co.

HOWARD ARRIVES

George Howard, president of the United Corporation, Morgan utility holding company, was the first of the Morgan party to arrive at today's session.

George Whitney, Morgan partner, early took a seat near Howard.

Accompanied by various of his partners, Morgan made his way smilingly to a chair. The firm's office manager, Leonard Keyes, carried a brief case.

Pecora was beaming as he entered; and Glass also appeared in good humor nearby.

Glass told reporters he had achieved all he sought in having the committee informed of the course of the inquiry.

Asked if he approved of Pecora's program, Glass said that was not involved, that all he wanted was to have the committee know where the counsel was heading.

Howard, the president of United Corporation, was called as the first witness. He was on the stand when the committee recessed last week.

Pecora inquired about the members of the United Corporation board.

Howard said Floyd L. Carlisle, member of United, was director and chairman of the board of Consolidated Gas of New York and also of Niagara Hudson.

In addition, he said, Carlisle is an official of Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation, United Gas Improvement Company, Mohawk Hudson and New York Power and Light.

B. C. Cobb, of the United board, is an official of the Commonwealth and Southern, Columbia Gas and Electric and Mohawk Hudson.

CONFERS WITH AIDES

Howard testified in a clear, sharp voice, conferring frequently with aides seated nearby.

He leaned back into a corner of the chair, as he faced Pecora, frequently smiling.

Continuing with identifying directorship affiliations of the United Corporation's board members, questions by Pecora and answers by Howard listed the following:

Philip G. Gosler—United Corporation, also United Corporation of New York, and Columbia Gas and Electric.

Edward Hopkinson, Jr.—United Corporation, United Corporation of New York, United Gas Improvement Company, partner, J. P. Morgan & Co., Philadelphia Electrical Corporation, United Engineers and Construction Corporation.

Harold Stanley — Columbia Gas and Electric, Niagara Hudson, Mohawk Hudson, United Corporation of New York, partner J. P. Morgan & Co.

Langdon K. Thorn—Commonwealth and Southern, Niagara Hudson, Mohawk Hudson, Public Service of New Jersey, Bonbright & Co.

John E. Zimmerman—Niagara Hudson, Mohawk Hudson, United Gas Improvement, Philadelphia Electric, Public Service of New Jersey and United Engineering and Construction Corporation.

GLASS THUMPS ADAMS

After several minutes, Glass rose and went out of the room after jovially thumping Senator Adams (Dem.), of Colorado, on the back.

Pecora retraced steps detailed last Friday, whereby Morgan & Co., and Bonbright & Co., formed United Corporation.

Howard said that he was a member of a law firm at the time and was approached by a "Mr. Thorn," of Bonbright, and Whitney, of the Morgan firm, and asked whether he would be willing to head United.

Howard said he acquired 200,000 shares of common stock and 100,000 in option warrants, which entitled him to exercise an option to purchase 100,000 additional shares of common stock for $500,000.

The counsel then went into the arrangement by which Morgan and Bonbright acquired many shares of stock and option warrants for $10,000,000 cash.

Pecora asked:

"For $10,000,000 cash Morgan & Co. received 400,000 shares of United common and 1,000,000 option warrants?"

"Yes."

"You said last week the issuance of option warrants without time limitations was a common practice?"

"I think the history of some seven or eight years preceding would show many cases. I can't cite an instance at this moment."

"When was a statute passed to authorize such an issuance?"

"I don't know."

"Didn't you know that Delaware passed such a statute in March, 1929, two months after incorporation of the United?"

"I did not."

"Did you know that at the time of issuance of the option warrants there was no statute to authorize it?"

"I did not."

"Each of the option warrants entitled the holder to buy one share of common for $27.50?"

"Yes."

Howard then voluntarily returned to the option warrants, saying:

"The option warrant was a contract and that contract was good under the law."

"Who so advised you?"

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

Howard said he had discussed it with various attorneys, including a lawyer in the office of John W. Davis.

Senator Couzens asked:

"Did the stockholders know of the warrants?"

Howard answered:

"Yes, there was a public announcement at the time, I believe."

Pecora asked:

"Were the terms of the warrant issue made public?"

Whitney then brought forward a printed press release dated January 9, 1929, which stated in part:

"The United Corporation has been organized under Delaware laws by Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co., Drexel & Co., and Bonbright & Co., Inc., and has made arrangements to acquire certain minority interests in the United Gas Improvement Company; the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and the Mohawk Hudson Power Corporation held by the organizers and the American Superpower Corporation.

"The capitalization of the corporation is as follows:

	Authorized Shares.	To Be Presently Issued Shares.
First preferred stock	*1,000,000	None
Preference stock	2,000,000	844,187
Common stock	†10,000,000	5,810,853

*4,000,000 shares will be reserved against exercise of option warrants. †No par value.

"There will also be presently issued option warrants entitling holders to purchase at any time without limit not in excess of 4,000,000 shares of common stock at $27.50 per share.

"The directors of the corporation will be Messrs. Thomas S. Gates, Alfred L. Loomis, Landon K. Thorn and George Whitney."

Pecora read the list.

ADAMS INTERRUPTS

Senator Adams interrupted to comment that a memorandum he had before him showed a "discrepancy" in the amount of stock as compared to the January 11 newspaper releases.

John W. Davis, Morgan counsel, suggested that Whitney be allowed to explain.

Called, Whitney said it was because there had been "additional transactions between the time of the newspaper release and the memorandum a few days later.

MEMORANDUM SENT

Whitney said:

"The memorandum was sent to all those who subscribed to the stock."

"And to them alone?"

"Yes."

"Was the subscription public or private?"

"We made no public offering of this stock."

Pecora picked up the list of subscribers.

"Who prepared the list?"

"We did, along with Bonbright & Co."

"How many names were suggested by you?"

"I can't answed that offhand. I could scan over it and tell you some that were and some that were not."

Pecora directed him to prepare the list of names suggested by Morgan during the recess.

Almost hidden by counsel and members of his staff, Morgan sat behind a table several feet from the committee table. He rested his cheek on his arm and listened intently.

Pecora asked if there was any breakdown of the 87,000 units of United that went to Drexel & Co?

Whitney said:

"I thought that had been furnished I'm sorry."

"On what terms were these persons invited to subscribe?"

Whitney said they were sold one unit at $75, a unit consisting of one share of $3 preference stock at its liquidating value of $50 and one share of common at $25, "the price of the common to us."

He gave the spring of 1928 as the date when J. P. Morgan & Co. decided to enter "the general utility field."

Pecora brought him back to the sale1 to J. P. Morgan & Co. for $10,000,000 of 400,000 shares of United common and 11,000,000 warrants.

MADE SAME OFFER

Whitney said:

"[illegible] and Bonbright & Co. made the same offer simultaneously and it was accepted."

Questioning Whitney, Pecora brought out that the private offering was made between January 9 and January 14. Pecora said:

"And it was previously testified by Mr. Howard that on January 21 the stock was selling in the over-the-counter market at $99 a unit?"

Whitney nodded:

"Yes."

He leaned forward with his elbows on the table, while Pecora sat back in his chair.

By this time, half of the committee table was unoccupied, as Senators left to attend the Senate session.

The committee room was hot again, and perspiration stood out on Whitney's face.

Members of the committee interrupted Pecora less frequently than usual, apparently satisfied with his explanation of his program earlier.

FOES OF PECORA REVIVE KILLING OF DOT KING

By GEORGE BUCHANAN
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Sensational charges involving the investigation into the mysterious and still unsolved murder of Anna Marie ("Dot" King) Keenan, Broadway beauty, 10 years ago, form the basis upon upon which enemies of Ferdinand Pecora, chief counsel for the Senate committee investigating the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and other private banking concerns, hope to drive him out of the inquiry.

The disclosures are made exclusively by the New York Daily Mirror.

Pecora's accuser is John C. Hackett, former fourth deputy police commissioner, and former Secretary to Ex-Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

Hackett has caused his charges to be incorporated in a thick pamphlet, and he calls attention to what he says is the fact that, while his statement was sent to John Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of Edward I. Stotesbury, Philadelphia capitalist, banker and society leader, prior to publication, with a request for a letter of denial, he received no such letter.

Hackett launches into a history of the little laundry-cabaret girl. She became the mistress of Jack Lanigan, a "big shot" of Broadway, Hackett says. Later Albert E. Guimares came into her life, remained in it until her death.

Guimares later went to jail for a stock fraud, and Hackett claims that he was framed by the police to get him out of the way.

Mitchell, Hackett says, met the girl in 1922. They went to her apartment and he soon established her in the one in which she died, Hackett declares.

At the time of the murder investigation Pecora gave a clean bill to Mitchell and to his agent, Attorney John H. Jackson.

LEADING FIRMS HERE EXPAND OPERATIONS

Expansion to meet increased production demands or to manufacture new products was announced today by four Pittsburgh concerns as an expression of confidence in the steadiness of the present upward trend of business.

Initiating a $1,000,000 program for the purchase of new equipment, the Gulf Refining Company today reported purchase of 152 large steel and aluminum tank trucks. This is one of the largest purchases of its kind, officials said, and others will follow under present plans.

ORDERS MILLS

The Pressed Steel Car Company has received an order for 4,200 cast steel car side frames, officials disclosed today. This is the largest contract the company has obtained in more than a year.

The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company has ordered 12 hot mills of the New Castle works, which have been "down" for the past 18 months, to prepare for immediate resumption of operations. Production will start within 10 days, according to the schedule announced.

BOOST SCHEDULES

A five-story tower is being added to the Bridgeville plant of the McCartney Selden Chemical Company, it was learned today. The addition is necessitated by the manufacture of a new chemical product.

More than 4,000 men will go on a full-time work schedule within the next few days when 101 of the 114 tin plate mills in the Youngstown district will be in operation, according to an International News Service report.

Recovery in Westmoreland County is gaining in rapidity.

The Robertshaw Thermostat Company, Youngwood, has recalled 35 employes; 100 have been added by the McKee Glass Company, Jeannette, and the Victor Brewing Company, Jeannette, has placed 100 more men on its payroll.

Fifty additional ovens at the Bessemer plant of the Humphrey Coal and Coke Company, near Pleasant Union, have been ordered "fired."

ing in 1928, and said the Cotton-Textile Institute:

"For the first time since 1929, prices for the average cotton mill reflect replacement cost."

The National Association of Wool Manufacturers said general conditions "are improving, more people are employed, production is increasing, sales are larger, and prices have been advanced to meet the advancing prices of wool."

"Substantial increases" in sales were reported by the National Electric Manufacturers' Association, which said "minor general increases are probably occurring in employment and production.

CITES JOB GA

Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce in the Hoover administration and now head of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said:

"Steel operations have increased continuously since last week in March and prices of numerous products have strengthened slightly during the month.

"Increased operations have resulted in employment gains and larger earnings for workers. Most steel executives are fairly optimistic and hopeful for the future, although lack of large scale construction and railroad buying, coupled with other factors, makes continued upward trend uncertain."

A doleful picture was painted by the American Petroleum Institute, which said betterment would "become immediately apparent upon rational control of crude oil production, without which further distress is inevitable."

The National Retail Dry Goods Association reported "definite upturn in sales" and a favorable trend in both production and employment.

Volume of sales of meat "has been maintained," the Institute of American Meat Packers said, while the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States reported that "there is a very general and growing feeling of optimism that has developed since the new administration went into office, and particularly during the past few weeks."

SON IN AIR ACT, MOTHER DIES

Death struck down his mother while Tom Wilmot was enacting the part of a young soldier in a Memorial Day program over WCAE last night.

Mrs. Florence Peck Wilmot died suddenly between 8 and 8:30 o'clock at her home, 645 Shady avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

The third death of parents of WCAE radio staff members within four days was that of Francis Mulloy, father of Frank Mulloy, publicity director of the station, who died at his Philadelphia home last night.

Mrs. Alice R. White, mother of Earl White, "romantic singer of romantic songs," died Friday, but her son "carried on" with his regular program in spite of his grief.

Man Stoned to Death On Farm; Niece Held

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 31.—(INS.)—George W. Rowe, 50, farmer, residing near here, was stoned to death during the night, allegedly by his niece, Elsie Rowe, 24, and his nephew, George Rowe, 15, both of whom were under arrest today.

PECORA'S BLACK TRUNK PACKS 'DYNAMITE'

baby's shoes and to keep a roof over their heads, were shelling out their hard-earned cash to needy Uncle Sam.

And if anybody thinks that this Pecora person, who is becoming more and more of a menace to bankers with little things on their consciences, isn't going to attach the fuses, without benefit of clergy or Carter Glass, that somebody has another think coming.

Once Mr. Pecora gets through with Lorenzo the Magnificent, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, and the nobles of Lorenzo's court, the lesser partners of the House of Morgan, he is going after these alleged income tax evaders rough and violent.

And Brother Pecora is a rough worker once his Sicilian blood begins to boil, as the courtly and capable George Whitney can testify with upraised right hand.

Some of the gentlemen who are to be hailed before the Senate Committee on Currency and Banking to explain why their income tax returns were always in the red while they were traveling about the land in private cars or engaging de luxe suites on European liners or shooting grouse on Scottish moors or running racing stables, stand, or stood, for all that was noble and sacrosanct in the pantheism of American politics and industry.

Some of them are the very sacred cows and holy bulls of the American capitalistic system.

But Mr. Pecora, as he calmly inserts rings in their noses and gets ready to lead them to the shambles, asks himself why they were so stingy with Uncle Sam and so liberal with their own private pleasures, and why so many of them burned incense in the temple of Morgan and in other places where the god of gold was worshiped on trouser knees that came from the very best tailors.

Probably few, if any of them, will trade their ornate names for such arithmetical combinations as Uncle Sam puts on the drill uniforms of his boarders in Atlanta—although one or two may at that, if Pecora's evidence stands up, but the revelations are just about going to bust the present income tax system wide open.

There will be no interference with Pecora's plans, for another case has arisen, or is rapidly arising, where the counsel for the committee overshadows the committee itself.

Pecora, already, has come to stand for something in the minds of the plain folks who feel that they have been made monkeys of for years, and there isn't enough power and prestige in the Senate to stop him.

Pecora overshadows this inquisitorial body precisely as Charles Evans Hughes towered over the committee that investigated the life insurance ring years ago, and as Samuel Seabury rose cubits high above the Hofstadter committee that sent Mayor Walker, of New York, to the gentle joys of the Riviera.

It takes a man, a single, purposeful individual with guts, to put through a job of this kind, and Pecora seems to have the stuff that the best fiddlestrings are made of. . . .

So the show goes on, this show which Carter Glass, growling out of a corner of his mouth, describes as a circus which lacks only the peanuts and pink lemonade.

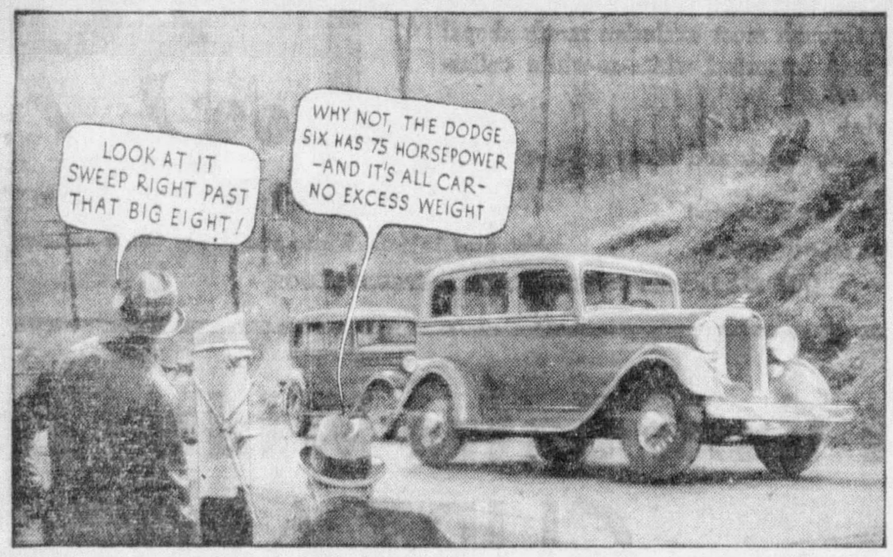
DODGE OFFERS A "SHOW-DOWN" IN PITTSBURGH!



Sensational "Show-Down" Plan

WINS THOUSANDS TO DODGE OVERNIGHT!

Can you imagine a car that sells itself—and doubles its sales in city after city—in the face of today's stiff competition?

That's what the new Dodge is doing. Winning thousands of new owners, by laying its cards on the table. Asking any other car in the low price field to match it on the open road, in traffic, and up hills.

Isn't this the way an automobile should be bought? On merit alone! Don't you want to buy a car on what it actually does in your own hands? Why gamble on words?

Accept Dodge's Challenge

Go to your nearest Dodge dealer and ask for the "Show-Down" plan and score card. Then go out and try to make any competitor's car do what the big new Dodge Six does so easily. See if it can stay anywhere near the Dodge on a hill. Try to make it ride half as smoothly, even over roughest roads. Try to make it flash ahead in traffic, the way the Dodge does, at the slightest touch on the pedal. Or stop nearly so quickly, so surely as the Dodge with its remarkably safe hydraulic brakes. Check Dodge's many engineering advantages, point by point. Calculate the plus value they give you on a showdown basis.

Yes, be the judge yourself. Keep in mind the utter smartness of Dodge's modern lines. The beautifully tailored interiors. Its big 115-inch wheelbase with exceptionally roomy body.

"I'm skeptical about sales talk. That's why the Show-Down Plan won me. It's all facts, not claims," says C. Lasnhardt.

Save Money With A Dodge!

Compare the 7 big ways Dodge saves you money. These alone mean from $50 to $100 extra savings on running expense. Then you'll wonder how anyone can be satisfied with any other car, at any other near Dodge's amazing low price. Only a few dollars more than the lowest price cars!

Your present car will probably make the full down payment on a big, new Dodge Six. You, too, may be surprised to find that the low monthly payments on a thrilling new Dodge Six are actually less than many now spend on upkeep and repairs for their old cars!

Drive the new Dodge today. Dodge wants you to try it on this "Show-Down" basis. Even if you don't intend to buy, Dodge wants you to have the "Show-Down" score card—the new aid in judging real motor car value. See your nearest Dodge dealer.

EX-CLERGYMEN LEAD NUDIST FAD IN U. S.

Because of an apparent growth in the nudist movement in the United States, International News Service assigned Leigh Matteson, its science editor, to make a first-hand investigation of nudist camps from a scientific angle. Today's article is the first of Mr. Matteson's series. Other articles will appear subsequently in the Sun-Telegraph.

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Under the leadership of two ex-clergymen whose activities have the tacit approval of that arch-moralist, Dr. John S. Sumner, secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, nudist converts have sharply increased this year in the United States.

An investigation of practice of nakedness by adults and children of both sexes, indoors and outdoors, has just been completed by International News Service.

It was discovered that several hundred new nudist organizations are operating throughout the country this spring and thousands of new members have been enrolled.

DIRECT INFORMATION

Discovery that the two ex-clergymen, and a number of doctors of philosophy, lawyers, psychologists and businessmen, were promoting or practicing nudism, led this writer to join several nudist groups at camps and gymnasiums to obtain direct information about the nudists and their practices.

One of the camps at which the nudists were observed at rest and play is located in Rockland County, New York, where Thomas Farley, brother of Postmaster General James A. Farley is Sheriff.

Another camp is a few miles across the Hudson River from Hyde Park, ancestral home of President Roosevelt. Many other camps are located in Westchester County, nearby New Jersey and Connecticut.

Data also were obtained on new camps in Philadelphia, Chicago, Texas and California.

Eye-witness accounts of the actual practice of nudism and interviews with individual nudists will be contained in succeeding stories. Physicians and psychologists also will discuss the practice of group nakedness.

Responsibility for the sharp increase of interest in nudism this year must go to the two former clergymen, Dr. Henry Strong Huntington and Dr. Ilsley Boone.

Dr. Huntington, a former Presbyterian minister, and Dr. Boone, a former Baptist divine, are associated in the operation of one of the largest and most exclusive nudist camps in the east, which occupies a 300-acre tract near Otis, Mass.

Only people with considerable incomes can afford this camp. Entrance fees alone range from $20 for a week-end, to $1,000 for a life membership.

NUDIST CONFERENCE

Dr. Huntington and Dr. Boone, organized this year the International Nudist Conference, under which nudist organization is promoted throughout the country.

The pair then started publication this month of an illustrated magazine devoted to the promotion of nudism and the interests of nudists.

In order to forestall the banning of the publication from the newsstands and from the mails, Drs. Huntington and Boone sent an intermediary to Dr. Sumner with proofs of the articles and photographs they proposed to publish in the first issue offered for sale.

After this inspection the magazine went to press. It contained 27 separate photographs of individual nudists and groups of nudists engaged in varied activities.

An edition of 20,000 copies of "The Nudist," as the publication was named, was run off and distributed throughout the nation. The edition sold out so quickly that additional copies were printed, until about 40,000 copies in all were distributed. The first edition of the second issue, out this week, will be 50,000 copies.

Public reaction to the first issue was immediate. Nudist organizations in the nudist's directory were swamped with telephone and mail inquiries, and new groups began at once to apply at the conference offices for organization information and literature on camp and gymnasium regulations.

WANTS TO DIE, GIRL JAILED

Clara Ortman, 21, of 1200 Sandusky street, a graduate of South Hills High School, today was sent to jail for five days to think over her alleged threat to end her life.

When she and Leroy Vogel, 26, of 2504 Sarah street, were arraigned in North Side Police Court, Lieut. Harry E. Moore testified the young woman had said:

"I wanted to end it all last night and forget my troubles. I still want to and when I get out of here I'm going to jump off a bridge."

Miss Ortman and Vogel were found by a patrolman last night near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks, River avenue. She was unconscious from liquor, police said.

Vogel paid a $5 fine.

BAN ROOSEVELT PARTY NAME

Judge Frank P. Patterson today sustained objections to use of the name of Roosevelt Independent Party at the November election.

C. C. Hamilton, of 5407 Coral street, and others had filed a petition to pre-empt the name for city and county tickets. David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, filed objections on the ground that use of the name of the President of the United States would tend to confuse voters and that an Independent party already was in existence.

KIDNAP HIDEOUT BEING HUNTED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—(INS.)—Police of two cities today were to continue co-operative efforts with two federal agencies in an effort to trace down the kidnapers of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of H. F. McElroy, city manager, who was released Sunday after payment of $30,000 ransom.

Police yesterday confined their activities almost exclusively to a search for the house with an earthen basement floor where Miss McElroy was held.

Fifteen persons, questioned yesterday, were released. Miss McElroy was unable to identify protographs of her abductors at police headquarters yesterday.

McMath Kidnaper Shuns Insanity Plea

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., May 31.—(AP.)—Elias Burwick, counsel for Kenneth Buck, who, with his brother, Cyril, is being held in the kidnaping of 10-year-old Peggy McMath, of Harwichport, tonight said his client was "perfectly normal" and that there would be no plea of insanity.

Sleuths' Ruse Traps Numbers Suspect

N. H. Andrews, Darragh street, who operates a restaurant at 208 Eleventh street, was held for court by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg yesterday on a charge of operating a lottery.

Plainclothesmen Ray Miller and Daniel Owens testified they entered Andrews' restaurant and asked to play some numbers. He wrote them a slip for a nine-cent bet and they arrested him, they said.

REDUCE NOW WITHOUT THYROID WITHOUT SALTS WITHOUT DIET

Science finds absolutely safe way to lose ugly fat.

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 8 or 10 pounds a month.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $500 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If he doesn't have Vannays, insist that he orders it for you.

DR S. H. CHURCH -:- Pittsburgher on Network Discusses Dry Law -:- ON THE AIR TONIGHT

Gracie Allen At Chicago Fair

Speaking under the auspices of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, goes on the air over a 26-station NBC network from the studios of KDKA tonight at 10 o'clock. Dr. Church's talk, listed for 15 minutes, is entitled "The Fight for Liberty."

Mr. Kaufmann

"Deeds, Not Words," a special program heralding the opening of Kaufmann's sixty-second anniversary celebration tomorrow, is presented on WCAE at 9:30 tonight, with Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of the store and prominent civic and social figure, giving a review of Pittsburgh's progress during the last 60 years. The musical portion of the program is provided by a marimba ensemble and the WCAE Mixed Quartet.

'Star-a-Minute'

Something novel in the line of building dedications is billed on CBS-WJAS at 6:15 p. m., when dumbcracking Gracie Allen and George Burns, assisted by Guy Lombardo's music-makers, christen the General Cigar Building at the Century of Progress Exposition.

The Lombardo-Burns and Allen outfit also goes on at its usual hour—9:30, and contributes goofisms to the "star-a-minute" program at 5:45, marking "Meet the Artists" second air anniversary. Also topping the latter line-up are Kate Smith, Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, Jack Benny, Fred Waring, Easy Aces, the Boswells and Morton Downey, with the latter, enroute to London aboard the S. S. Europa, taking part via short-wave.

The spotlight of second anniversaries does another twist today to focus on WWSW, as the Hotel Schenley station goes into its third year of operation. A special program in observance of the event is broadcast at 7 p. m. with Attorney Harry H. Meizlik, Pittsburgh Jewish leader, as guest speaker.

Program Debuts

Paul Gannon, tenor; Katherine Rickert, violinist, and Ralph Federer, pianist, are combined in a new daily, except Sunday, WJAS series, "Songs at Eventide," inaugurated at 6:45 p. m. under the sponsorship of Meyer Jonasson's.

Miss Rickert

Another premiere brings Theodore Hahn, Jr., and his orchestra to WCAE at 4 in a series of semi-classical and popular concerts known as "Southern Symphonies."

That promised program of "kangaroo jazz," by an NBC orchestra under Cecil James Morrison, Australia's Paul Whiteman, is listed on NBC-KDKA at 9:30 with short-wave transmitting to Sydney.

"Music Magic," featuring Robert Royce, tenor, and Ruth Lyon, soprano, with Roy Shields' orchestra, resumes at 10:30 on KDKA . . . On the same station at 6:30, "Pittsburgh Spotlights" brings Viola Byrgerson, contralto, and Letha Frazier Rankin, soprano, in a program of Scandinavian and English folk songs.

Radio 'Jury' Decides Fate Of Killer

By AIRCASTER

"The trial of Vivian Ware," a radio innovation of yesteryear, in which the heroine went on trial for murder and had the radio audience for her jury, went into history as the first broadcast to place in the lap of the listener a decision in jurisprudence. It packed, therefore a thrill, which, basically of course, was fictional.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, the audience again will be asked to sit as a jury—to decide whether or not a murderer was justified in his act. Only this time, the murderer will be real.

He has confessed to the Voice of Experience, the WJAS oracle, to a crime. It occurred years ago and the killer, though undiscovered, has been tortured by conscience, and feels now that if his case is presented to fellow radio listeners, and their response should approve his deed as justifiable he may be able to find peace in this assurance. If not—then, perhaps the prjocesses of the law may be invoked.

The stunt interests many jurists and attorneys, who see a possibility in radio broadcasting for public trials with the masses of listeners serving as juries.

The idea, probably, wouldn't work.

Dempsey vs. Tunney

It will be sort of an "inside out story" that Edwin C. Hill presents Friday night. Recently, Gene Tunney was hailed into the studio to lay bare his career, and particularly his version of the Chicago battle which he lost, some say, to Dempsey.

Dempsey, although he courteously refused to scan the Tunney script when he happened to meet the retired champ in the studio, obviously didn't fancy the Tunney account of the long count—and Dempsey has asked to be permitted to give his side of the controversy.

A Horse on Phil

Phil Cook, the multi-voiced broadcaster, has caught his first cold.

And that means that all 12 of the village characters which he portrays via the kilocycles, have husky throads too.

That wouldn't do—and remain an illusion. So Phil had to rewrite his rural script and have the medical authorities (also with colds) quarantine most of the voices—and those few who remain outdoors, are hoarse.

Cook explains:

"It's a one-hoarse town, sure enough."

Globe-Trotting

-By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN-

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

"We wouldn't miss you for the world but some of those household hints can be dispensed with. I used the vinegar in the lard when frying doughnuts and spoiled three pounds of lard," writes Dorothy Orcutt, Cecil.

I admit that once in a while cooking and baking suggestions haven't been altogether successful, but there have been no complaints on ideas how to take care of the baby. Doughnuts and vinegar don't sound right, anyway.

Clifford K. Wright, who aided Officers Puff and Flaherty in the capture of Geisler and Prince, escaped Maug gangsters, has become enthusiastic about police work. He's making a civil service application for the police force.

The arresting officers, duly appreciative of Clifford's help, may cut him in on the reward.

Sergeant Williams, Homestead police globe trotter, reports the arrival of Fred Croyle, 17. He came to Homestead to find a father he has never seen. His mother died when he was an infant and people in Greenwood took the boy to raise. Friends have told him that his father is in Homestead, employed, or was, as a railroad engineer. The father is David Croyle. Glad to help, Sergeant. Let me know if he is located.

* * *

Mr. Rump—Carbon bisulphid is bad medicine for black ants. Several globe trotters have reported success. Ought to be good for white ants, too. If those white insects thrive on wood they might not be ants, but termites.

H. Richmond, Kedron Ave—See Monday's paragraphs.

Bernie, Phil Baker 'Lost' at Fair

Wandering through the Century of Progress Exposition tomorrow, Ben Bernie and Phil Baker will get "lost" only to be "discovered" by the NBC-KDKA audience at 3:45 p. m., as they become ensnared by the wonders of the scientific exhibits at the fair.

And so-o-o, having been lost and found and having gleaned any amount of scientific knowledge, they'll proceed to put on an exhibit all by themselves.

Fay Bainter Star in Magazine Drama

"A Grain of Sand," a drama revealing the astonishing career of a Japanese girl sold as a geisha by her father, will be presented on Station WFBG, Altoona, tomorrow at 3 p. m.

The play, with Fay Bainter portraying the principal role, is based on an article to be published in the next issue of the American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

COX MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER

Father Cox had a busy Memorial Day. As state chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars he officiated at the services for the soldiers at St. Mary's Cemetery in the morning and in the afternoon he spoke at the memorial services under the auspices of the same organization at West View High School.

Incidentally, Father Cox gives a great deal of his time and counsel to the war veterans—helping them in filing their claims and in obtaining compensation. In the meantime requests to him for aid for the destitute come along just as fast as ever.

Starting another week in his drive for Sun-Telegraph subscriptions, Father Cox is still meeting with gratifying success. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

AVALON SHRINE DEDICATED

Several thousand persons attended the dedication and services yesterday at the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes on a tree-covered hillside near the monastery of the Slovak Franciscan Fathers in South Home avenue, Avalon.

The shrine, a duplicate of the original at Lourdes, France, was built by unemployed men. Materials, valued at $5,000, were paid for by small contributions.

The shrine is on a hillside in the rear of the monastery. The face of the hill is covered with stone in which has been built an altar, a niche for the statue of the Blessed Virgin and a small bell. Grounds below the shrine can accommodate several thousand worshippers.

Persons from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and as far West as Chicago, heard sermons by the Rev. Paschal Kavulic, representing the Slovak Federation of America, and others.

Democrats Gain in Boroughs, Townships

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Complete enrollment figures for the boroughs and townships of Allegheny County reveal 239,804 electors listed as Republicans and 51,361 as Democrats. That leaves the Democrats far in the rear, showing that the preponderant attitude of this county still attaches to the Republican label for primary purposes even though it may swing to a Democrat in a general election.

But the figures additionally show a loss in Republican enrollment over 1932 of 26,371 and a consequent Democratic gain of 25,453. In this connection it should be remembered that in the November election of last year the county went Democratic, so far as the presidency was concerned, and elected nine legislators running as Democrats.

This year's figures can be interpreted as a revival of Democratic interest based on the performances of the national administration at Washington. The enrollment means that many of those formerly listed as Republicans, but who voted for Roosevelt last year, have decided to affiliate with the minority party.

Job Desires Don't Account for All

Some cynical observers contend that at last part of the group is actuated by a desire to get jobs under the Democratic administration, and could not do so without enrolling as Democrats. This may apply to some, but could not account for all.

It does mean Democratic nominations in the county and city primary this year will have a tangible value, and probably will be more vigorously contested for than is usual. That will be another good thing for the minority party, as it will be difficult to handpick candidates with so many eligible voters to determine the fitness of the entries.

Of course any Democratic victory must be made possible by the votes of men and women enrolled as Republicans, as occurred in 1932. But the figures do indicate something of a displeasure with the government which has been furnished by the Republican organization.

The number who enrolled as of "no party," always an undetermined factor in a general election, only advanced 489 this year, something of a surprise. The total is only 3,239.

Majorities Change In Some Districts

In some districts of the county where Republicans have been predominant the new figures show a Democratice majority. One such is the Third Ward of East Pittsburgh. In 1932 there were 708 Republicans to 123 Democrats. Now there are 466 Democrats to 278 Republicans.

The eight districts of Glassport, three of which have become Democratic, showed only 143 Democrats a year ago, and now muster 1,497 for the minority party. The Republicans lost about the same number the Democrats gained.

In the first district of the First Ward of North Braddock the Republicans had 287 to 29 for the Democrats. Now the figures are 268 Democrats, 106 Republicans. In Wall there were 503 Republicans, 177 Democrats. For 1933

North Side Man Held On Hit-Run Charge

Described by police as a hit-run driver of an automobile, which struck Mrs. Esther Mountain, 65, 20 Isabella street, at Stockton avenue and Merchant street, Andrew McGuire, 31, of 712 North avenue, was being held in North Side Police station pending the outcome of the woman's injuries.

COUNTY HONORS SOLDIER DEAD OF ALL WARS

Parades and Services Mark Memorial Day Celebration Here

Military parades in many sections of the city yesterday opened a day of special ceremonies as Pittsburgh joined the remainder of the nation in observance of Memorial Day. In the lines of march were soldiers of the Civil, Spanish-American and World wars, women's auxiliaries, Boy and Girl Scouts and members of fraternal organizations.

City, county and state officials took part in many of the programs. Mayor John S. Herron was the principal speaker at services in Calvary Cemetery in the morning. Other officials taking part were Councilmen Frank A. Duggan and Clifford B. Connelley.

MANY SERVICES

Services were held in Homewood Cemetery, sponsored by McPherson Post No. 117, G. A. R., and patriotic organizations of the East Liberty district. County Controller Robert G. Woodside was the principal speaker. Post 3, G. A. R., and Davis Star Camp, Division of Pennsylvania, Sons of Union Veterans, sponsored ceremonies in Alleghey Cemetery. In Uniondale Cemetery the services were in charge of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Spanish War Veterans and the G. A. R.

A parade of veterans, Boy Scouts and police preceded ceremonies in the Homestead Cemetery. The principal speaker was Judge George V. Moore. W. A. Scott was in charge of the program.

Following the services the procession moved to St. Mary's Cemetery nearby, where Paul Barthol, past commander of Post No. 160, American Legion, was the principal speaker.

Gen. Cronkhite Praises 80th at Plot Dedication

Tribute to the gallantry and intelligence of every member of the Eightieth Division, of which many Pittsburghers were members, was paid by Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, division commander, in dedicating a memorial plot in Allegheny County Memorial Park yesterday.

Gen. Cronkhite dwelt particularly on the ability of Brig. Gen. Lloyd M. Brett, commander of the brigade composed of Western Pennsylvanians, and said the reason Gen. Brett was not advanced to the division command was of a personal nature, of which he was the unfortunate victim. He said this was in spite of the high commendation of his corps commanders and the division commander.

Gen. Cronkhite again spoke his oft-repeated words that his division lost not one life needlessly. He said:

"And when I add to this, that though the only division called three times into the line, our losses were markedly less than those of any other combat division, that the Eightieth Division is ranged No. 1 of all national army divisions in the records of the War Department, you have the story of those to whom you entrusted your loved ones."

Referring to decorations which he said he was wearing for the first and last time, Gen. Cronkhite told the Memorial Day crowd they were awarded to him only as a representative of the division and that they soon would be placed in historical safe-keeping.

THE FIRING SQUAD AT ALLEGHENY CEMETERY AS PITTSBURGH HONORED THE NATION'S DEAD IN THE ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY GRAVESIDE SERVICES

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., May 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

There is nothing any more gratifying than to have been away, and get back and get ahold of a home town paper. It's like meeting an old friend and having a glass of three times two with him.

Will Rogers

Knowing I had been to the Morgan investigation, everybody asked me on the way out, "What's it going to lead to, and will it do any good?"

Yes, it's going to be very educational, not only the Morgan investigation, but of all big business. It's going to show us just how "big business" got big. It got big according to law. But not according to Hoyle. Yours, WILL.

Roovevelt in Rain At Memorial Rites

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP.)—A driving rain beat on the bared head of the President of the United States yesterday as he stood in tribute to the country's soldier dead at Arlington Cemetery.

At Mr. Roosevelt's expressed wish there was special remembrance for the victims of the Akron's air crash in the Memorial Day services at the Unknown Soldier's graveside.

PASTOR OUSTED, CHURCH AFIRE

A few hours after the congregation of St. James' Baptist Church, Negro, voted to oust its pastor, fire was discovered in the building at 1127 Herron avenue, according to Battalion Fire Chief Daniel Jones.

The pastor, the Rev. C. H. Miller, of 3809 Fleetwood street, protested the ouster action, Chief Jones said, declaring he owned the building. He said he organized the congregation, built the church 14 years ago and has it insured. It has a membership of 45 families.

Chief Jones, who requested an investigation by the bomb and arson squad, estimated the damage at $500.

The pastor said he knew nothing of the fire until informed by a passerby.

Two Face Inquiry In Barrel Theft

Stanley Swidewsky, 18, of 2923 Penn avenue, and Edward Figgus, 16, of Mulberry way, charged with being suspicious persons in connection with the theft of beer barrels, yesterday were held over by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court until Thursday.

Although the youths denied the charges, detectives said they were being investigated. Pittsburgh Brewing Company officials said the barrels were returned to the company and deposits collected.

Helen Richey, Reported Lost on Flight, Safe

Bad Weather Forces Aviatrix to Land At Allentown

Miss Helen Richey, one of Pittsburgh's entrants in the postponed all-women air race around the New York Metropolitan area, missing for three hours on her flight from Pittsburgh, landed at Allentown, because of weather conditions.

Miss Richey, reported as missing by New York air authorities after she had been unheard of for three hours, said in a telegram to her mother, Mrs. J. B. Richey, that she was spending the night with a friend, Miss Madeline Schroeder, in Bethlehem. She left Bettis Field about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Miss Helen McCloskey, another Pittsburgh entrant in the races, left Rodgers Field about the same time and reported having seen Miss Richey as they approached the Allegheny mountains over which hung a heavy fog.

Pedestrian Slugged, Robbed on North Side

D. G. Murray, 64, of 201 Water street, reported to North Side police he had been slugged in Cremo street early today and robbed of $7. A short time later Robert Medford, 27, of 306 York way, was arrested and police said Murray identified the man.

Chicago Shows Great Speed in Its One Century

–By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER–

Only took three centuries for Manhattan real estate to jump from twenty-four dollars to over five billion.

Shows the opportunities in America for a patient young man. As Emerson said, even though you make mouse traps, you will never fool a cat.

All our big cities were doing well at the last investigation. We will admit that Chicago has the edge on the nation with its one hundred years of progress, some of which was Sunday driving.

That original price included a bottle of whisky. That's how Dutch treats started.

Things look so good now that our dollars in frozen property have put away their ice skates. There was a time when they could have staged the Alaska dog-sled race right up Fifth avenue without a detour.

A dose of quinine should have gone with that whisky. A glance through our intellectual hoss-collar indicates that fever is just as bad as chills.

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren yesterday telegraphed Knight asking for details.

Maug and Turpack escaped from the Woods Run prison here on April 27.

SOME SUGGEST SALES TAX AS SUBSTITUTE

Revelation J.P.Morgan Escaped Payment Brings Criticism

A wave of indignation against proposed increases in income tax rates when the present law allows men of wealth to escape entirely is the general reaction among business and professional men here.

Many, shocked by the disclosures of how J. P. Morgan and his partners have paid no income tax for three years, have declared themselves in favor of a change in the law which would more equitably distribute the tax burden.

A sales tax has been suggested by some to replace either in whole or in part the present income tax. It is declared the sales tax would be easier collected and would be paid by all consumers.

Here is what some citizens of the county think regarding income tax reform:

C. V. Scheck, Mt. Lebanon Township commissioner:

"The rich man has an advantage over the common man because the laws are so drawn that the little fellow without capital cannot make capital deductions from his income tax. I think the tax law should be changed to give the salaried and professional man a fair deal. The rich man should not be preferred. I believe that manufacturers sales tax is the solution of the entire problem, and that it will some day supplant the income tax. I have seen the sales tax work successfully in Mississippi."

R. Maurice Trimble, architect:

"As it is now a very small proportion of the people of the United States pay income tax. This makes the law class legislation. Everyone should pay a tax, even if it is only a dollar. A small sales tax would seem to be the levy that would be less felt and could be more evenly distributed. The taxation of one class to the exclusion of another is wrong and can reach a point where it ceases to be profitable."

C. P. Rhen, past president Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations:

"There's no question but that the income tax law should be changed. You have the picture of a man running around in a large yacht and paying no tax while the little fellow suffers. The sales tax is the best thing considered. It can be collected with less distress from a large number of people."

Dr. Edward N. Clopper, executive secretary of the Federation of Social Agencies:

"I think everyone ought to pay an income tax, and I don't think there should be any loopholes in the law. If evasions are made impossible, perhaps there will not be any need of the proposed increase in the tax rate."

Attorney George P. Kountz:

"The present income tax law should be changed to more proportionately distribute the burden of governmental expense. While the actions of Mr. Morgan and his associates are undoubtedly within the law, it does not seem fair to the man who has no capital but his labor to allow such deductions. Human rights should be considered before property rights if there is to be a contented people."

3,800 PERMITS TO SELL BEER ISSUED HERE

Thirty-eight hundred permits to sell 3.2 beer and wine in Allegheny County had been issued at the County Treasurer's office today, with more applications to be acted upon before the time limit expires at midnight tonight.

The permits are taken out under the McClure state beer control act, which requires all retailers, wholesalers and brewers to obtain state licenses for the year beginning June 1.

Clerks worked until midnight Monday preparing permits so that applicants could have them by tomorrow. Many applicants were required to supply additional information before being granted licenses to dispense beer.

A. E. Anke, deputy County Treasurer, announced that after today no more liquor licenses will be issued until June, 1934.

20,000 Drinking Places Seen for Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, May 31.—(AP.)—Throughout Pennsylvania the eating place of today is the legal drinking place of tomorrow.

The transition occurs at midnight as the state takes over the control of 3.2 beer and wine sales under the new McClure Act.

The law by which Pennsylvania curbs the sales unrestricted since April 7 will set up about 20,000 legal oases and send $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year into municipal treasuries from license fees.

It decrees that sale for consumption on the premises shall be confined to licensed "eating places," dining cars and steamships. Hotels and clubs may sell to bona fide guests and members in private rooms.

NEW PARK BUS LINES SOUGHT

The County Commissioners in a letter to independent bus owners have asked them to attend a meeting Thursday to discuss the use of school buses to transport persons wishing to visit the two county parks from the end of the nearest street car line.

The matter of procuring a certificate of public convenience for such transportation companies has been discussed by the county heads.

Two routes for North Park and five for South Park were proposed by Director of Parks A. M. Marion. At present, buses are run to both the South and the North parks by the Pittsburgh Transportation Company, subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

The amount involved was about $15,000.

FAIL TO REVIVE BOY SWIMMER

Efforts of a life-saving crew to resuscitate Harry Wilfong, 15, of 770 Van Kirk street, Clairton, after he was dragged from the Clairton swimming pool by a chum, proved futile late yesterday.

C. J. McMahon, pool director, said the boy was in the water only a few minutes before he was rescued by William Barrickman, 15, of 411 Caldwell street, Clairton. McMahon administered artificial respiration pending arrival of Charles Schleifer and Peter Durso, of the Equitable Gas Company and Duquesne Light Company utility crews, who administered four tanks of oxygen in a three-hour effort to revive the boy.

An autopsy by Dr. J. W. McMeans, Coroner's physician showed the boy died of a heart ailment.

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Racketeers collect hundreds of millions of dollars yearly from society in this country AND GET AWAY WITH IT.

Racketeers laugh at the laws, mock the courts and thumb their noses at the authorities, AND GET AWAY WITH IT.

Racketeers perpetrate all manner of crimes from murder down to petty larceny AND GET AWAY WITH IT.

HOW? RACKETEERS ARE ORGANIZED. They are highly organized and they demand and obtain respect for their organization; they make their own laws, rule their own domain, hold their own courts, settle their own disputes, decree their own judgment and enforce their own decrees.

Society, to combat them effectively MUST BE ORGANIZED with an organization just as firmly welded together, as smoothly working, as ably financed and directed as the organization which rules gangdom.

Without such an organization society is HELPLESS before the underworld.

All who pay tribute to the racketeers—citizens, business men, big and little, property owners, mechanics, tradesmen—all in the community except the few base public servants allied with the underworld must unite to curb the wolves of gangdom.

Society, effectively organized and directed, can and must and will shatter the alliance between the racketeers and certain miscreant public servants.

CIRCUS SEASON OPENS HERE

There were thrills aplenty for young and old when that grand old circus, Hagenbeck and Wallace yesterday opened for Pittsburghers the circus season.

Primarily a wild animal display, this new edition of the circus had lots of other attractions. But any review naturally must concern itself with the trained animal act because Clyde Beatty, youthful trainer of jungle beasts, is in the production. He lives up to all of the advance adjectives.

Next may come Miss McFarlan and her leaping hounds; Roland Hebbler and his troue of trained seals; Princess Mu Kahn, who adds a brass ring to her neck every birthday, and Miss Wentz and her herd of elephants.

Only the STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

dares challenge with a new Motor Fuel that

Guarantees SMOOTHER PERFORMANCE

IN ANNOUNCING ESSOLENE, which will be on sale June 2nd, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania makes the above guarantee with a full understanding of the importance of such a statement by this company • The public is accustomed to fantastic and exaggerated claims in gasoline advertising. It has heard of so many "Super" gasolines—seen so many words piled upon words about "anti-knock" properties, "mileage," "quick-starting," etc., that all such descriptions have, quite properly, come to mean nothing • As leader of the industry for more than half a century, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania recognizes a double responsibility to the public • First, the responsibility to pioneer in improvements and new developments — no matter how great the expense • Second, never to lend its name to a product until that product has proved its worth, and the validity of every statement made about it • Such is the position we take about Essolene. We stand squarely behind it as a great motor fuel improvement • Automobile engines have improved rapidly in the last few years. Gasoline improvement has not kept pace. Essolene was developed in the Standard Oil Research Laboratories with present motor problems and future motor trends in mind. The result is a fuel in advance of the times, basically superior to all regular priced and, with few exceptions, all premium priced gasolines • Try Essolene on June 2nd. Compare it, in any car, with the performance of any gasoline you have ever used. Essolene will speak for itself. You can supply the superlatives.

Colored Orange to Prevent Substitution

• Essolene, Esso and Essolube—the 5-Star Motor Oil, are sold at Esso Stations and Dealers owned, operated or supplied by the following companies: the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, and the Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Incorporated.

ONE KILLED, 8 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

One person was killed and eight persons, three of them children, were injured in automobile accidents during yesterday's holiday, according to police reports.

Charles E. Thomas, 33, of Gibsonia, was killed and two girls injured as the automobile they were riding plunged off the highway near Oil City. Ray Thomas, cousin of the dead man and driver of the machine, said he lost control when he swerved to avoid collision with another machine. Mabel Gardner, of Dormont, and Marian Schrider, of Gibsonia, suffered slight injuries.

Mrs. Lester Kujbas, 53, and John Zaha, 49, both of 2 Phillips way, were treated at the Mercy Hospital for body bruises after their car, driven by Zaha, overturned in Saw Mill Run boulevard. Zaha's car upset when he swerved it sharply to avoid hitting another machine, police said.

Dorothy Stachowba, 3, of 184 Forty-seventh street, is in the St. Margaret's Hospital with a possible skull fracture suffered when struck by an automobile driven by Alfred Steinbaugh, 26, 1616 Villanova street, near her home. The driver was charged with reckless driving.

Lacher Feldman, 59, 1512 Colwell street, was treated at the Mercy Hospital for body bruises resulting when his pushcart was struck by a machine driven by Attorney Louis Barmen, of 1007 Farragut street, in Logan street, police reported.

In the Passavant Hospital, Benjamin Walker, 3, Negro, was treated for cuts and body bruises after being struck by an automobile driven by Abe Ruben, 3320 Camp street.

When losing his balance, standing on the curbstone at Carson and South Sixteenth streets, William Settlemaier, 5, of 152 South Sixteenth street, fell in front of the machine driven by Joseph Krause, 1800 Leolyn street, according to the South Side police report. The boy was treated at the South Side Hospital.

HITLER FIGHTS TO BEAT BISHOP

BERLIN, May 31.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler today authorized the Rev. Hermann Mueller to place the Nazi party's entire propaganda apparatus at the disposal of the German Christians to fight the appointment as bishop of the Reich of Dr. Fredrich von Bodelschwingh.

Dr. von Bodelschwingh in the final ballot was supported by the heads of all of the 29 Landeskirchen (Protestant church groups) except those representing Hamburg, Wuerttemberg and Mecklemburg. German Christians assert these church leaders do not represent the rank and file.

Party orders already have been issued to all Nazis to support the German Christians in the fight against Dr. von Bodelschwingh.

Supporters of the new bishop have pointed to statements by Chancellor Hitler that he would not interfere in church affairs.

Workers Rally To Democrats

In the Sixth Ward of North Varsailles the Democrats went from 19 to 379 and the Republicans shrunk from 498 to 144. It is the same story in many other districts, especially where the mapority of the citizens are working people—or were working people when there were jobs.

There are two exceptions, McKees Rocks and Homestead. In the Second District of the Second Ward of McKees Rocks in 1932 there was a lone Democrat to 609 Republicans. The Democrat still stands in solitary strength, but there are eight more Republicans.

In 1932 in the Second District of the Second Ward of Homestead there were 864 Republicans and nary a Democrat. In the last year 142 Republicans have departed from the fold, the 1933 enrollment being 722, but not one of them has gone the heretical length of becoming a Democrat. There still are none of that breed in the district.

Figures Cited for Boroughs and Townships

It should be understood that the figures cited as the total enrollment are for the boroughs and townships only, and do not include registration in Pittsburgh, Clairton, Duquesne or McKeesport. Even with the city figures missing, not to be disclosed until final registration day, the Democrats have more voters listed in a primary election than in previous history, according to County Chairman David L. Lawrence.

A threat in the general election, the Republican loss in the primary may be an advantage to the organization. Those who have swung to the Democratic standard are the Independents, the Republicans who have voted in general elections as they wished, after participating in the Republican primary.

They have never been easy to handle or control. Their removal will make it the more difficult for Independents to battle the Republican organization in the primary in Pittsburgh and throughout the county.

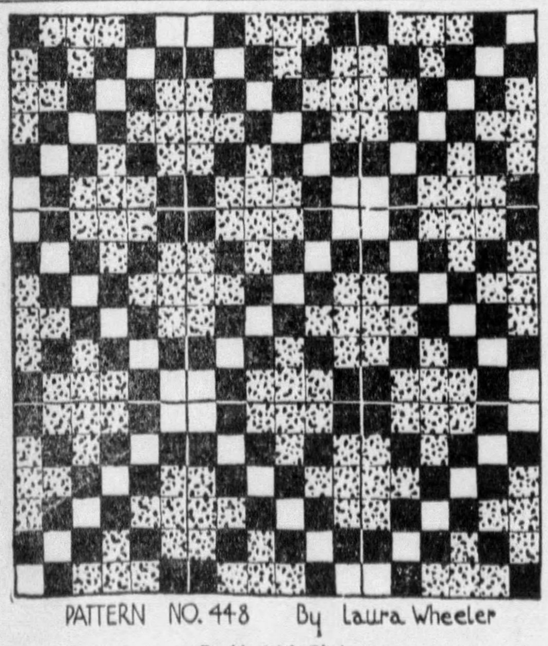
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



PATTERN NO. 448 By Laura Wheeler

Double Irish Chain

The Irish Chain is a quilt pattern that has been found with slight variations in all localities of the United States. It is the basis for many of our most popular patterns. The simplicity of the pattern—it is made entirely of squares—is surprising when the finished quilt is seen, for it evolves into a very rich design. This Double Irish Chain is called "double" because of the double line of squares which form the outstanding feature of the pattern. In olden times these chains were made of a variety of scraps of material, while the background squares remained of one material.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for a pattern for this design to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Aspinwall Club Sunshine Day Tomorrow

Mrs. Thomas J. Ford, who has been chairman of the finance committee of the Aspinwall Woman's Club since 1919, is to have another "big day" tomorrow when the club holds its annual sunshine day. That means the members will bring back the little gold satin bags which the committee distributed, each bag bearing a gift towards the clubhouse finances.

The decorations for sunshine day always come from the gardens of the members. Tomorrow they will be in gold and white, the club colors, with a touch of blue from the beautiful iris so many of the members cultivate. Another sunshine day tradition—the vice president always presides, so tomorrow, Mrs. S. F. Herr, will be in the chair. Mrs. J. B. Henry will accompany assembly singing and Miss Betty Beatty will lead.

Specially invited guests are Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women; Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president; Mrs. Robert K. Cochrane, county federation president, and her predecessor, Mrs. H. J. Fox.

Election will take place during a business session.

UNDER THE SHELTERING BRIM WITH HOT WEATHER FASHIONS

AFTER A GOOD many hesitations, it looks as though nothing could stop summer from a-coming in. Already clothes are filmier. Already all glasses of iced tea decorate lunch tables. White shoes begin to be a commonplace on city streets. There's a different feel about summer already. Something subtler than the previous briskness of cottons, linen organdies et al replacing tweeds and furs and velvets. Clothes in the summer are more romantic than they are in winter.

ALONG WITH the general lassitude attendant on rising temperatures, comes a gathering feeling of picturesqueness. The terribly tailored type of thing takes a rest for a bit, except for active sports. Women relax into sheer frilly dresses and at the same time the brims of their hats grow becomingly wider. It's all of a piece with summer and a welcome change from the little buttons of hats that go with brisk weather and blowy days. Beach hats shelter the eyes from glare. The one at the top is natural sailcloth, guaranteed to stamp out sunburn. It's enormous, with a long line in the front and a turn-up in the back. The edge is stitched to give it body. Bright-colored ribbons which trim it can be changed to match the current costume.

ANOTHER SUNSHADE hat is also sailcloth, and so nautical that its trimming takes the form of a hemp rope. The brim turns down from a shallow crown so it has the general shape and efficiency of a parasol. In the center is a hat with a craggy, dented crown, well suited to formal or informal wear. It's a stitched black linen with a shantung sort of surface and the most divine shape of the season.

* * *

AFTERNOONISH, THE next hat. Tiny fruits cluster at the back of the crown, a simple bow sits at the front of it. It is stitched into a shape that would have done credit to Gainsborough, very flat except for a gentle curve downward, front and back. Low on the shallow crown of the fifth hat are three tiny white bachelor buttons, a chaste trimming breaking the all-black of the stitched organdie.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Do Not Condemn a Person Because of Gossip

What do you do when you run across gossip—

Some malicious tale involving yourself or someone you love?

Do you roll up your sleeves and dig into it? Do you bravely trace it to its source, frankly discuss it with all concerned?

Or do you swallow it—hook, line and sinker—and then go off in a sulk, leaving folks to wonder what on earth ails you?

That's what Freddie did. And now look!

Dear Elsie Robinson—

You have helped many and I am sure that you can help me, so I am bringing my problem to you.

For a year and a half I kept steady company with a certain young lady, and we seemed to understand each other very well and enjoy each other's company. She always seemed to like me and be interested in what I had to say.

Well, a few months ago one of her girl friends informed me that this girl had spoken very unfavorably about me, and had said that she was hanging onto me because I was a "fish," as the saying is.

I know that my informant had no motive of her own for telling me all this, so since then I haven't seen this girl I had been going with.

Recently, through a confidential channel, this ex-girl friend of mine was informed concerning my knowledge of these said statements of hers and she denied making them.

IS UNDECIDED

Now I don't know what to do. Should I approach her first and have the matter straightened out? Or should I wait for her to come to me and clarify matters?

If it is true that she said those things, I want to step out of the picture, as a gentleman should. But whether they are true or not, I would like to have such gossip stopped.

Will you please help me out, and advise me what you think would be the best plan for me to take? FRED E.

What's your best plan?

Stop running out on an unpleasant situation and begin to face it like a man.

"You're fond of rating yourself as a gentleman, son, but the bitter truth is that, in this affair, you have acted like a coward and a cad.

For a year and a half you and this girl were close, understanding friends. You had every reason to trust her, and no reason on earth to believe this vicious tale about her. Yet, at the first blow to your egotism, you condemned her without giving her a chance to defend herself and went off to nurse your grudge.

TELL HER STORY

From your own report, I think she's well rid of you, young man. However, there may be more to you than your letter indicates. If so, prove it! Go to her as a man should; tell her the whole story; apologize because you didn't tell it to her before; ask her just what's what. Then, if you still can't trust her, get out and stay out. But at least before you do, for the sake of your self-respect, tackle this situation like a two-fisted male.

For this isn't just a test of your relationship with one girl. It's a test of your whole caliber as a man. All through your life you'll meet gossip—have to deal with slimy traps and tricks. If you can't fight such things courageously, then you'd better take the count right now.

For life's a tough game, Fred—and Pouters and Fraid-cats can't qualify.

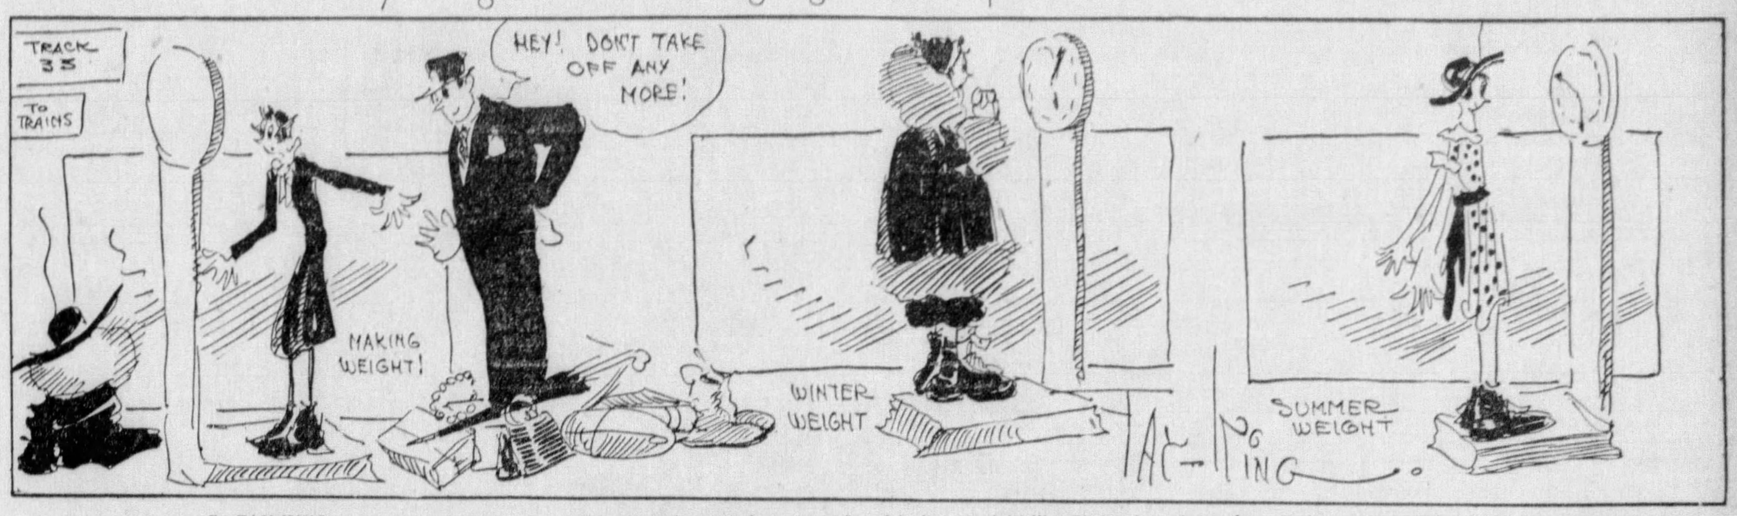
Fay King Decides Weighing Is a Sport for Summer Time



By FAY KING

In the Summer I am always running the scales. Not singing, but jumping on and off those penny weighing machines one sees around everywhere.

During the Winter, however, I only get weighed once or twice. Because unless one doesn't mind registering a weight like Carnera's when one is really nearer the weight of a canary, one must remove so many things.

A gallery will gather to gape. An attendant is apt to stroll over and say, "What's goin' on here?" He really is worried about what is coming off. And one is likely to get pneumonia along with the right numerals.

What I weigh doesn't interest me much one "weigh" or another, but I prefer those that flatter me a little! Some do!

Nick Leaves Marion and Madge, Returns to Fight

"Marion! Marion! Darling! I'm here, Aun——"

A strong hand slipped over my own lips, and Nick's hateful lips were touching my ear.

"Nix on the monikers, Babe," he murmured. "I want to see what the little dame calls you."

He was still suspicious of me, especially of the names I had given him, was watching cagily, to see if Marion called me "Madge." Suddenly I knew the reactions of a mouse when caught between the claws of a cat, and then released for a second's frantic run before being pounced upon again.

But I had no time for frightened shivers. Nick, swift, deft, efficient, had slashed the bonds that held Marion, and as I bent above her I suddenly felt my caressing fingers caught in her hands, while her voice, choked from the gag, but unexpectedly firm, said—"Oh! Darling Auntie Madge! I knew you'd come. But where's Ronald?"

I heard a sound like an expelled breath, and then Nick spoke genially.

"Well! Baby, it all clicks. You're oke by me. I'm banking on you keeping a promise if you make one—'specially," he added casually, "because there ain't anywhere for you to run to. But if I go over and give the kid a hand with the Big Noise of the other car, will you promise to stay here with the little dame till I get back with the boy friend. If I can get hold of Tony, I'll bring the Big Noise along, too, all tied up ready for roasting before a slow fire if you want him that way."

WORRIED ABOUT RONALD

He evidently intended this to be a jocular remark, but I was sure that if he thought the occasion demanded it, he was fully capable of turning his jest into earnest.

"Oh! what does he mean?" Marion moaned again. "Where's Ronald?"

"You'll see Ronald pretty soon, if your auntie promises to stay put right on this spot until I come back. How about it, Baby?"

"Of course I promise," I said hurriedly. "Where could I go, anyway?"

"You said a mouthful there, Babe." Nick laughed softly. So I'll be on my way. I'll be seein' you!"

He walked away, hurriedly, with a slightly rolling gait—I guess that Nick did not care particularly for running—and Marion's hands pulled my head down close to hers.

"Quick!" she said. "Tell me what's happening! I didn't faint. I only pretended to, but I might as well have for all I found out. But I know Ronald is fighting that awful thing, and I'm so afraid. Is he—has he?—"

"He was all right when we brought you over here," I told her, truthfully, for the sounds of the combat had indicated Ronald's ultimate triumph if his youth and fury could hold out against Owen's craftiness and experience. "And now that this—man—has gone back to help him, I am sure Ronald will win."

SUSPICIOUS OF NICK

"Oh-h!" The sound was a tortured fear, a prayer, a pean of relief, all in one. Then she tightened her clutch of my hands.

"Are you sure that man will help Ronald?" she asked fearfully. "He seems—poisonous to me. And—wasn't he calling you 'Baby'? How did he get here?"

My cheeks were suddenly burning. I was glad that she couldn't see them.

"He is poisonous, darling," I told her. "But, Ronald and I couldn't have found you without him."

As swiftly, as succinctly as I could, I told her what had happened since Owen had started down the mountainside with her, bound and gagged, held before him upon the horse with muffled feet. I knew that she was giving the recital but half attention, that her ears as well as my own, were strained toward the struggle of Ronald with Owen. But when I had finished, she put another terrified question.

"But, Auntie Madge, do you think this awful man who calls you 'Baby' is going to let us go even if Ronald does win out?"

Household Hints

If the edges of drawers and doors are varnished it will prevent the wood from absorbing moisture and prevent swelling.

If ink stains on the fingers are rubbed with vinegar before the hands are washed, the stains will wash off easily in the soapy water.

Any sort of decorative scheme in the kitchen that complicates the problem of keeping it clean is foolish, such as tricky delicate curtains.

Put a cardboard pie plate underneath the can of paint before starting in on the job. The plate will catch all drippings and gives you a place to put your brush when moving from one place to another.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Buffet Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married very soon. If I invite all the relatives on his and her side, there will be about 40. My home is so small that I have no dining-room. My kitchen table seats but six. It would take most of the day setting and unsetting the table for breakfast. Would you suggest a buffet luncheon? If so, will you please suggest what would be most appropriate? B.

By all means plan to use the convenient buffet service. I'd suggest that you put an attractive cloth on your small table and set the table attractively in the corner of the living-room. Use this as a "base" for the serving. Instead of placing your decorations in the center of the table, place the table against the wall and put the decorations toward the wall side of the table. Plan to have a casserole dish, or dishes, prepared as the main dish . . . something that you make especially well. With this, hot rolls. Also, if you wish, sliced cold meats, with stuffed tomatoes or a salad, with one or several kinds of cheese and toasted crackers or slim sandwiches. (Or one or two kinds of cold meats and slices of meat loaf or galantine . . . this is an excellent combination).

Then, for dessert, a favorite for buffet meals is a delicious lemon meringue or chocolate meringue pie, or a simpler pie. Or cut-up fruits, with layer cake, or small cakes. Hot coffee, of course, and if you wish, an alternative of a fruit punch.

I have suggested foods which, with a little wise planning, can be prepared beforehand, and served in small space.

Hospitality

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the proper way to repay a visit to a married couple and a small child? My girl friend and I were invited to visit them and we had a very enjoyable evening, but I am in a quandary deciding how to repay them? SAMUEL.

Some Saturday or Sunday afternoon you might invite this couple (and the child if necessary, but it is best not to) to have tea with you and the young lady, at some attractive hotel or tea room. Or dinner or luncheon, if you prefer. Or you might take them to the theater, matinee on Saturday, or an evening performance.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

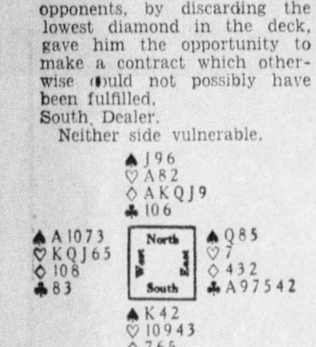
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Discard of a Deuce

It is rare, indeed, that the discard of a deuce from a suit can be harmful, but in a game played at a popular club in New York recently, where Mr. Raymond Balfe, the Declarer, was playing a contract of three no-trump redoubled, one of his opponents, by discarding the lowest diamond in the deck, gave him the opportunity to make a contract which otherwise could not possibly have been fulfilled.

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 N T (1)	Double (2)	2 ◇ (3)	Pass
Pass (4)	2 ♡ (5)	2 N T (6)	Pass
3 N T (7)	Double (8)	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A strong one-notrump bid, but the hand is too weak for two notrump and contains no other alternative.

2—West, of course, had a sound Opening bid, which for some reason he elected to pass. He now decides to enter the bidding.

3—The strength of the diamond suit justifies the Rebid.

4—Mr. Balfe's hand does not suggest the probability of game.

5—With this view West coincides, so reopens the bidding.

6—North, with a certainty of 6 tricks, feels there is a chance to do something with the combined hands.

7—Mr. Balfe has two stopper as well as 2 honor-tricks. He decides the hand should be played for game.

8—Having reopened the bidding, West can scarcely do less than double.

West's Opening lead was the heart King. He continued with the Queen when Mr. Balfe played low from the Dummy. The second heart trick was won with the Ace, and it was at this point that East made the discard which permitted the fulfillment of the contract. He discarded the diamond 2.

Thereupon Mr. Balfe promptly played two rounds of diamonds, which voided the hands of both opponents of that suit, and removed a safe card of exit from East's hand. He next followed with a club, which East refused to win. The club suit was continued, and East took the trick with the Ace. Correctly reasoning that a spade lead would cost a trick, East now made the safe play of another club, giving Mr. Balfe a second trick in that suit. South now led a heart, which was won by West, who returned the suit, thus giving Mr. Balfe a second trick in hearts. This trick, with the two clubs and five diamonds, made the contract of three notrump redoubled.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

('Tis Folly to Be a Wiseguy)

That an authority says Capt. Smith wasn't saved by Pocahontas and that of the greatest liars in history none was a woman. (He apparently never asked Texas Guinan her age.)

That when your voice comes over the radio clear and with tone—it has a "ping" to it. The opposite to "ping" is "fluff."

That more pretzels are made in the State of Pennsylvania than in any other State. (Ah, Pretzelvania!)

That if you don't think orchids are rare, John E. Lager, a New Jersey florist, got $10,000 for a single specimen.

That Roland Young fell in love with his present wife when she was 12. He remained a bachelor until she grew up.

That Anatole France said only an egoist can love a woman.

That falling in love is recommended in cases of threatened nervous breakdown. (And vice versa if you asked me!)

That of all persons of recognized genius—45 per cent have suffered from insanity and 90 per cent have been psychopathic. (Makes it a pleasure to be a moron!)

That there is a banana tree growing in the Woolworth Building in NYC. It's bananaing in Caruso's shoeshine parlor there.

The scientists at the Univ. of Wisconsin have discovered a way of making ordinary tobacco taste like likker. (No kick, tho.)

That if some of the singers could see the faces they make while singing they'd only work on the radio.

That Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President, likes to dunk her cake in her coffee and doesn't care who sees her at it.

That there is no such thing as the 7-year itch. It can be cured in 7 days but I refuse to tell how—because two guys who are posing as columnists have it, and I'm no sap.

That Kate Smith has promoted over a quarter of a million dollars for various charities with her songs. (O—Kate! Smith!)

That the Sing Sing Prison football team has an appropriate mascot. It is a black sheep.

That Panama has no army or navy.

That public dancing is permitted at West Frankfort, Illinois—but if you dance in the privacy of your home, you can be fined plenty.

That in Virginia, Staunton, is "stan-tun" and in Illinois and in Indiana it 's "ston-tun." (You're bored? How about me?)

That in many parts of the country women can have their hair waved for ten cents. (And it looks it!)

That Ted Pawlowski, of Chicago, was sued for divorce by his wife, Lillian, for eloping with his mother-in-law!

That Charlie Chaplin is supposed to have once entered a Charlie Chaplin Contest and won fourth place. (I don't believe it.)

That for most people it is easier to earn a dollar than borrow one. (It appears to be just as difficult, however, to pay it back.)

That the man in the street will tell you that nowadays you can't tell how things are going until they are gone.

That the only place where there is plenty of room at the top—is in the Broadway Theaters. (In the galleries!)

That most Indian tribes, according to the historians, never scalped their enemies until they learned how from English colonists.

That this is being scribbled while the radio is turned on—which is not an apology, at all! (It's just another two lines, you dope!)

That when Roy W. Swanson, of Chicago, offered his wife a cemetery lot in lieu of alimony, she told the court she would take it providing he promised to use it within 30 days.

That kissing is supposed to have originated because ancient-day husbands wanted to learn if their women were giggle-watering.

That the word "penthouse" was first used by Longfellow.

That printing the speeches, resolutions, etc., in Congress costs an average of $4,000 daily of taxpayers' coin.

That a glass of milk after chile con carne will murder that devastating thirst that drives you mad.

That the Pathfinder says it certainly is surprising what a lot of nothing some people can accomplish. (Now, don't get personal!)

Miss Jordan, Barrymore Teamed

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 31.—After all the talk of teaming them, Dorothy Jordon's first picture at RKO will not be with Joel McCrea. She'll play the feminine lead with Lionel Barrymore in "The Doctor."

The decision came about suddenly when the studio found it was able to get Barrymore earlier than had been expected. Production plans were rushed and Director John Robertson hopes to get started almost immediately.

Miss Jordan

Merian C. Cooper makes it plain that the new film does not mean the abandonment of the idea to co-star Dorothy and Joel. No story was ready for them, and the head-man of RKO was anxious not to keep Dorothy off the screen any longer.

It's already been several months since she signed her contract. That hasn't cost RKO anything, however. She gets paid so much a picture.

An epidemic of George Kaufman anecdotes is going the rounds in Hollywood. The best of them is about the time Kaufman recently attended a revival of one of his plays.

It was a bad company, particularly the leading man. At the end of the first act, the author could stand it no longer. He rushed out and sent the actor the following wire:

"Am sitting in the back row. Wish you were here."

Another actor was tested for Garbo's leading man in "Queen Christina." Who do you think it was? — Bruce Cabot. Strange thing about Garbo. While other movie stars drive around in sleek, shiny motors, the Swedish recluse is chauffered about in a 6-year-old limousine. Alongside the slinky models of today. It looks high and awkward. One change La Garbo has made, however. She has a new chauffeur since her return from Sweden. At the studio, her troupe will be the same. This was one of her first requests on arriving in Hollywood.

Miss Garbo

Clark Gable and Dr. Franklin Thrope were scheduled to leave for Jackson Hole, Wyoming, to search for grizzlies. I talked with Clark at the studio, and he was dubious about finding one in the short time at his disposal. He and the doctor will acquaint themselves with the territory, however, and plan to return in the fall for a month's hunt. As the two men will pack into the wilds, Mrs. Gable is staying home.

* * *

Franchot Tone soon will have a hostess for his new Brentwood home. His mother, Mrs. Frank Tone, is coming out for a summer's visit . . . Vacations are all you hear about. Clarence Brown and Alice Joyce are planning to fly to Mexico for their postponed honeymoon. Instead of using Clarence's plane, they'll make the trip by regular airline . . . Alexander Kirkland, who is becoming quite the gay blade of the film colony, had Boots Mallory dancing at the Cocoanut Grove. It was the first warm night of the year, and he sported one of the increasingly popular white mess jackets . . . Paulette Goddard was at the grove, too, holding hands with Charlie Chaplin . . . And here's the latest racket of the autograph seekers. They ask the stars to let them come to their homes and take snapshot pictures of them.

Miss Joyce

Did you know that Bing Crosby is incorporated, both in Delaware and California? He draws a salary as the president of the corporation and the rest of his movie and radio earnings are salted away.

Hospital Council Elects H. G. Yearick

Henry G. Yearick, superintendent of Homeopathic Hospital, has been elected president of the Hospital Conference of Pittsburgh. He succeeds Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, who recently became president of the State Association.

Miss Martha B. Speer, superintendent of Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg, was elected secretary. The conference includes 36 hospitals in this district.

Student Honor Won By Pittsburgh Girl

Miss Elizabeth Stelle Yearick, daughter of H. G. Yearick, superintendent of Homeopathic Hospital, was one of 11 girls tapped for the Mortar Board out of a group of 1,200 students at the University of Wisconsin. She has also been admitted to membership in Omicron Nu sorority.

Miss Yearick, a junior, was graduated from Schenley High School with highest honors.

Some 300 Civil War veterans and 2,000 members of five auxiliary bodies are expected to attend the sessions in Memorial Hall and Hotel William Penn.

The convention will open with a service in the First Presbytrian Church, Sixth avenue, the night of June 11, with the Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney speaking. Delegates will attend a pageant presented by graduating classes of city schools in Memorial Hall, the night of June 12.

The committee in charge is headed by C. H. William Ruhe, representing the Allegheny County Grand Army Association.

Church of Scotland Eases Woman Ban

By Mark Hellinger

"All's Well——"

ANDREW BURNS had been married for 10 years. During part of that time, he had been fairly happy. He had made plenty of money, loved his wife and never had the hives. But as his wealth increased and his youth diminished, he grew a trifle restless.

He longed to step out a little, but he found that almost impossible. Every time he came home an hour or two late, he was subjected to a strict cross-examination. Scenes and tears followed—and Andrew Burns began to feel that he'd be a far happier man if he could continue on alone.

As time passed, Andrew grew more and more discontented. What, he asked himself, was the use of all his wealth if he wasn't happy? Martha, he felt certain, wouldn't give him a divorce. If she knew he wanted to be free, she would hang on even more stubbornly.

He thought the matter over very carefully. He wracked his brain to find some plan that might make Martha wish to divorce him. He pondered and he pondered. And finally, to his great satisfaction, he hit upon an idea that had great possibilities...

Shortly afterward, he had occasion to hire a chauffeur. Out of the applicants, he selected one who seemed best fitted to his peculiar needs.

The new chauffeur was an extremely attractive chap, several years younger than Burns and his wife. He was, Andrew realized with satisfaction, exactly the type of man who would appeal to a woman.

He took him into his study almost immediately.

"You see, Johnson," he explained, "Mrs. Burns is a fine woman—an extremely fine woman. She is fond of me although I dare say if she were to meet someone who loved her more than I do, it is possible that she would, in time, reciprocate his affections.

"Of course," he added, "I should be broken-hearted if a thing like that happened. But, after all, we must be good losers. If such a thing did occur I would do the handsome thing. The day my wife left for Reno to divorce me, I would present my successor with a check for, say, ten thousand dollars."

Johnson whistled. Old Burns was speaking a language that he understood perfectly.

"Yes, sir," he replied, "thank you, sir. And may I add, Mr. Burns, that I'll do my best to please you in all particulars?"

It was Andrew himself who started things going. One evening he sat and glowered into his newspaper while Martha was watching and grinned slyly when she was looking the other way.

"Dear," she asked at last, "whatever is the matter with you tonight? Have I done anything to displease you? Are you angry about something?"

Andrew made a great show of reluctance to speak and finally burst out, "It isn't exactly your fault, I suppose. It's that chauffeur. I don't like the way he looks at you when he helps you in and out of the car. I declare, the man acts as if he were in love with you."

Martha tried not to look too pleased.

"Oh, Andrew," she said, "surely you must be mistaken. Johnson is always very respectful, I'm sure."

"Well, maybe I'm wrong," her husband grunted. "I certainly hope so."

And he was wondering if he had not better speak to Johnson about hurrying things up just a little...

After that, it was smooth sailing for Johnson. Martha found excuses to take long rides in the country. And in practically no time at all, Johnson had convinced her that he was a much more enjoyable companion than Andrew had ever been. And that something should certainly be done about it.

"Im not quite sure," she told him, "just what I should do. I know that Andrew doesn't love me as much as he used to. Tell me, do you think that when a woman discovers that she loves someone else, she should divorce her husband?"

Johnson's manner, by that time, was no longer servile.

"Absolutely," he said flatly. "That's the only thing to do. Expecially when the man in question loves you, too, and wants to marry you."

Martha smiled happily and went to Andrew that very night. She explained to him frankly, that she had met another man whom she loved. She was sorry but such things happened and there was nothing to do about the situation. She refrained from mentioning the man's name, but told her husband that they were to be married as soon as she had obtained her divorce.

Andrew put on a great little act. He did everything but tear his hair and beat upon his bosom.

"But there's no use talking about it," he sighed at last. "If you love this man and he loves you, I'll have to let you go. I've loved you but—ah, that's all over now. How soon are you going?"

Martha wept a little at his heartbreak. Then, after the bawl was over, she humbly begged his forgiveness.

"But," she murmured, "nothing can change my plans. I'm leaving tomorrow."

After she had left the room, Andrew all but hugged himself in high glee. That was, he told himself, one of the most successful little plans he had ever maneuvered . . .

In the morning, Andrew was about bright and early, trying his hardest to maintain his role of heart-broken husband. He watched Martha's luggage being carried out. And it was all he could do to keep from laughing aloud.

Just before it was time for her to leave, Johnson came into the study.

"Ah, yes," Andrew muttered, "we had a little agreement, did we not? Well, Johnson, I always keep my word."

He pulled out a certified check and began to sign it.

"Here you are," he said. "You get the money, and you get a charming woman. My congratulations!"

Johnson bowed and left. A few moments later, Andrew heard the car start. He chuckled joyfully to himself. He poured himself a drink. Then he poured himself another. He hummed happily. There wasn't a happier man in the world—until there came a knock on the door and his wife walked in again.

"Good heavens," her husband gurgled. "What's happened? Why haven't you gone?"

Martha shook her head. She removed her coat and hat slowly.

"I'm not going," she told him. "Never! We only got as far as the bank when I learned everything. Johnson made me see how much you really love me, and how wrong it would be for me to wreck your life by leaving you. He told me that you knew all the time that he was the man.

"I know now, too, that you tried to buy him off, to bribe him to go away so that we could be happy together again. He showed me the check you gave him.

"And, oh, Andrew, if you love me enough to spend $10,000 to keep me with you, I won't leave you ever" . . .

Confuses

Claudette Colbert confuses the judgment of Ben Lyon, marine news reporter, in "I Cover the Water Front," coming Friday to Stanley screen.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Barbara Stanwyck, whom the screen has given a national reputation since she left the stage flat a few years ago, has trouped it all the way from Los Angeles to New York, hitting one-night stands, 'n' everything, and will be on Broadway again tomorrow night. The last time (if we're not wrong), or close to the last, was with Hal Skelly in "Burlesque." This time Miss Stanwyck and her husband, Frank Fay, are the stars and producers of "Tattle Tales," which will open in New York Thursday night. It will have been presented all the way from the Pacific to the Atlantic, reversing the usual route, ere Friday dawns.

Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne, having closed in "Design For Living," will spend the summer on their farm in Genesee Depot, Wis., and get their harvesting done in time to do a little early autumn galivanting in Europe with Noel Coward, lately their co-star in "Design For Living." Their plans also include a London appearance in their last Theater Guild play, "Reunion In Vienna," and then a trip around the world. By that time both they and the Guild likely will be ready to resume business and artistic relationship.

Among the most fortunate coast-to-coast tourists this season was Walter Hampden, who got to Los Angeles and back in a tour of 32 weeks that will terminate in New Haven Saturday. With a few more hardy travelers like Mr. Hampden, Ethel Barrymore and George M. Cohan the road might be restored to its former glory.

Katharine Cornell has given up her lease on the Belasco Theater, New York, because she plans to tour at least half of next season before appearing in that city. Jed Harris, who made a lot of money out of one or two plays and floops out of others, is mentioned as the next tenant.

* * *

Lenore Ulric's "Hard-Boiled Angel" is merely "Angel" to Chicago, and Jessie Royce Landis and Ian Keith are substitutions in the cast, which still includes Paul Kelly, Henry Daniell and Jane Farrell.

Injured Man Wins $50,000 Verdict

George W. Booth, McKees Rocks, was awarded a verdict for $50,000 in Common Pleas Court. This was the amount he asked in his suit against the Kreps Electrical Supply Company for personal injuries. The concern is in the hands of a receiver and the case was not defended.

Booth charged that the company's truck collided with his automobile.

THREE INJURED BY LIGHTNING

SAYRE, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Elmer Hoffman, of New Era, near here, is in a serious condition at a hospital, his skull fractured by a bolt of lightning which wrecked his home and injured two of his children.

The bolt struck the chimney and ran through every room.

Hoffman was pinned under a beam and his children were cut by flying glass. Mrs. Hoffman, pinned under the same beam, was not hurt.

Edgar Pond, an invalid, although his bed was showered with plaster, was unhurt.

Roosevelt Cancels Visit to Rutgers

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 31.—(AP.) — President Roosevelt has cancelled an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of Rutgers University and receive the honorary degree that has been awarded him, Robert C. Look! KOTEX with the new PATENTED* EQUALIZER

A RADICAL innovation! . . . Not a mere improvement in sanitary protection . . . but something new, different.

Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer, gives 20 to 30% greater protection. The center equalizer not only increases protection but makes it more adequate, more comfortable—because edges stay dry, removing all danger of irritation through chafing.

Ends must be "phantomized"

Mere rounded ends are not enough. They must be flattened, embossed. Kotex—and Kotex only—offers this special shaping. Remember, too, that it can be worn on either side with equal protection.

The self-discipline thus acquired is helpful in business and in home life.

CARDS REDUCE PIRATES' LEAD TO HALF GAME

SPORTS

By JAMES J. LONG

Peckinpaugh's Job Shaky. | Lowry Makes Good.
Cards at Heels of Bucs. | Perils of Auto Racing.
Welter Champ Popular. | Sarazen Given Golf Top.

SPEAKER MAY BE NEXT INDIAN PILOT

THE RUMOR PERSISTS that unless the Cleveland Indians take a big brace, Roger Peckinpaugh is to be deposed as manager, and those in a position to know what is going on say that his successor will be Tris Speaker. On May 16, the Indians were in first place in the American League, but they have fallen so fast that for a time yesterday, after losing the first game, they were in the second division. They have dropped 10 of their last 15 contests, and have not won two in succession since May 14. Color is given to the Speaker rumor by the fact that he resigned recently as Kansas City manager. Tris managed Cleveland from 1920 to 1926, winning the pennant and the world title in 1920.

Tris Speaker

Meanwhile, reports of a similar managerial change in St. Louis have been silenced by the big drive the Cardinals have made under Gabby Street. The Redbirds had won six straight games and 11 of their last 12 up to today while the Pirates were losing six out of 11. It looked like an upturn had started for the Bucs yesterday morning when Bill Swift defeated the Cubs for the first time in six starts against them since he entered the league in 1932, but the loss of the afternoon bout while the Cards were taking two from the Reds cut Pittsburgh's pennant lead to half a game and put the Rovers up against the necessity of pulling themselves together hastily or seeing first place slip away.

THOUGH JIMMY M'LARNIN is admitted to have the punching power to stop any opponent he can hit fairly, and it had been conceded that if Monday's welterweight title fight were decided by a knockout he would be the one to score it, his success in stopping Young Corbett III in less than three minutes was a big surprise. Corbett had been expected to prove much tougher. But they all go down when they're hit on the right spot by a punch like McLarnin's.

The win was a little too quick to be thoroughly convincing as to Jimmy's form. It still leaves in doubt his ability to go a route, or whether his hands could stand much battering. However, the title has passed to a deserving fighter. The uncrowned champion is crowned at last, and if McLarnin now only shows a willingness to fight oftener—Monday's bout was only his sixteenth since 1927—he can give the welterweight class its old color and make himself one of the most popular title-holders in the game.

WHILE THE GIANTS were here last week, the throwing of Blondy Ryan impressed local fans. But it was not surprising to those who knew that he had also been a football player during his days at Holy Cross and had won fame as a forward passer.

Once, when the Crusaders were playing their most cherished rival, Harvard, Ryan completed a sensational pass of 62 yards to Shanahan, and the next play brought a winning touchdown for Holy Cross.

ENTERING HOLY CROSS before the freshman rule was adopted, Ryan played four years at quarterback on the varsity football team, 1926 to 1929, inclusive, and in those four years the Crusaders beat Harvard twice and tied the Crimson once. Blondy also played four years on the baseball team and wears a heavy engraved gold ring that is his trophy for having been a member of the famous outfit of 1929, the nine that won 25 games and lost only two. That was about the best Holy Cross team that Jack Barry ever coached. It sent 13 players into professional baseball —four pitchers, four catchers, four infielders and one outfielder. Besides Ryan, these included Desautels, Gharrity, Nekola, Phelan, Daugherty, Shevlin, Shanahan and Harrell. Desautels is now with Detroit, and Nekola is the property of the same club though he was tried first by the Yankees.

Tim Lawry

ONE LOCAL BOY who had the stuff in him to laugh off an early disappointment and keep plugging away until he now is making his mark in an impressive way in his first year out as a professional baseball player, is Tim Lawry, former Pitt basketball star and co-captain in 1932. He has clinched a position on the Johnstown club in the Middle Atlantic League, after being let go [illegible] in the same loop.

[illegible]gh Lawry went to Johnstown as an infielder, he was shifted to the outfield, where he is proving himself to be one of the surest and most dependable gardeners in the league. In addition he started off at a batting pace that put him right up among the leaders. In his first 54 times at bat he made 20 hits for the husky average of .370. Tim was retained when the club was reduced to the 15-player limit, and Johnstown critics predict he will become a very popular performer there.

LAWRY OWES HIS Johnstown chance to a visit he made there [illegible]h Coach Carlson last year to speak at the Ferndale High School basketball banquet. He made a hit with Dr. Charles R. Colbert, Johnstown dentist and former Pitt man, and when the Wheeling club dropped Tim during spring training Dr. Colbert immediately invited him to try out with the Johnnies.

The club had no room for any more players, but Dr. Colbert insisted that Lawry be given a chance, and, to make sure that Tim would get the best of care, kept him at his own home during the period of the tryout. Johnstown fans now think the Doctor's insistence was a fine break for the club.

AUTOMOBILE RACING HISTORY may have gained new high spots at Indianapolis yesterday in the fact that Louie Meyer, winner in 1928, became the only driver except Tommy Milton, 1921-23, to win the big race twice, and that his time of 4:48:00.75, an average of 104.162 miles per hour, smashed all records for the classic. But with death an unlisted entrant, as usual, to claim two drivers and a mechanic, following the killing of two drivers in the trials a few days earlier, one asks himself if these tests of speed and daring are worth the price. They cannot be classed as sport, and in view of the repeated cries against the dangers of football and boxing, it is to be wondered at that no question ever is raised about the most perilous game of them all.

REPORTS THAT IN a new boxing promotion deal in New York Jack Dempsey would hook up with Madison Square Garden were scouted by the former heavyweight champion. He says he wouldn't take a job with the Garden even if it were offered.

"I spend money pretty freely when I set out to put over a show," Jack adds, "and I don't worry too much about expenses so long as I get the results I want. There's a limit, of course, but I go the limit to put over anything. I guess if I had to make a detailed account of every little expense I ran into I wouldn't last long on the job. That's the way Tex Rickard was, and I got my promoting ideas from him."

MATCH RACES ON the running turf are becoming fashionable again. Following the cancellation of the duel at Belmont Park in New York, in which Top Flight was to have met Tred Avon, Cornelius V. Whitney now plans to race his great colt Equipoise in two matches before the season ends.

In both events, the opponent of Equipoise will be Norman Church's Gallant Knight, the Western champion. Church proposed a match race at Arlington Park in Chicago this summer, and Whitney accepted on condition that a return match between the same horses be arranged for a fall date at Belmont Park. Church agreed and the double match is clinched.

Gene Sarazen

THE GREATEST GOLFER of all [illegible] Opinions differ, but if it were left to Francis Ouimet for a decision the award would go to Gene Sarazen. In the last two decades Ouimet has played with or against Harry Vardon, Ted Ray, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, George Duncan, Abe Mitchell and most of the other stars, and he declares that none of them was quite as good as Sarazen. The others may have had a slight edge on [illegible], but they also had some weakness," Ouimet told A[illegible] Sarazen has no weakness. He has everything. He can [illegible] he'd let go for that any one else, I believe. Gene has [illegible] accuracy off the tee. He is equally good with every iron. No one has ever matched the perfection he has attained with the bunker shot. And only a few have been better putters. In addition he has the competitive instinct."

DRAWN IN KISUMU April 1933

This cartoon was drawn in Kisumu, a small city in central Africa, on the shore of Lake Victoria. Kisumu is noted for its giant hippopotamus. Horace, which wanders through the main street every night.

Here I made my first contact with the two famous African tribes—the Kikuyu and the Masai. The Masai are the most warlike people in Africa, and the warriors perform the almost unbelievable feat of attacking and killing lions while armed only with a spear and a rhino hide shield. They have the extreme courage to hold their ground in face of the charging lion, and as he leaps upon them drive their spears through his breast as they fall backward, covering themselves as they fall with the rhino shields.

No African tribe is more fond of jewelry than the Kikuyu. They distend their ear lobes to great lengths with all sorts of bangles—tobacco tins, brass rings and coils of telegraph wire. The Kenya and Uganda Railroad Telegraph Co. lost over forty miles of telegraph wire in one year, due to the Kikuyu flappers' mania for this kind of jewelry. When in the jungle or heavy brush, these dusky maidens remove their earrings and tie their elongated ear lobes under their chins. I saw a Kikuyu maiden today whose ear lobes reached down to her shoulders, heavily weighted with mammoth-sized jewelry.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF MONDAY: THE GOLD STAR MATRIARCH—Mrs. Libby Goldston, leading Gold Star Mother, who died in 1932 at the age of 103, left 202 living descendants. She was signally honored by her home town for having had 20 grandsons in active service during the World War fighting in five different armies. In addition, 14 of her grandsons had been drafted either in the United States or in England, awaiting their call to the front, when the Armistice terminated hostilities. The 20 combatants all returned alive, two having been wounded in action. Her grateful townsmen in Pittsburgh and Homestead, Pa., honored her with a plaque in the building of the Homestead Library. She is buried in McKees Rocks, Pa.

BUCS DIVIDE HOLIDAY BILL WITH CUBS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

After leading the National League pack most of distance since the race began, April 12, the Pirates were still in front as the entries swept past the Memorial Day milestone, yet it was apparent today that the Buccos would have to perk up in their play at the risk of losing the honor position to the fast-flying Cardinals or some other flag contender.

A bad slip of the strategy board yesterday afternoon at Forbes Field contributed much to a Pirate defeat at the hands of the Cubs after the home team had won a corking slab duel in the morning holiday game.

The strategic blunder of the afternoon fight was a glaring thing. The contest was deadlocked at nine-all in the seventh and the Bruins had runners on third and second with one out, largely as a result of a high throw by Pie Traynor, who has been an outstanding factor in the drive of the Pirates. Bill Jurges, a boy who stages field days at the Oakland Orchard, was due to face Heinie Meine and Pitcher Pat Malone was the succeeding hitter.

MISTAKE PROVES COSTLY

The Buccos went into a huddle and it was expected they would walk Jurges, who had driven the ball over the leftfield wall in the fifth to force a deadlock. An intentional pass here offered a chance for a force play at each of the four bases with the pitcher batting, but through some strange method of procedure, Meine got the ball over the plate to Bill. The youngster smacked a clean single to center and both runs went over on the stupid piece of work on the

WASHINGTON, May 31.—With the Yanks in town, I held polite converse with the Bambino. I said:

"Babe, how's the batting eye this season?"

Babe said:

"The eye is all right, but the bat's a little slow."

I said:

"Maybe you are off in your timing."

Babe said:

"I'll say I'm off. When the ball comes at me in daylight time, I'm swinging on Eastern Standard."

I said:

"How come?"

Babe said:

"On account of the salary slash I got this year, I figure I can only afford to knock out three-baggers."

I said:

"Do you think you'll hit 60 this year?"

Babe said:

"I'll hit 70 if there aren't any traffic cops around."

I said:

"I mean 60 home runs."

Babe said:

"If I had 60 home runs in my system this year, I'd be arrested for hoarding."

NEGRO NINES RESUME DUEL

Only one game is carded for the City League this evening, the Ottie Cochran club being booked to travel to Greenlee Field to meet the J. L. Thomas nine.

The Homestead Grays and the Pittsburgh Crawfords will meet under the lights this evening at Greenlee Field in the third game of their series. The teams split their twin bill yesterday, the Grays taking the afternoon game, 3 to 2, and the Crawfords the twilight affair, 7 to 3. The Crawfords made it two out of three for the day by walloping the Griffins, 11 to 0.

DICK RED WINS RACE AT OVAL

A big crowd turned out yesterday for the 1933 inaugural matinee program of harness races staged by the Schenley Matinee Club at Schenley Oval. Eight races were on the program, all but one resulting in straight heat triumphs.

In the lone split heat decision of the day, Dick Red, with W. H. Bickle in the sulky, won the second and third heats after finishing second to John Dean in the first, to take the fifth event, a trot.

Rene Direct won the first race, Gladys Ellen the second, The Great Atlantic the third, Miss Saganaw the fourth, Dick Red the fifth, Caneland Scott the sixth, Donna B the seventh and Glenville the eighth.

MEYER WINS, THREE KILLED AT INDIANAPOLIS

COAST DRIVER SETS RECORD FOR GRIND

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.—(AP.)—Three daring young men lay dead today, tragic victims of smashups yesterday in the 500-mile automobile race, won by Louis Meyer, Huntington Park, Cal., in a record-breaking finish.

By his triumph, Meyer became the second driver to win the race twice. The other was Tommy Milton, of St. Paul, who triumphed in 1921 and came back to ride to victory in 1923. Meyer previously had won in 1928.

With three deaths yesterday and two in the qualifying tests Sunday, the race had claimed five lives, the biggest sacrifice to speed since 1919, when three were killed. The three victims yesterday were Mark Billman, 27-year-old Indianapolis driver; G. L. Jordan, also 27, Lafayette, Ind., mechanic, and Lester Spangler, 27-year-old driver from Los Angeles, competing for the first time in the Indianapolis classic.

KILLED OUTRIGHT

While the cheers of 100,000 spectators were acclaiming Meyer as the speed king of 1933, Billman and Jordan were dead. Spangler succumbed to his injuries last night, five hours after he had been injured. The bodies of Spangler and Jordan were horribly crushed when their car, traveling at terrific speed, hit a machine driven by Malcolm Fox, of Westerville, N. J., on the southwest turn shortly after Billman had wrecked his car on the opposite turn.

Another car, racing in front of Fox, skidded and forced him to shoot towards the outside retaining wall.

Spangler's racer hurtled over Fox's machine, and landed on the wall. Fox's car shot to the outside wall where it dangled until pulled off by a wrecking crew. Neither Fox nor his mechanic was seriously injured.

The accident, coming within a few seconds after Billman had crashed, was one of the most spectacular in recent years. Both Spangler and Jordan were tossed from the car and fell with great force on the brick track. Both suffered skull fractures and were so disfigured they could not immediately be identified.

Billman met death on the southeast curve when he skidded into a lower retaining wall and then smashed against the outside wall. His left arm was nearly torn off, both legs were broken and he suffered internal injuries.

MECHANIC ESCAPES

Billman's riding mechanic, Elmer Lombard, of Indianapolis, was catapulted out of the car. He landed outside of the track more than 50 feet away but was not seriously injured.

Meyer, $12,000 richer as the result of his victory, intends to go back to California. He may race in another event but he is not sure.

The 29-year-old Californian, driving without relief, smashed all records for the race by covering the distance in 4:48:00.75 to average 104.162 miles an hour, shattering the record of 104.144 hung up by Freddy Frame, of Los Angeles in winning the 1932 race. Meyer finished nearly three full laps, about 7 miles, ahead of Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, who had an average of 101.795 miles an hour.

Lou Moore, of Los Angeles, was third, with Chester Gardner, of Long Beach, Cal., fourth, and Stubby Stubblefield, of Los Angeles, fifth, in an original starting field of 42. Nineteen cars survived the punishing 500-mile grind.

Following is the official order of the finishers in the Indianapolis classic, following a complete recheck today:

Pos.	Driver.	Time.	M.P.H.
1	Louis Meyer, Huntington Park, Cal.	4:48:00.75	104.162

CALIFORNIA DRIVER (RIGHT) WITH MECHANIC AT FINISH OF GRUELING RACE

Louie Meyer, 29-year-old California race driver, equaled the record of Tommy Milton by winning the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile automobile race a second time yesterday. He dragged down $12,000 as first prize and set a new speed record. Two drivers and a mechanic were killed before 100,000 persons. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Keck to Discuss Heavyweight Battles on Seals' Bill

Will Max Baer defeat Max Schmeling in their heavyweight bout in New York one week from tomorrow night?

Will Primo Carnera, the giant Italian, dethrone Jack Sharkey when they battle in the Long Island City Bowl three weeks later?

If Sharkey and Schmeling meet a third time in the fall, which will win?

These and other phases of the boxing situation will be discussed by Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, as the feature of the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

Tune in if you're a fight fan and get the lowdown on these battles.

The styles and capabilities of the four outstanding heavyweight fighters of the day will be analyzed for you in an authoritative manner, and you will be able to discuss more intelligently the possible outcomes of these big battles of the year.

YANKEES-NATS FEUD FLARES

Associated Press.

The struggle between the New York Yankees and Washington Senators in the American League may develop into one of baseball's classic rivalries if the teams play a few more close games.

Visiting the capital for the first time since April 25, when the rival teams engaged in a free-for-all on the field, the Yanks came out with a 3-2 victory yesterday, but it was only after much argument and a bit of pop bottle dodging that they won, and even then the game was protested.

The trouble started when Ben Chapman, one of the leading figures in the April donnybrook, went to bat for the first time against his erstwhile fistic rival, Earl Whitehill. The fans booed; Whitehill rubbed his hand in the dirt and then on the ball and an argument arose when Umpire Owens tossed the ball out. Then a couple of bottles were heaved towards Chapman as he went into the outfield.

Things settled down to a peaceable duel between Whitehill and Russell Van Atta until the eighth, when Lou Gehrig belted one over the fence close to the foul line and Umpire Owens ruled it was a homer that put the Yanks ahead. The dispute raged for 10 minutes before Manager Joe Cronin decided to finish the game under protest. And after a ninth-inning rally had won for New York, Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, entered a formal protest in the grounds that Owens had refused to consult with Roy Van Graflan, who was stationed along the first base line.

OLD FURNACE WINS

The Old Furnace polo'sts, or Zellenople, defeated the Chartiers Heights riders in an exciting battle on the Chartiers Heights field yesterday, 13 to 6. Other polo games listed for yesterday, including the inaugural matches in the Western Pennsylvania Polo league campaign, were postponed, due to the soggy condition of the fields.

GENEVA WINS TITLE MEET

By JESS CARVER

The Tri-State Conference track and field championship remains a Geneva College possession, just as it has since the conference was formed. The Covenanters annually have made a show of the best the other schools in the league could do in the title meet, and yesterday, at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, they made their most impressive showing of all, sweeping 14 of the 16 first places, piling up a point total of 100½ and taking the second place honors where they missed out for the first.

Waynesburg finished in second position, with 43¾ points. Grove City was third with 25; Westminster tallied 4 and Thiel 1¾.

Pressed by a teammate, Dunn, Howard Spencer, Geneva's Negro star, who already holds the district collegiate high jump record, sped to a new mark in the 220-yard low hurdles when he cleared the timbers in 25 seconds. The old mark, held by Todd Lloyd, another former Geneva star, was 25.2.

The only two men to break into the first place scoring monopolized so thoroughly by the Genevians were Wertz, of Waynesburg, who won the 220-yard dash, and Critchfield, of Grove City, who took the shot put.

Spencer won four first places, taking both the hurdles and the high and broad jumps. The summary:

DRIVER KILLED IN RACE AT JENNERSTOWN

JENNERSTOWN, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Three racing cars piled up on the Jennerstown track yesterday, fatally injuring Roy Forest Jones, 24, of Johnstown, one of the drivers.

A machine driven by Clyde Schwartz, of Tarentum, skidded at the start of a 10-mile race, a preliminary to the 50-mile main event, and three other cars collided as they swerved to avoid the Schwartz machine.

Jones, an undertaker's assistant, was rushed to a Somerset hospital, where he died one hour later. The other drivers in the smashup were uninjured.

Spud Green, of Wheeling, W. Va., won the 50-mile race in 58 minutes. Mike Ferber, Latrobe, finished second Alfred Schneider, Trafford City, third, and Earl Cashdollar, also of Trafford City, one of the drivers who figured in the accident, fourth.

KELLY VICTOR

EBENSBURG, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Frank Kelly, of Ebensburg, captured the annual Memorial Day 100-mile automobile race on the Ebensburg track, winning the $300 purse.

Kelly finished eight laps ahead of Charles Chess, gritty Uniontown driver, whose machine turned over in the course of the race. The car promptly was righted, and Chess sped on to take second place and $200.

Thomas, of Adamsburg, finished third, and Earl Johnson, of Tarentum, fourth.

Several minor accidents occurred during the grind, but no one was injured. The event was not timed.

PARKER WINS GRIND

Dummy Tramieson, of Pittsburgh, finished second; Jim Griffen, of Byesville, O., third, and Joe Rezora, of Washington, fourth.

Victor Brown, of Washington, leaped to safety as his machine crashed out of the speedway on the thirty-fourth lap.

RACE POSTPONED

LANGHORNE, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Rain yesterday forced postponement until Saturday of the automobile racing program on the dirt track here after the qualifying trials had been run off.

Johnny Hannon, of Conshohocken, had qualified in the fastest time, 38 seconds over the mile speedway. The program was to have consisted of two 10-mile events and a 40-mile race.

TENNIS LEAGUE FORMED IN A-K VALLEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The star of Pittsburgh Tennis Association expansion has risen in Westmoreland County, according to word from Art Darbaker, racquet sage of Vandergrift. Special announcement from Darbaker has it that, after nearly two seasons of effort on the part of P. T. A. officials and leading net devotees of the district in question, an Allegheny-Kiski Valley Tennis League is all set to open its campaign next week, the probable opening date to be Saturday, June 10.

Six teams representing as many different valley towns are already definitely aligned for competition, while two more are seriously considering the proposition of entry into the loop. The circuit as tentatively constituted is comprised of Cheswick, Freeport, Leechburg, New Kensington, Tarentum and Vandergrift, with Apollo and Ford City still on the fence.

The league will follow the general regulations of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League with the outstanding exception that team matches will consist of four singles and two doubles tilts instead of the six singles and three doubles system in vogue in the Steel City milling.

Intersectional competition for the district's scholastic net championships is slated to get under way today on the Pitt Stadium courts, with Allderdice meeting Shady Side and Mt. Lebanon taking on Wilkinsburg.

Allderdice won the city title Monday, beating Carrick. The event will be concluded tomorrow.

In the playoff of a postponed match originally scheduled for last Saturday, George Henderson's powerful Stanton Heights squad opened the P. T. A. Inter-Club League campaign by downing University Club, 7-0, on the varsity courts. A singles and a doubles match remain to be staged and will be run off next Tuesday afternoon.

Dorothy Jarvis and C. A. Woods, Jr., won the mixed doubles competition at the Allegheny Country Club courts, winning 25 games.

HOMEWOOD AT DORMONT

The Homewood club will play its postponed City League with Dormont on the latter's grounds this evening at 6:30. Dormont originally was scheduled to play the Northsiders this evening, but the latter club has withdrawn from the league.

WOLFE, COX BOX OPENING HEADLINER AT BOWL

JALLOS MEETS GULLOTO IN SEMI-FINAL

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe vs. Tracey Cox, 10 rounds; Lou Jallos vs. Pete Gulloto, 8 rounds, and Carl Montebano vs. Red Bush and Sunny Jim McVey vs. Gene Baker, 6 rounds each, North Braddock Bowl.

Little Dempsey vs. Bobby Gray and Small Montana vs. Felix Ignacio, 8 rounds each, San Francisco.

Trader Horn vs. Battling Bozo, 10 rounds, Savannah, Ga.

Harry Dublinsky vs. Joe Ghnouly and Nick Broglio vs. Solly Dukelsky, 10 rounds each, St. Louis.

Walter King vs. Bob Johnson, 10 rounds, Pensacola, Fla.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

The last of Pittsburgh's summer clubs (unless Greenlee Field finally decides to enter the fold) swings into action tonight as the North Braddock Bowl (formerly Meyers Bowl) opens its doors to the fans.

The Bowl is the pioneer among local outdoor arenas built especially for such productions. It was opened four summers ago, but ran into a bad season last year and closed with the campaign only half over. It is under new management this summer, with Joe Mazer and Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, at the helm.

Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, of Memphis, nemesis of Ted Yarosz, who has dropped his only decision to him and also has been held to two draws by Wolfe in four fights, meets Tracey Cox, of Indanapolis, who has beaten Billy Holt and Tony Falco and lost to Tony Herrera in bouts at the Arena. Both are good punchers, Wolfe with a left hook and Cox with a straight right. The fans have thrilled at Cox's knockdowns in all of his fights, but he has yet to score a knockout here. He is particularly vulnerable to infighting, and it is there that Wolfe shines. The fans like Wolfe to win unless Cox can keep him at a distance.

Lou Jallos, of Homestead and formerly of Cleveland, where he was a Golden Gloves amateur champion, boxes Pete Gulloto, of New York, stablemate of Wolfe, in the eight-round semi-final, and Carl Montebano, Braddock middleweight, meets Red Bush, of Cumberland, and Sunny Jim McVey, Negro heavyweight knockout puncher, of the Hill, faces Gene Baker, of Johnstown, in the two six-rounders.

Between Rounds

The Arena, on the North Side, will not raise sections of its roof after all for the summer season. It has been learned that it would cost too much to replace the roof, so a cooling system and the large windows will be utilized instead to make the place comfortable on hot nights. A card of four 10-rounders is offered for the weekly show tomorrow night.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond, of the Arena, is going through with his plan to have the boxers on his bill draw for positions when they weigh in at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The pairings are: Joe Rugguzzoni vs. Alabama Kid, Eddie Koppy vs. Charley Baxter, Eddie Zivic vs. Jackie Hoster and Billy Holt vs. Tiger Joe Randall.

Johnny Datto is en route to Birmingham, Ala., by automobile with his manager, Jimmy Hoffman, and Bill Dummer, for his return bout with Petey Sarron tomorrow night.

Charley Jones, local manager of boxers, has taken over the direction of Cecil Payne, Louisville lightweight, and will show him at the Arena within a few weeks. Payne has boxed Champion Tony Canzoneri, Battling Battalino, former featherweight champion; Champion Freddie Miller, Tracey Cox and other notables and is a good puncher with both fists.

Vince Dundee will get a guarantee of $1,250 for his bout with Frankie Goosby at the Arena, Thursday night of next week, with Goosby receiving $75 for training expenses and 50 per cent of all receipts over and above [illegible] guarantee, cost of pro[illegible]s and other operating expens[illegible]. In other words, he is fighting more [illegible] for an opportunity against a r[illegible] headliner.

Francis Loughran, of Braddock, brother of Speedo Loughran, former Pitt all-round athletic star, has turned light manager and is handling Eddie Peters, a junior-lightweight, formerly of Braddock, now campaigning in New Jersey; Ossie Stewart, Negro middleweight, formerly of Braddock, now claimant of the championship of Maine, and Duke Bryant, Negro 150-pounder. Promoters may reach him by calling Brandywine 0586.

M'LARNIN ASKS FOR $50,000

today, in the face of several proposals of bouts for the 25-year-old Vancouver (British Columbia) fighter, who knocked out Young Corbett III, in one round here Monday night.

ALL TITLE BOUTS

Foster, whose careful managerial dealings netted Jimmy and himself a tidy fortune without benefit of a crown, doesn't seem to care much who is dug up for an opponent, but they positively must get $50,000, no less. He said:

"Corbett can have a chance at the title in San Francisco if he likes, but I doubt the wisdom of such a fight. He might be hurt worse next time. Jimmy will fight and defend his title any time the promoters put the money on the line—$50,000. And he won't fight until they do. For the last two years, Jimmy has been fighting only two or three times a year, and that's all he'll fight now.

"We won't take any overweight matches. Nothing but title fights."

MANAGER PROTESTS

Corbett was in a daze after the fight, unable to recall what had happened during its brief progress. Referee George Blake halted the battle after Corbett had been dropped three times by Baby Face, the first time with a left to the jaw, the second time with a right and again with a left. He was out on his feet when the referee stepped in.

Manager Larry White contended the bout should not have been stopped without another count. He also claimed a foul on the ground that McLarnin was holding onto the rope with his right to get more leverage with his final left. There is nothing in the rules covering this point.

Promoter Jack Doyle is said to have lost upwards of $20,000 on the show, which drew only $39,400 gross and $33,687, minus taxes, or not enough to pay Corbett's $35,000 guarantee and leaving nothing out of which to pay McLarnin, who was to receive 22½ per cent of the net receipts.

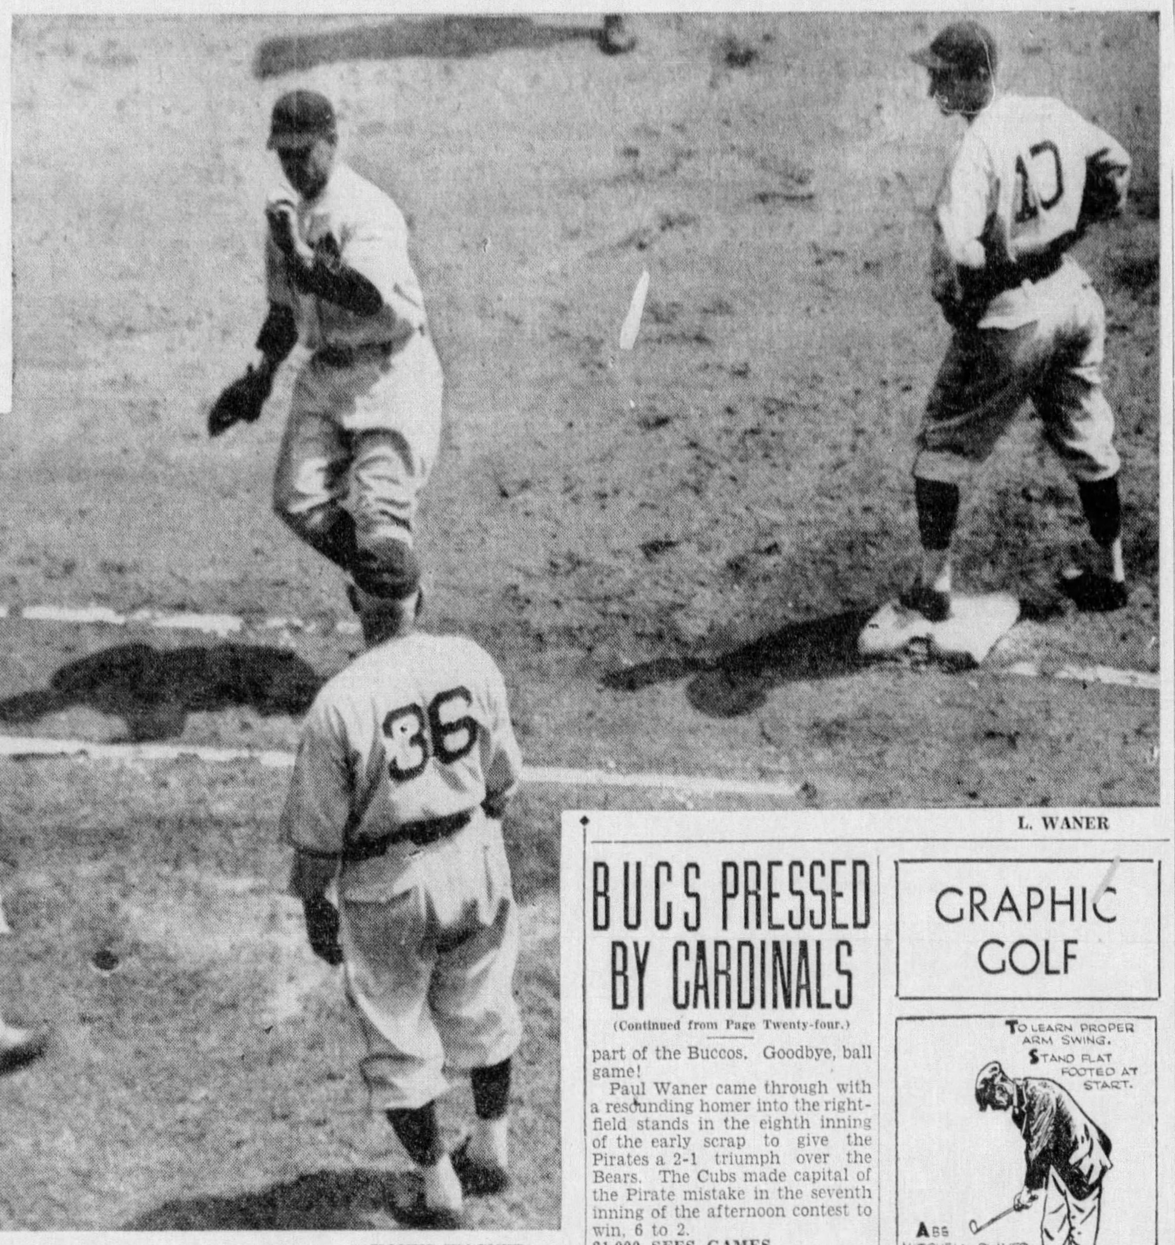
Shields Defeated In Net Tourney

AUTEUIL, France, May 31.—(AP.)—Frank Shields, only American entrant in the men's singles of the French hard court tennis championships, today was eliminated in the fourth round by Christian Boussus, third ranking French player. The scores were: 6-3, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

Girogio de Stefani, of Italy, defeated Jacques Brugnon, of France, in a third round match, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, and Fred Perry, of England, beat J. Rimet, France, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. C. J. J. Robbins, South African champion, defeated the French youngster, Andre Merlin, 8-6, 6-2, 10-8.

My, My! The Waners Are Trapped!

GRIMM



L. WANER

HONUS WAGNER

Victims of the old trapped ball play were the Brothers Waner in the morning game of yesterday's holiday bill at Forbes Field. With Lloyd Waner on first, Paul Waner popped to Shortstop Jurges, of the Cubs. Figuring Paul would not run, Jurges trapped the ball. Lloyd held first base and Jurges threw to second, forcing him, for, as the ball was not caught, Paul was entitled to first base. When he arrived there, both Waners were on the bag. Paul, evidently thinking himself out, walked off the bag and Manager Lefty Grimm, to whom the ball had been relayed, is seen moving toward him to tag him out for a double play. If first and second, or first, second and third had been occupied, with less than two out, the trapping would not have been allowed under the infield fly rule. In the afternoon game, the Pirates retaliated in kind when, with Jurges on first, Pitcher Malone popped to Piet and Tony purposely dropped the ball and picked it up and threw to Vaughan, forcing the faster runner and putting the pitcher on base, where he was apt to tire, and Pat later failed to score from second on a single, whereas Jurges might have made it. Smart baseball. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

BUCS PRESSED BY CARDINALS

part of the Buccos. Goodbye, ball game!

Paul Waner came through with a resounding homer into the right-field stands in the eighth inning of the early scrap to give the Pirates a 2-1 triumph over the Bears. The Cubs made capital of the Pirate mistake in the seventh inning of the afternoon contest to win, 6 to 2.

21,000 SEES GAMES

Approximately 21,000 fans saw the two contests. Eight thousand were out early to sit in on a slab duel featuring Bill Swift and Burleigh Grimes. The young Pirate had only a slight edge on his veteran rival.

Tony Piet's single with two out in the fourth scored Gus Suhr with the first run of the game. Frank Demaree opened the seventh with a double and he was able to score the tying run as a result of two fumbles by Arky Vaughan. Brother Paul came up with one out and measured the stands for a homer.

Heine Meine pitched hitless and runless ball through four rounds of the afternoon. Traynor's single and Vaughan's double in the second gave the Bucs a run. Jurges hit one sphere over the rightfield wall in the fifth to force a tie. Demaree started the seventh with a single and Traynor threw high on Hendricks' sacrifice. The two runners advanced on another sacrifice. Jurges' single scored both and the Cubs made the inning produce five runs. Pat Malone pitched the entire game for the Cubs.

TWO GAMES SATURDAY

A doubleheader between the Pirates and Reds will be played at Forbes Field Saturday. Friday's game will be moved back to provide the dual bill. Tomorrow was an open date on the Pittsburgh card, so that the Bucs will be idle for two days.

The Pirate management announced that Lefthand Pitcher Charley Wood, who was farmed out to the Kansas City club of the American Association before the season started, had been transferred to the Pirate farm at Tulsa, of the Texas League.

The Cubs must carry on for a time without the services of a seasoned lefthander. Manager Grimm announced today that Beryl Richmond, a southpaw, had been sent back to Baltimore.

Six Swim Titles At Stake Tonight

Six Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. champions will be crowned in the pool of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement tonight.

The events to be decided are the 300-yard senior medley and 300-yard junior medley and 300-yard medley relay championships for men and the 100-yard junior breaststroke, 100-yard junior backstroke and 50-yard senior free style championships for women.

GRAPHIC GOLF

LEARNING TO SWING THE ARMS

Although Abe Mitchell played many of his golf shots in flat-footed fashion yet with a high degree of skill most of the golf instructors are agreed that co-operation of the feet in the body turn helps proper weight transference.

Standing flat-footed, however, affords a distinct benefit for the beginner at golf. It eliminates the chance of confusing the player as to the proper way to hit with the arms and hands. For this reason not a few pros, Billy Burke included, favor a method of teaching in which the player stands with both feet flat on the turf at the start to gain a better mental picture and physical feeling of just how the arms should swing the club.

Concentrating alone on this fundamental at the outset gives the player certain correct ideas of the way arms, wrists and hands should work and their proper relation to the arc of the clubhead. The stance, of course, is comfortable, and, as the body action is not stressed, it does not impede the arm action as it might do if the player attempted to work out the whole swing at once.

After the golfer gains the feel of the right swing he then can begin to raise the heels to facilitate the pivot.

He will rejoin the team in a day or so, Charley Grimm, Cub manager said.

WATSON TO BOX RILEY HERE

Pittsburgh's first international match since Battling Gizzy boxed Jack (Kid) Berg at the Meyers Bowl will be staged at the Arena, on the North Side, Thursday night, June 15. It will be between Seaman Watson, the British featherweight champion, who defeated Fidel La Barba and lost a hard fight to Kid Chocolate in New York's Madison Square Garden, and Georgie Riley, Negro star, of Detroit and New York, who has knocked out Johnny Datto, suffered a technical knockout defeat by Frankie Wallace when he received a badly cut eye, and then won over Wallace in a return bout, all in the Arena.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond, who closed the match today, said he was confident Riley would take the measure of the rugged Seaman, elaborating:

"Riley is a fast-moving, clever boxer and good right hand puncher. Watson is a body puncher, and I think Riley can keep him off and beat him."

Both Hickey Park and the North Braddock Bowl also were dickering for Watson's services. The Seaman boxes Mose Butch at Columbus, O., next Monday night. An attempt to sign him against Tommy Paul, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, in Buffalo, failed when the Hickey Park management refused to release Paul from a contract to box Jackie Wilson in a return bout in the Millvale arena next Monday night.

HYPERION WINS ENGLISH DERBY

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 31.—(AP.)—Lord Derby's Hyperion, the second choice at 100 to 11, today won the one hundred fiftieth running of the English Derby before a crowd of 250,000, including the King and Queen.

King Salmon, carrying the silks of Sir H. Cunliffe-Owen, was second, and the American-owned Statesman third. Twenty-four ran.

Hyperion, ridden by Tommy Weston, gave Lord Derby his third victory in the event founded by his ancestors in 1870. The last time he won was in 1924, when Sansovino carried the famous silks to victory.

The winner is by Gainsborough out of Sileve.

Hyperion finished four lengths in front of King Salmon. Another length separated Statesman from King Salmon. King Salmon was quoted at 7 to 1 in the betting and the American-owned colt at 20 to 1.

The other two American entries, John McCormack's Franz Hals and W. M. G. Singer's Myosotis, both outsiders in the wagering, were unplaced.

Scarlet Tiger, owned by Lord Durham, was fourth.

Hyperion ran the one and one-half miles over the up-and-down hill course in 2:34 to establish a new record. The previous record of 2:34 2-5 was set by Call Boy in 1927 and equaled in 1928 by Felstead.

Statesman is owned by Victor Emanuel, the Westbury (Long Island) millionaire, who has long been prominent on the British turf.

Frank Jerry Wins A. M. A. Title Run

ERIE, Pa., May 31.—(AP.)—Holding the lead from the start, Frank Jerry, New Castle, Pa., yesterday, won the A. M. A. 15-kilometer run in 59 minutes 32 seconds.

The hard running representative of the Keystone A. C., had a lead of more than a minute over Vincent Pomeroy, of the Times A. C., Erie, who finished second in 1:01:16.

William Greig, of Jeannette, Pa., clinched third place. He was timed at 1:03:30.

WOMEN GOLF TEAMS MEET

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania Women's Team League matches hold the golf spotlight today. Section I swings into action at Edgewood Country Club, and Section II will meet at the Country Club.

Sharing the limelight will be the meeting between the Kiski and Turtle Creek golf teams for the Interscholastic Conference championship, with the Kiski linksmen defending the title they won a year ago.

The Saltsburg team again won the Section I crown this year, while Turtle Creek displaced McKeesport as the Section II victor. Today's losers will meet either Peabody or Allderdice for the runner-up title. The latter teams will clash tomorrow for the right to enter the play-off series.

Record fields played in the feature tourneys at the country clubs of the tri-state district yesterday. All of the professionals reported that it has been many years since so many golfers turned out for the Memorial Day competition.

The first hole-in-one of the season at South Park was scored yesterday by R. M. Brown, who sank his tee shot on the 128-yard No. 10.

STOCKS JUMP IN FURIOUS TRADING

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP.)—Financial markets stormed along in active trading today and for the most part were reluctant to abandon the advance.

Stocks had spotty profit-taking to absorb during the forenoon, but kept irregularly higher even while selling was in progress among numerous veterans. Metals and rails were the chief gainers. Cotton soared $1.50 a bale, then reduced its gains substantially. Wheat was fairly steady. In bonds, the trend held higher.

Wall street's survey of developments over the holiday appeared to have fortified bullish spirits. Markets that were open yesterday, either in this country or abroad, had continued the upward movement so evident here on Monday. Added to this stimulant was a series of midweek trade statistics that indicated maintenance of the peak for some lines. Figures on electric power output were delayed because of the holiday, but brokers evidently assumed the report would have pleasant reading. New York Central's loadings last week were higher than both a year ago or the week previous.

Two commodities, copper and oil, found developments encouraging. In the domestic market, red metal sold at 7¾ cents a pound, the highest price in months, while for the petroleum industry there was news of a reduction in crude oil output last week, as well as passage by the Texas House of a bill designed to curb production by taxing oil extracted in excess of quotas.

The financial community was kept in an inflation mood by the heavy vote given the Steagall gold resolution by the House, although favorable action had hardly been doubted.

COTTON GAINS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, May 31.—Cotton futures opened firm, 22-27 points advance on general buying and higher Liverpool cables. July, 9.40c; October, 9.68c; December, 9.80c; January, 9.91c; March, 10.03c; May, 10.22c.

Houses with European and Far Eastern connections were among the early buyers. There was an active domestic trade and commission house demand promoted by the over-holiday strength in both New Orleans and Liverpool. All positions made new highs for the movement, July advancing to 9.42 and December to 9.83 at the start.

The market became less active later in the morning. Prices sagged from the best under realizing combined with some scattered selling, promoted by the rather reactionary action of the stock market. July eased to 9.26 and December to 9.67 or about 10 to 13 points from the best, although the market at midday still showed net gains of 11 to 13 points.

LIVERPOOL, May 31.—Cotton, 21,000 bales, including 20,400 American. Spot moderate business done; prices 15 points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.20; good middling, 6.90; strict middling, 6.60; middling, 6.45; strict low middling, 6.30; low middling, 6.10; strict good ordinary, 5.90; good ordinar, 5.60. Futures closed quiet and steady; July, 6.12; October, 6.12; December, 6.14; January, 6.15; March, 6.19. Official noon closing value, May (1933), 6.25.

GRAIN VALUES CLOSE LOWER

CHICAGO, May 31. — Downturns predominated in grain prices today, except a transient early advance of wheat.

Monthly private crop estimates on wheat will be given to the trade tomorrow, and are generally expected to show improvement as compared with 339,000,000 probable domestic winter wheat yield suggested by the government May 1 returns.

Wheat closed unsteady, ⅜ to 1 cent under Monday's finish; corn, ¾ to 1 cent down; oats, ⅜ to ⅝ cent off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

STEEL MARKET NOW FAVORS SELLERS

NEW YORK, May 31.—Iron Age says:

Further gains in production and demand, coupled with growing strength in prices, are rapidly establishing the iron and steel industry on the firm footing of a sellers' market. Steel ingot output, which has had an uninterrupted rise since the third week in March, now averages 41 per cent of capacity as compared with 38 per cent a week ago. And expected seasonal influences have not yet come into play to check the forward movement.

The remarkable upswing in tin plate demand has brought output of that product up to 90 per cent of capacity, with full operations likely to be attained within a week. Continued expansion of specifications indicates sustained production for at least two months.

Automotive support of the steel industry is undiminished. Retail sales of motor cars, which for long had been concentrated in the northeastern section of the country, particularly New York and the New England states, are now broadening out in the South and other regions. Miscellaneous steel consumers continue to increase their purchases.

WAGE RAISE LIKELY

Despite the relatively small tonnage now coming from the railroads, the construction industry and the oil companies—all three leading consumers of steel in normal times—May steel bookings were the heaviest for any month in nearly two years for many companies. Demand for sheets and strip steel has been stimulated by the recent advances for third quarter. However, not all companies participated in the advance and at least one that did has withdrawn its quotations. Apparently these producers are disposed to defer action on flat-rolled steel, as well as other finished products, pending definite information on wage rates during that period. The manner in which the American Iron and Steel Institute reacted to the industrial recovery bill makes it possible that the first move of the industry to carry out its part of the program will be a general advance in wages. A 10 per cent increase in coal miners' wages in conjunction with price stabilization negotiations in the coal industry is considered significant.

'CONTROL' PROBLEMS

Notwithstanding their unqualified support of the principles of the industrial control bill, iron and steel producers, as well as consuming interests, are commencing to voice their dissatisfaction with certain provisions and omissions in the measure, as passed by the House of Representatives.

Absence of machinery to regulate foreign competition is regarded as incompatible with increases in domestic wages and costs. The licensing feature, besides being of doubtful constitutionality, is so drastic as to excite universal apprehension. The employment clauses, it is feared, would invite labor trouble instead of promoting harmony in employer-employee relations, while the tax proposals would impose too heavy a burden on lower bracket incomes and discourage investment.

Wool Consumption Higher in April

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Wool Top Exchange estimates total domestic consumption of wool exclusive of carpet wool, in April, at 30,700,000 pounds, compared with 27,900,000 pounds in March and 20,200,000 pounds in April, 1932. Four months' consumption is placed at 136,100,000 pounds against 123,000,000 a year previous.

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XIII.

The Bonta was not a bad little schooner—as schooners go in the South Pacific. She wasn't very dirty. If you would know what luxury is, travel for a bit on a South Pacific 20-ton ketch, particularly if the weather gets a bit dirty. Thus you learn that everything and every place that isn't on her is luxury.

Through the increasing distance I saw Nicki's big form turn away. I had the impulse to tell the skipper to turn back, that I'd changed my mind. But cool common sense said, "Don't be an idiot;" and I didn't be. Besides, I'd paid three pounds to get to Kaewieng. And also, that cool voice of common sense reminded me that the time to leave both places and people is when parting is hardest.

Three perpendicular steps led down to the very real luxury of an infinitesimal cabin-chart room, the whole thing about eight feet square. The furniture was a bunk along either wall, a chart table, and a chest of drawers. There was a tiny port over one bunk. Three steps here led up to the foredeck, where squatted eight wild-haired savages (the crew); on the foredeck, too, was the gasoline engine and a stove for cooking. Two or three ropes of bananas dangling about in the way of everybody.

A SERVANT

A personable young Manus native from the Admiralty Islands was detailed to look after my comfort. He was about 12 years old; his head was well-shaped, and his wool cropped more closely than is the wild Manus fashion. His ear-lobes dangled half-way to his shoulders, and the beads and shell tambaran (native money) wound around them indicated that he was very well off in the world. He wore a short, red laplap confined about his waist with a gay bead belt, and behind his ears were thrust two fresh hibiscus blossoms. His forehead was whitened with lime powder. His eyes were bright and inquisitive.

Bill Watson, the Bonta's skipper, had come upon this little savage five years before out in the Admiraltys, orphaned and forlorn. So he had taken him from his bush village, and brought him up almost as his son. He had named him Baby. There was a great bond of affection and understanding between the taciturn Australian and the young savage. The lad was his master's shadow, doing about everything but breathing for him. I think Watson loved that boy.

HOMELY MAN

As far as features went, I think that Bill Watson was the ugliest man I have ever seen. His face was lined in folds that made him look like a caricatured anarchist. I had seen him a few times at Ah Chee's—a silent, unsociable man who never entered into the noisy tabletalk around him. I liked his eyes, which belied the hard furrows of his face. Watson's eyes said that he had drawn away from the world because he couldn't help it, but that he still looked out at it longing for companionship. Perhaps that accounted for his strange affection for his adopted savage.

I don't know what story lay behind his forbidding exterior. They say he has a wife somewhere "down south." In Rabaul, after he had agreed, through Nicki and Marx, to transport me to New Ireland, [illegible]son had come to me in Ah [illegible] doorway, and said: "You p[illegible] know that I don't like wo[illegible] I've never carried one on [illegible] schooner before. Don't expect me to talk to you."

"I understand that, Captain Watson," I had answered him. "Don't give me a thought. I promise not to bother you."

Two and a half hours of joggling through Blanche Bay brought us to our first stop—a flourishing cocoanut plantation on the New Britain coast. We were to take on some copra there, and I knew it would be several hours before we set forth again. We were met on the bridge by the overseer, who unsuccessfully concealed his surprise at seeing a woman aboard. Bill Watson amazed us both by introducing me pleasantly to the overseer, who in turn asked if I would like to wander up to the big plantation house where I should find cool drinks and could make myself comfortable. He regretted that the planter and his family were all away.

MUCH MISFORTUNE

The plantation house was a magnificent bungalow, furnished not with island furniture, or relics of German days, but with excellent modern things imported from Sydney. On the great veranda, facing the sea from the hill, were comfortable divans and many chaises lounges.

Whisky and soda stood ready and waiting for whoever desired it. A trade breeze blew fair and soft from the bay. Books and magazines lay about on chaises and tables. It was a delightful, restful place. So, in accord with island traditions, I poured myself out a whisky-and-soda and drank a "Johnny Woodser" before stretching out.

I knew the tragedy that lived within the walls of this lovely bungalow. The plantation owner was a German who had wrested much wealth out of the soil that nurtured his palm trees. A quarter of a century ago he married one of the royal Samoans. His wife was beautiful, carefree, and amoral. They had two sons and a daughter, half-caste children, inheriting their mother's beauty and temperament, their father's pride and willfulness.

The mother had eventually eloped with an Australian. The three children, educated in Australian schools, had stormed through their adolescence seeking new sensations and spending money profligately. The oldest son, who looks like a bronze god, had drunk himself into a neurosis that sent him almost over the border-line of sanity. The younger son, barely 21, had eloped with an Australian debutante whose family did not know of his kanaka blood. The marriage had come to tragic disaster, and the disillusioned child-bride had returned to her family. The daughter—beautiful in a tawney, faintly savage way—was barely 18, but already was showing evidences of the kanaka strain.

WATSON AGREEABLE

The palms were throwing long shadows when the Bonta's skipper and the overseer came over to the big bungalow. They came to ask me to have dinner with them at the overseer's shack. I was surprised at Bill Watson's change from the silent, morose man who, at Ah Chee's, had had taken his meals and quickly departed again. Having embarked on his little schooner, he was a different man. I could see that he was even making an effort to be agreeable. The overseer, however, seemed to be a bit unhappy. The presence of the lady seemed to have robbed him of his vocabulary.

His house was a bleakly bare affair of two small rooms and a "house-cook." Absolutely no attempt had been made at comfort. The inside board walls were painted a depressing gray. Triangular shelves filled each corner. Newspapers, reports, a couple of torn magazines, and a blotter that had been used to saturation were strewn over a large gray table. Four nondescript chairs completed the furnishings of the living-dining-room. Somehow the overseer reflected the room—and no wonder. Here was a man who hated the solitude that his job entailed and let his surroundings master him, instead of mastering them. I wondered why he stayed in the islands. Probably because he couldn't make a living in Australia.

Hearing him tell his kanaka servant to open a tin of sheep's tongues, my heart sank. In New Guinea you learn the same aversion to tinned sheep's tongues and tinned sausages that we experience as children to cereal and spinach. I blessed the kanaka when he replied: "Mastah, me got pish." He held up a large gray fish freshly caught. So, by the light of a kerosene lamp with a broken chimney and no shade, we ate of a tin of soup, the fish boiled whole, and cocoanut-leavened bread. The meal was as drab as the host and his surroundings, but I was hungry.

A COURAGEOUS YOUTH

We had as another guest for dinner a young Scandinavian called Axel. As a conversationalist, he was an improvement on the uninspired overseer. It seemed that Axel was going to join the Bonta, and that we were to drop him on the New Britain coast at Talasea. He had acquired a tract of virgin land that he was setting out to clear for a cocoanut plantation. It meant years of exile from the white world, years of stark loneliness, which often leads to madness, before he could hope to realize a shilling from his plantation. He didn't look like a pioneer, he looked like a not very healthy shoe clerk. It seemed sheer lunacy for him to attempt the colossal task ahead of him.

He was taking three native boys and two marys with him into the bush. Out where he was going there would not be even a shelter for himself and his servants until they built it. It was in that section, too, that a few months before there had been wholesale murder of a white exploration party — a "pay-back" murder. Some of the offending natives had been captured and were in jail in Rabaul, but a number of others were still at large. I looked at this slender youth of 20 or so with much respect. If he had misgivings, he successfully concealed them.

THE BRAIN, CENTRAL CLEARING HOUSE OF THE BODY

The nervous system is divided into the cerebrospinal (brain and spinal cord) and the autonomic (sympathetic) division. The former adjusts the body to external conditions, the latter co-ordinates the internal (life maintaining) functions. The brain occupies the interior upper part of the skull down to the level of the eyebrows and has three coverings (meninges) to protect and to convey blood and fluid to the brain: Dura mater (two layers of connective tissue with large veins and fine nerves between), the arachnoid membrane and the pia mater (a vessel-carrying membrane, projecting into the brain). Between the pia mater and arachnoid membrane are spaces where fluid from the brain and spinal chord circulate. The mass of the brain is divided into the cerebrum, cerebellum, the mid-brain, the pons and the medulla oblongata. (See Pictorial Education for June 2). HINDENBURG, THE GERMAN COMMANDER

When the Russians invaded East Prussia at the start of the World War, Marshal Hindenburg was called from retirement and given command over the Eastern German armies, whom he led to victory at Tannenberg. He became then the commander-in-chief, the idol of the Germans who elected him [illegible] the war to his present [illegible] as president: (Simonds: [illegible]tory of the World War). MIXING MACHINES FOR MANUFACTURING PAINT

In these machines pigment is mixed with the vehicle (linseed-, china-, soybean- or perilla oil) to form a paste, which is then ground between two stones to reduce the pigment particles to extreme fineness. The highly opaque white pigments are basic lead carbonate and lead sulphate (white lead), zinc oxide, leaded zinc, litophone and titanium white. White pigments with little hiding power are the "inert materials," such as whiting, gypsum, barytes, silica, China-clay and talc. The colored pigments are classified according to their content of lead, iron, carbon or organic matter. (Chemistry).

DOUBLE GRINDING MILL (Chemistry)

After passing through one set of grinding stones, the paint pigment drops to another set to be ground still finer.

MEASURING THE LUMINOUS INTENSITY OF A LIGHT SOURCE

Luminous intensity or light-giving power of a light source is measured in candle power. The international candlepower is a light source specified and adopted by the U. S. Bureau of Standards. The photometer shown here measures luminous intensity. L is a standard light source of one candlepower; L6 is the light source under test. S, a paper screen with an oil or paraffin — spot in the center is moved between them as long as each side of S is equally illuminated (then the oil-spot will be the least prominent). According to the inverse square law: $1 / X \times X = L6 / Y \times Y$ and $L6 = Y \times Y / X \times X$. If X = 2 feet and Y = 8 feet, as shown, L6 = 64/4 = 16 candlepower. (Croft: Electric Illumination).

DANIELL'S CELL (Electricity)

In the Volta cell, the hydrogen accumulates around the copper electrode, offering resistance to the passage of the electricity and producing an electromotive force of opposite direction to the original current. This phenomenon, called polarization, reduces and soon stops the original current. Cells to furnish current for a longer period have to be "anti-polarized" (the accumulation of hydrogen prevented). The Daniell cell reaches this aim by using a porous pot between the zinc and copper electrodes, the latter forming the outside vessel with copper sulphate as the electrolyte. The zinc is placed in a sulphuric acid solution in the clay pot. The liberated hydrogen reacts with the copper sulphate, forming sulphuric acid. One Daniell cell gives 1.07 volt. (Parsons: Everyday Science).

Gangster Methods Must Cease

Since the doctors have the constitutional and staggering privilege of prescribing 30 quarts a month there is bound to be trouble during office hours.

Suppose an allopath takes a 30-quart man away from a homeopath?

You know the homeo merely subscribes a pill a day or a teaspoonful every hour.

The crowds will never beat a path to his mouse trap. They will go where they can get it by the scoopful.

So, any telephone snooperoo will soon hear this conversation over the wires:

"Doc, you're stepping out of line."

"Sorry, doctor, but I didn't send for him. He steamed in under his own power."

"Doc, you have gotta stop muscling in on my territorial practice."

"Just a minute, doctor, don't bulldoze my patients. That's restraint of trade in quart bottles."

"Well, doctor, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll send you over a hopeless case. He thinks a quart a day will keep the doctored stuff away. And he can't recover. You can sue the estate."

"Thanks, doc, that squares it. How's the old lady coming along with her drinking lessons?"

"Fine. She's walking now. But we expect to have her back in her wheel chair by next week."

"Doc, I got an interesting case. An old retired admiral. He can't take nourishment. We've got to pour it down his throat with an eye-dropper. The only trouble is he is so hospitable you have to drink out of an eye-dropper too.

"That's bad, doctor. You know the oath of Hippocrates. I never drink behind the bar. But I will take a good cigar. So long, doctor."

"So long, doc."

A Lame Excuse

Pennsylvania Jurists' Defense to Charge of Accepting Morgan Favors Is Not Impressive.

Three justices of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court and one of the Superior Court were offered stock at $20 a share by J. P. Morgan & Co. at a time when the stock was selling in the open market at between $35 and $37 a share.

One of the four jurists, Robert von Moschzisker, chief justice of the Supreme Court, has since then retired to private life. At this writing it has not been disclosed whether or not he accepted the Morgan offer.

The other three, Justices John W. Kephart and William I. Schaffer, of the Supreme Court, and Thomas J. Baldrige, of the Superior Court, are quoted as admitting the purchase of the stock. They defend their action, however, on the ground that it was an ordinary business transaction and contained no element of impropriety. It is a lame excuse.

No amount of quibbling or legalistic sophistry can overcome the ugly fact that J. P. Morgan & Co. offered the judges a special favor and they accepted it.

J. P. Morgan & Co. are interested in numerous corporations doing business in Pennsylvania. If cases involving Morgan companies should come before the Supreme or Superior courts for adjudication the judges who accepted Morgan favors would find themselves in an awkward position.

Brand Whitlock, formerly Mayor of Toledo, tells an interesting story in his novel, "The Turn of the Balance." A railroad switchman slipped on an icy track as a train was approaching and lost his leg. He sued the railroad and was awarded damages by a jury. The railroad appealed to the Supreme Court. Some nice questions of law and evidence were involved in the case. Three of the seven justices favored the switchman, three the railroad. The seventh justice wavered. But the railroad company had done him a special favor once—given him a pass, or something like that—and that proved sufficient to tip the scales against the switchman.

It is not well for judges to be under obligation to great corporations or the agents of great corporations that are almost certain to be involved sooner or later in litigation in their courts.

Why did J. P. Morgan & Co. offer the Pennsylvania jurists a chance to make thousands of dollars without risk?

Is anyone so naive as to suppose that this was pure benevolence and that J. P. Morgan & Co. entertained no hope or expectation of receiving something in return?

A Boob Congress

Majority of House, Opposing Necessary Tax Reforms, Display Ignorance and Prejudice.

In their vote on the tax rider to the national recovery bill, a majority of the members of the House of Representatives demonstrated themselves to be impervious to reason and to the lessons of experience.

Mentally walled in by ignorance and prejudice, the majority has shown a lamentable inability to adjust themselves to economic realities.

Rejecting by a vote of 265 to 137 the motion to substitute the sales tax for income and gasoline tax increases provided in the bill, the majority has fostered the notion that this Congress, like the last, is a boob Congress.

The majority closed their minds to the fact that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, reversing himself, urged a sales tax to provide the means of servicing the debt created to accelerate public works and employment.

The majority ignored the fact that President Roosevelt, himself a former opponent of the sales tax, had notified Congressional leaders that he would not veto such a measure.

Evidently remembering the former opposition to the sales tax on the part of farm organizations, the majority ignored the fact that the sales tax principle was adopted to an exaggerated extent in the farm relief measure.

The House majority, unconcerned with statistics, apparently acted in the belief that they were "soaking the rich."

The revelations that neither J. P. Morgan nor any of his 19 partners had paid any income tax to the United States in 1931 and 1932 evidently meant nothing to the sloganeers.

Impatient of realities, the Congressmen did not concern themselves with the fact that the prolonged decline in the value of assets had itself "soaked the rich," and that by taking advantage of the capital loss provision numerous multimillionaires had gone scot free of all taxation.

Likewise, others in the ultra-wealthy group eluded the tax collector by acquiring tax exempt bonds.

The escape of the rich from the tax gatherer enormously heightened the burden of taxation of persons of moderate incomes.

Ignoring the extent to which it had already soaked the professional and salaried classes, the House has voted further to raise the normal income tax rate on the first $4,000 of income from 4 per cent to 6 per cent and from 8 to 10 per cent on higher incomes.

Thus, purchasing power, at a time when prices are rising, will be further curtailed, and to this extent the process of recovery will be aborted.

Likewise, dividends will be subjected to the normal income tax, even though the issuing corporation has already paid a tax on its earnings.

Demagogues and hypocrites in Congress have purported further to "soak the rich" by raising the tax on gasoline, which is used by some 20,000,000 motorists.

Likewise, provision has been made to renew the unsound "nuisance taxes' for another year.

The majority in the House has gone out of its way to substitute hodge podge, unscientific taxation for a general manufacturers' sales tax, which has succeeded so admirably in Canada.

The rate proposed was barely one-third that which is now paid in Canada, which describes the sales tax as a "painless tax."

Advocacy of the sales tax principle by such eminent tax authorities as the late T. S. Adams, of Yale, meant nothing to the economic illiterates in the House.

Acceptance of the reform by organized business through the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was likewise ignored.

Even the patriotic plea from the chosen spokesmen for organized labor was swept aside.

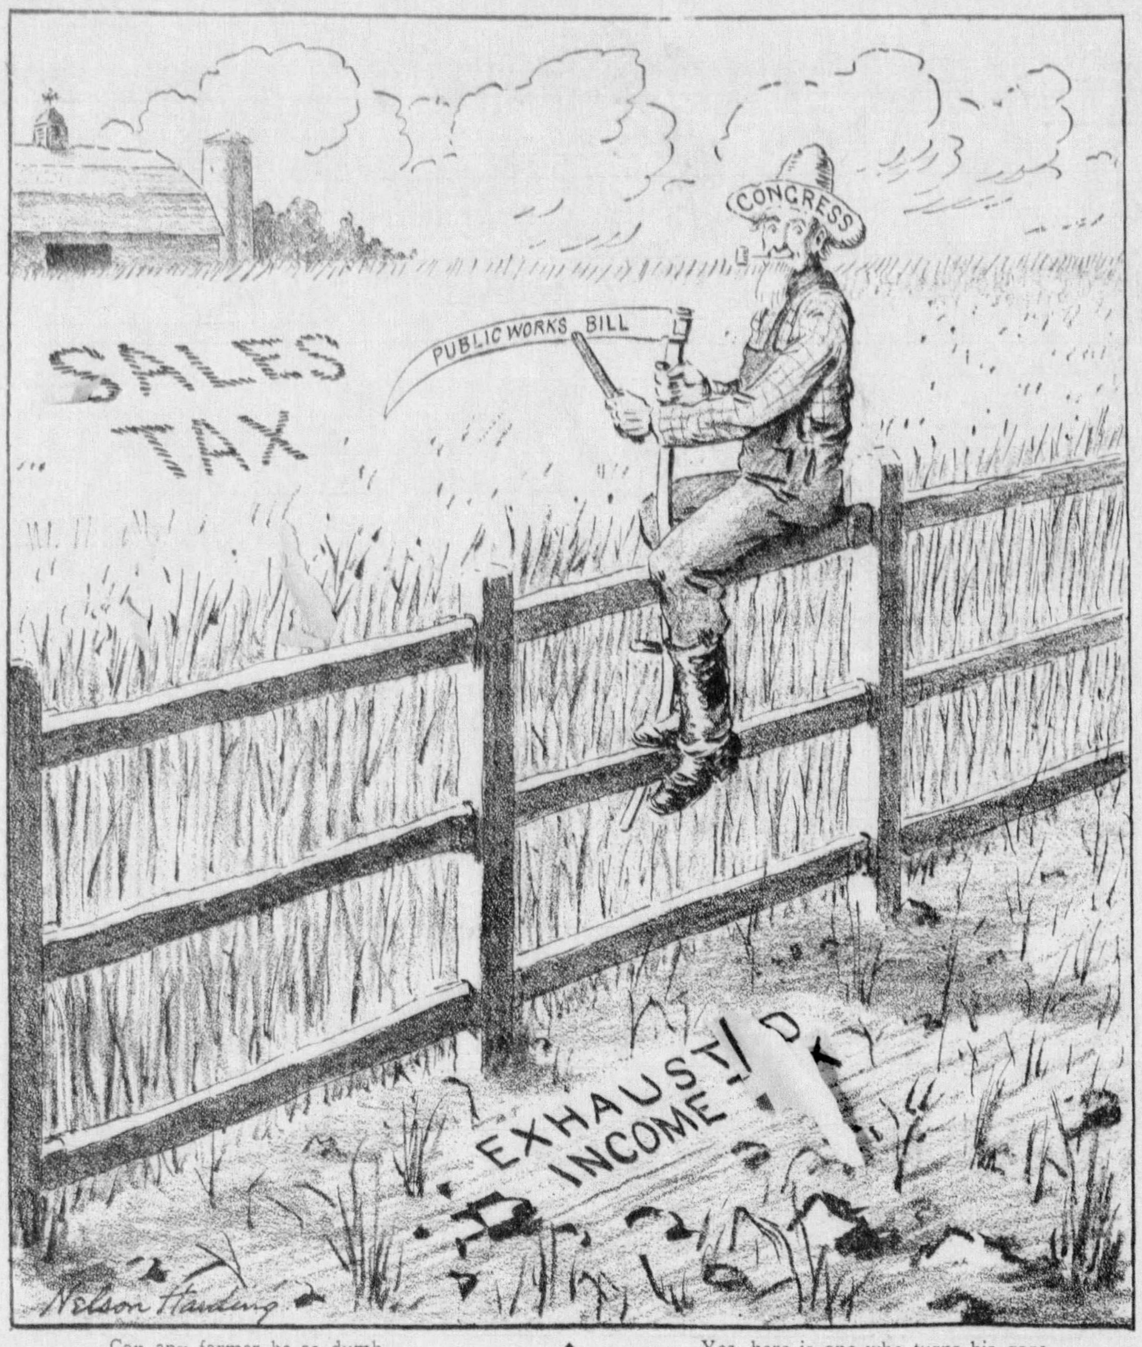
Instead, the House has voted emphatically to add to the liabilities of the confidence-destroying income tax.

The House has ignored the uncertain and speculative character of the yield of the income tax, which habitually fails government in times of widespread industrial depression.

The political hacks, who constitute a majority, put the seal of their approval on the greatest nationwide racket—the so-called income tax.

Mow Where Your Crop Grows! -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding



Can any farmer be so dumb,
A farmer not to know
Which side of that dividing fence
Is worth his while to mow?

Yes, here is one who turns his gaze
Upon a barren field
When it is plain the other side,
A heavy crop will yield.

Marry-Go-Round

Luck in Love

When a popular star of the screen or radio reaches the parting of the ways with the current wife (or husband), every woman's first thought is, "Now, I hope he will show more sense, next time!" or "I trust she has had enough of that type!"

But he won't—and she hasn't! Love and marriage are two things in which few women and almost no men ever profit by experience, and genius takes a delight in double-crossing itself.

Luck in love is not a matter of chance or a matter of judgment—it's a matter of TASTE. Unhappiness in marriage is not an accident. It's just destiny—or the nearest thing to it. Your "fate" is practically decided for you, the day you are born.

A man's taste in women and a woman's preference in men are, like genius or temperament or blue eyes or a club foot; something with which that man or that woman is born, and which can never be changed.

When a fine, sensitive, brilliant man marries a frivolous, selfish little dumb-bell, it is not an accident. And, if he ever escapes from her, he'll promptly proceed to tie himself up with another play-girl who will two-time him or another moron who will bore him to death.

And when a self-reliant, worthwhile, intelligent girl annexes a wavy-haired, worthless weakling, it is not just chance. It is because she prefers something easy-going and ornamental to something strong and dependable.

Sometimes, you almost wonder why a woman bothers to divorce a philanderer or a playboy, since it is written in the Book of Fate that she will only replace him with another of the same type—another Don Juan or another Mother's-darling!

And why should a man waste the energy to divorce one ex-chorus-beauty or one baby-faced screen star or one spoiled debutante when he will merely go out and marry another, before the papers are dry?

We love according to TYPE! And, no matter how many times we change our mates, we can never seem to change our luck. Because we just can't change our propensity for picking the same type or our predilection for lemons or peaches.

* * *

Some of us are fortunate enough to be born with a partiality for sincere, steady dependable people—but lots of us prefer the decorative lightweights. And your fate is decided at your birth by your romantic preferences.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 31.—Many mannikins have graduated from Manhattan dress-making shops to real social distinction abroad the last few years. Most notable, perhaps, is the former Josephine Armstrong. She was selected by Jean Patou several years ago to grace his barn-like salon in the rue Florentin.

Her marriage to Erskine Gwynn, blond playboy of the American colony, was followed by divorce, but the red-haired "Foxy," as she is known around Place Vendome, did not step out of the social picture. She is a constant guest at homes, denied to climbers, in London, Paris, the Riviera and St. Moritz.

Her firm friendships include the Prince of Wales and Mountbattens. Edwina Prue, also a mannikin with Miss Armstrong at the former Maybelle Manning's, is now the wife of Leo d'Elanger, member of the celebrated banking family in London, and attends court functions. Biji Martin is a comtesse.

Dolores, best known perhaps as the statuesque show girl of the Midnight Frolic, began as a mannikin in New York. Now gray-haired but still retaining the beauty that filled first row tables, she is the wife of Richard Wilkinson, noted artist bracketed high in Parisian swank.

Swift changes, incidentally, have come to the lineup of Paris contouriers the last few months. Topping the heap is the Chicago-born Mainborcher, breathed in extreme Gallicism as "Mine-hoshay!" He was once Main R. Borcher, in plastic days a chorus boy, concert accompanist and scribbler on a New York fashion magazine.

* * *

The happy truth is designers for the movie studios are making Hollywood the style capital of the world. There's no longer that weasel phrase with a significant shrug: "It looks Hollywood!" In a recent symposium in Harper's Bazaar, the talented Carmel Snow, I think it was, frankly warned: "Today a mere child knows that if you want Garbo results, you better look Garbo."

* * *

The designer who transformed the gawky and dowdy Garbo into the swaying and sinuous sylph she is today is Adrian, yanked out of the Connecticut brush to spark lustre as a Hollywood exquisite. His creations are curiously periodless and startingly simple and American. He holds down the western fashion front while Peggy Hoyt adds a chic to the eastern decor. And Paris wrings artistic hands.

* * *

Cinema Circes who lead the pack in influencing styles, aside from Garbo, are Dietrich, Bennett, Davies, Crawford, Francis, Tashman and Shearer. I understand the most extravagant gown buyers for personal wear are Joan Crawford and Lilyan Tashman. They buy 50 or so at a crack. Or did.

The other afternoon with a real estate agent I visited an aristocratic old mansion soon to fall under the pick. Next to the Wendell [illegible]e on the avenue it is the most depressing pile in town. It was built in the days of the hackney coach with great stables and wide-walled court yard. Our feet echoed noisily on the banistered stairs. Nothing inspires hushed caution like a deserted house. One feels the intruder. If there were spirits about—perhaps a queer doubt to express in this day—I wondered if they were not arching tut-tutting brows at the newly erected sign out front: "On this site will be erected the largest dance hall, combination beer garden and automat in the world."

Another excursion recently was a lightning whisk through that chauffeurs' paradise, Holland Tunnel. It is the one place drivers can "step on it" without being on the business end of a thumbjerk and "Pull in at the curb!"

* * *

Sitting in the front seat of an open car in the tunnel I unbuttoned my mouth to say something. In the rush of breeze it was a faint: "Galuph unk galoom!" On top of that I went through a cloud of gnats, laughing.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

YOU'VE GOT TO LIVE YOUR OWN LIFE.

You've got to create your own happiness, carry your own grief and kill your own snakes.

And learning this is the hardest lesson you'll ever face.

You won't believe it at first. Indeed, you may never believe it; nor will most of your friends help you to believe it. For the majority of humans are still firmly convinced that Somebody Else is to blame for all their miseries and responsible for their profit and pleasure.

So you'll probably spend a great many years expecting your father or mother, sister or brother, husband or wife to make you happy—or keep you from being unhappy. And, failing them, you're apt to put the bee on the Capitalistic System or the Church—anywhere else, save on your own stupidity or cussedness.

Well, I'm not so keen on the Capitalistic System myself; and I'll admit that families can be plenty cussed. But the fact remains—you'll only waste your time if you try to make the other fellow responsible for your fate.

FOR YOU, AND YOU ALONE, ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR YOUR OWN LIFE.

YOUR OWN LIFE IS YOUR FIRST, YOUR MOST IMPORTANT AND YOUR LASTING JOB.

You don't come into this world to be part of a family—to be a son or daughter, wife or husband, father or mother, neighbor or citizen. You may assume all these positions and duties, and when you do, you should assume them joyously and generously. But they aren't your main purpose on earth.

YOU COME INTO LIFE TO BE YOURSELF.

YOU COME INTO LIFE TO DEVELOP YOURSELF.

AND YOU ARE THE ONLY PERSON ON EARTH WHO CAN DEVELOP YOURSELF.

For where does that development take place?

It takes place inside you. In your own thoughts and feelings.

Not in some other person's thoughts, desires and actions; not in the incidents and accidents which fortune may mete out; but in your own mind and soul—that's where you really live and grow, or die and rot.

AND YOU, ALONE, ARE RULER OF THAT INNER WORLD.

Which looks grand in print, but isn't nearly as much fun in reality. For it's a tough job, being a ruler. You're bound to want someone to carry your burdens, someone to blame for your mistakes. And so you try to pass the blame for your messed-up life to the Other Fellow. Any Other Fellow.

But it won't work. You alone must control that life within yourself.

YOU ALONE ARE TO BLAME IF YOUR LIFE'S A MESS.

"But look at all the tragic things that have happened to me!" you cry. "Surely I'm not to blame for them."

Maybe not. There's a certain amount of our tragedy for which none of us is to blame. But that's the common lot. Tragedy comes to nearly every life, and the fuller and braver the life, the greater the amount of tragedy. But what of it? It isn't the tragedy that counts; IT'S THE WAY YOU TAKE IT. You can't control Bad Breaks—but you can control your own reaction to them.

Socrates laughed while he drank the deadly hemlock. Death had no sting for him! But lesser mortals moan over every hangnail. Whether a tragedy gets you or not, is up to you.

Nor are all tragedies inevitable. We wish the vast majority of them on ourselves, by our own silliness and spinelessness. NINE-TENTHS OF OUR MARTYRDOMS ARE SELF-INFLICTED. There we stick in our miserable mire, not because Fate wills us to stick there, but because we haven't the fighting spunk to get out and get going.

And, being human, we blame someone else for the whole mess.

It's no go. Sooner or later, we must all face the fact that OUR LIVES ARE OUR OWN JOB. And whether we love the other fellow to delirium, or hate him to desperation, he's just a looker-on.

YOU'VE GOT TO LIVE YOUR OWN LIFE—MAKE YOUR OWN HEAVEN, ESCAPE YOUR OWN HELL. AND IF YOU WON'T, THAT'S YOUR BAD LUCK—AND YOU NEEDN'T EXPECT ANY SYMPATHY.

The Human Side of the News

The White Princess of Sarawak Selects a Husband—Two Charming Ghosts—Mussolini's Greatest Achievement

By EDWIN C. HILL.

BEHIND the news that Miss Leonora Brooke is to be married to the British Earl of Inchcape is one of the romantic stories of the world. For Miss Leonora Brooke happens to be not merely the typical blue-eyed, pink-cheeked, vigorously healthy British girl. She is a princess in her own right, so recognized by all the chancelleries. She is, indeed, the Princess of Sarawak, a country which occupies a sizable chunk of North Borneo, a prosperous country with more than half a million inhabitants. And Miss Brooke's father, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, is the white Rajah of Sarawak, and 21-year-old Leonora Brooke is the great granddaughter of Sir James Brooke, who was a simple country gentleman until destiny sent him to the Far East and threw a kingdom at his feet.

It was back in 1840, when British younger sons were carving an empire in the Far East that pirates and head hunters tormented the Sultan of Borneo. By the luck that dogs the footsteps of men upon whom destiny sets her seal, Sir James Brooke was cruising in his private, armed yacht in the Malayan seas. He put yacht and guns at the Sultan's service, routed the sea-robbers and dispersed the wild men. The grateful Sultan deeded him the whole northwestern part of the Island of Borneo, 50,000 square miles and with a present population of 600,000. It sells $35,000,000 worth of products a year, so you can see that it is a pretty rich piece of real estate.

The Sultan gave it to Sir James Brooke, and with royal rank, creating him Rajah Brooke. He was succeeded by his nephew. Sir Charles, who passed the little kingdom and the title along to the present Rajah, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, who was born in 1874 and educated at Cambridge. The Ranee, or Queen, of Sarawak, was Miss Sylvia Brett, daughter of Viscount Vesher, and a granddaughter of a New England matron.

The Rajah of Sarawak is on the same footing in the British Empire as the princes of India. He yields only to the British crown. On all other matters he rules with absolute power his independent state. When he goes abroad 21 guns hammer out the royal salute. In his capital of Kuching, he lives in Oriental splendor. Automobiles, telephones and tramcars have come to Sarawak, but bullock-drawn cars, with solid wheels, still lumber through the streets. Rajah Brooke sits down in Bond street evening clothes to dine with brown Malay princelings in gorgeous striped silks and blazing diamonds.

Sarawak has done handsomely by the Brookes. Only two years ago, the Rajah made a cash gift of $500,000 to England. Not even in the glamorous pages of Joseph Conrad is there such romance and high adventure as sparkle in this tale of old Sir James, who won a kingdom by valor—and his decendants, who have held it by wisdom!

STRANGE noises have been heard in the long-empty old brownstone house at 3 East Sixty-eighth street, in New York City, where Ulysses S. Grant lived after he retired from the Presidency. Through the neighborhood is the story that the house is haunted, though apparently not by the Victor of Appomattox. Much younger spooks appear to ramble by night through the echoing hallways.

I was talking about all this to a very charming and intelligent lady who related to me a ghost-story experience of her own. And nothing in the world could convince her that it didn't occur exactly as she saw it.

"About 19 years ago," she told me, "I rented a quaint old house in the suburbs. It was fully 80 years old, even then. Two months after settling there I awoke one Sunday morning to find that I had badly overslept. As I jumped out of bed I was wondering if I could give the family their breakfast and still get to church on time. Almost dressed, I sat down to put on my shoes when I became conscious that someone was in the room with me.

"I looked toward the door and saw a woman and a little girl standing there. So plainly did I see them in the morning sunshine that every item of their dress is engraved upon my memory. The woman was about 32 years old. She had long, dark ringlets hanging from under her poke bonnet. Her cheeks were a fine, healthy red. Her teeth were fine and white and her eyes were dark. She smiled at me in the most roguish and delightful way.

"She wore a fine Paisley shawl and a hoopskirt. The material of the skirt was brocaded silk, a stripe of wide brown velvet and a stripe of tan silk. On the silk stripe was a design in velvet. The little girl was dressed about the same, except that long pantalettes hung below her skirt, and she wore elastic-side boots. Each carried across her arm a sheaf of yellow chrysanthemums.

"I sat there for several minutes looking at my unexpected guests as they stood in the doorway smiling at me. Then I got up and walked toward them. As I advanced they retreated, still smiling delightedly, as if we were playing a game. As I reached the door they stood in the hall, and then retreated down the stairs. Still smiling, they vanished.

"I have often wondered if those two charming ghosts came with flowers to welcome me to the house that I was one day to own—to tell me, in their own way, that it had been a happy house.

RACKETEERING, hydra-headed monster of blackmail and extortion, has been scotched in this country, but not killed. Industry and business still contribute hundreds of millions a year at the threat of gun and bomb. Apparently it requires all the might and power of a dictatorship to wipe out blackmail, extortion and kidnaping.

Dictatorships are dubious luxuries, but they have their uses. The greatest of all dictators, Benito Mussolini, rid Italy in just nine months of the cruelest and most powerful co-operative blackmail association the world ever knew, the Mafia. He destroyed it ruthlessly and relentlessly, this dragon of evil that had sucked the blood of the Italian people for centuries, and if he had done nothing else in his sane and brilliant rulership, that act of resolute courage alone would have entitled him to his rank among the greatest men of the times.

When Mussolini assumed power in 1922, the Mafia was tormenting, robbing and murdering 4,500,000 Italian subjects every year. Methodically it listed the possible wealth of every citizen and demanded of him an income tax and an inheritance tax. The Mafia collected far more efficiently than the taxgatherers of the Crown. For every child born a head tax was paid to the society. Whenever a peasant sold an ox he paid a sales tax to the dreaded organization. And around the Mafia was a wall of fear and silence that no government before Mussolini's dared to break through.

In 1924 Mussolini struck and never ceased to strike until the Mafia was utterly crushed. His right hand was a man of iron, Cesare Mori, Prefect of Palermo in Sicily, the stronghold of the society. During the first year Mori seized seven hundred Mafiosi and put them in iron cages. That broke the spell. Informers and traitors hastened to give evidence. Hundreds were thrown into prison for life or for long terms.

No longer are men and women found in dark streets with a cross cut on their left cheeks—the sign of the Mafia. And Mussolini can say with pride: "I have reason to boast that I have destroyed the Mafia of Sicily and freed that beautiful island from the historic heritage left by the Bourbon rulers."

Today Italy is freer from lawlessness, probably, than any country in the world because a man of courage and determination made a national clean-up of criminals. A shining lesson for this country.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Spring Mood

Man is the slave of folly,
Toiling through day on day;
It were better to go
Where the sea winds blow,
Dancing with wave and spray!

Wasting the sunsweet hours,
Pent in some dingy room,
Growing each year
Farther from cheer,
Stranger to laughter and bloom!

Man is the slave of folly,
Grasping for golden gain
Till his thoughts grow old
And his heart grows cold,
And his life is a barren plain.

Wiser were joyous pagans,
Back in the dawn of time,
Men who could laugh
At the aureate chaff,
Setting their lives to rhyme.
